agreed upon between the governments of France, Russia, Prussia, and Austria, and by which the several indemnities have been settled, will shortly be submitted for the approval of the diet.

From late London Prints.

It is a most happy reflection to the governors of the humane society and men of sensibility, that in these latter days many, very many of our fellow-creatures are restored to life, who in former times, under the appearances of death, would have been prematurely committed to the grave:

> Long had mankind by dangerous error led,
> Entomb'd alike the Breathless and the Dead!

Mr. Edgar, surgeon, has communicated to the Managers of the above institution an extraordinary instance of resuscitation. "At Lynn, last month during the thunder storm, J. Mitchell, had taken shelter in a cottage, which was struck by lightning: it scaled the walls without and within, and unroofed the dwelling. The unfortunate man was forced by the violence of the electric fluid (which appeared like one sheet of fire) from off his chair upon the floor, where he remained apparently in a lifeless state. On my arrival the various methods recommended by the humane society were assiduously employed, which providentially restored animation, and Mitchell now enjoys life and health." This is the fifth instance of the apparently dead by lightning being resuscitated by the Medical Assistance of the humane society.

LUSUS NATURÆ

Mr. Schwart, counsellor of regency to the king of Prussia, has published in a journal entitled Brennus, commenced some months ago at Berlin, the following account of a very curious phenomenon: "Last year, a Jew, at Posen, in Poland, exhibited for money, a fowl, having a human figure. It had been hatched on a farm near Wirtzenice, which had been made over to the Jew in the payment of a debt. He alledged, that there was another perfectly similar of the same brood, but that it had died very soon after being hatched. The animal which he exhibited, and which I myself saw, was alive and in very good condition. It had grown to the natural size, being more than a year old. The body was covered with feathers of different colours, and the animal resembled all other fowls, with the exception of the head. This was of the usual size, but without feathers, and covered with a bluish skin. The cavities of the eyes were exactly formed like those of a human being; and were surmounted with two small arches of fine down, forming very regular eye brows. The upper part of the beck was shorter than usual, its point being obtuse, and the nostrils placed pretty low, so that, though a horny substance, it completely resembles a well shaped nose. Below this nose was a regular mouth, with lips, two rows of teeth, extremely white, close and pointed, with a full broad tongue, completed this singular lusus naturæ. This resemblance to the human figure had something disagreeable, and even frightful in its appearance. It was, however, perfect, and in tracing it, the assistance of the imagination was unnecessary."

NOTICE.

On the first of September next, if fair, if not the next fair day, will be sold to the highest bidder, the London lands lately advertised by us in this paper.

AS we have before fully described them it will be unnecessary now to add any thing more in their favour. Suffice it to say that their quality and situation can not fail to recommend them to all persons desirous of establishing themselves in that part of the state—being within 40 miles of Alexandria and the Federal City, and as well adapted to farming as any lands in that country.

The terms will be made known on the day of sale.

HEDWICH BOLLYDAY.

Aug. 27, 1802. 1aw3t

To the Public.

When the natural advantages of the United States are considered there is no subject that strikes with more force than our inland navigation. Various attempts have been made to accelerate it by mechanical means of transportation, and great merit is due to the projectors, yet they have unfortunately too generally failed. I now come forward to offer an invention of my own for propelling boats and vessels of any size according to the force that may be applied, totally new and different from any others that have been produced. I will remark that I have produced it, I have experimented it, and it remains with the public to carry it into execution. I refer to the President of the United States, to the Secretary of State, to the Secretary at War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Superintendent of the Navy, and to many of our respectable citizens, who have seen its effects, and who will give their opinions: I refer to the thing itself, where experiments, by manual labour, will convince ocular observation, and obviate useless verbal or written descriptions. It is proper, however, to give some account of its qualities. They consist in its simplicity, in its convenience, its durability, its adaption to manual, horse or steam powers, and in the double or successive stroke. This double or successive stroke is worthy the attention of the mechanic and of the navigator, for by it a constant effect is kept up. It exceeds the common oar by the single stroke only, and of course must gain rapidly when the successive stroke is applied. It can be used either vertically or horizontally, and at the stem, stern or sides of the vessel, and is confined and operated at direct lines instead of rotary lines. Its chief importance consists in its obviating manual labour, being, with the greatest convenience, adapted to the steam engine, whose force is durable, competent, and equable; and this equable force it is that gives uniform power to the successive stroke. It can be used in all cases where rowing can be done, and may be extended to Bays, Lakes and shore coasting trade. Whenever there is want of wind, there lies a principal advantage in the invention. In instances of long rivers, such as the Mississippi, Ohio, &c. it is intended that the machine-boat shall be designated to tow other boats; but larger vessels will justify separate engines. Fuel may be deposited along the shores of rivers at convenient distances to be taken in occasionally by skiffs, so as not to impede the progress of the machine. To the steam engine I would recommend the attention of the public, but machines may be modified for any power, either manual or horse. Besides encouraging this invention for common utility, individuals will be benefited in proportion to the early applications they shall make for privileges, my patent being dated the 22d day of February 1802. In case of applications, I promise to direct the manufacturing of machines, and will give every instruction and aid in my power to accelerate the business. Steam engines can be had made in some of the principal seaport towns, particularly Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore—and other parts of the United States.

State of Maryland,

In CHANCERY,
Aug. 12th, 1802.

Alexander Clagett and Richard Henderson, vs.
Charles Vance & Mazy his wife, & Margery Beall.

THE object of the bill is to obtain the sale of two tracts of land called "Acadia" and "Gleaning," for the payment of a debt due from Isaac Beall deceased, to Samuel Beall, deceased, or so much thereof as will be sufficient for the payment of that debt.

The bill states that Isaac Beall was indebted to David Ross, Richard Henderson, and said Samuel Beall, to secure the payment whereof, he on the ninth day of January, seventeen hundred and seventy five, executed a bond to them for the conveyance of the aforesaid land, with an indorsement on the bond, that it was intended merely to secure the debt. That said Isaac Beall, died without paying the debt, and by his will devised the said land to his children, Ann, Alexander, and Mazy Beall, in tail as tenants in common after the death of Margery his wife, that Ann and Alexander have since died intestate, under age, and without issue, that Mazy married the said Charles Vance, and that they reside in the state of Virginia. The bill further states, that said Samuel Beall has also died intestate, and that the complainant Alexander Clagett, administered on his estate, that the debt due as aforesaid was at the instance of Isaac Beall and his heirs paid by your complainant, Clagett, out of the estate of said Samuel Beall.

It is thereupon on the motion of the complainant ordered, That he cause a copy of this order to be inserted at least once in each of three successive weeks in the National Intelligencer, before the end of September next, to the end that the said Vance and wife may have notice of the complainant's application to court, and of the subject and object of their bill, and may be warned to appear in this court in person or by a solicitor, on or before the first day of February next, to shew cause wherefore a decree should not pass as prayed.

Anne Ogle, Rebecca Dulany, John Tasker Carter, Robert Mitchell, Priscilla Mitchell, Spencer Ball, Betsey Landen Ball, John James Maund, Harriot Lucy Maund, John Chenn, Sarah Fairfax Chenn, Harriot Peck, John Carter Peck, Emanuel Peck, Hugh Quinlan, Tasker Carter Quinlan, Thomas Jones, Frances Tasker Jones, Thomas Jones the younger, Sarah Jackall Jones, Elizabeth Jones, Jane Jones, Sophia Carter, Julia Carter, Ann Lowndes, Francis Lowndes, Benjamin Stoddert, Benjamin Stoddert the younger, Elizabeth, Ann, Harriot, Richard, William, Rebecca, and Christopher Stoddert, Charles Lowndes, Levi Gantt, Harriot Gantt, and Benjamin Lowndes.

THE object of this bill is to obtain the recording of an Indenture of bargain and sale from Benjamin Tasker, deceased, the ancestor of the defendants, whose heirs at law they are stated to be, to Daniel Dulany and Company, for a tract of land called "Piney Grove;" which Indenture bears date July 2, 1732, and was duly acknowledged on the ninth of the same month, but hath not yet been recorded, the omission to record not having proceeded from a fraudulent design or intention in any person whatever.

The bill states that the said conveyance was for the use of the said Daniel Dulany, Charles Carroll, son of Daniel, Doctor Charles Carroll, of Annapolis, Charles Carroll of Annapolis, and Benjamin Tasker, jun. and their heirs, in equal fifth parts, as tenants in common and not as joint tenants; that their interest and estate under the said Indenture hath passed by sundry devises and mesne conveyances, to the complainants in fee simple, as tenants in common, who are now seized and possessed of the said land; that the said Benjamin Tasker the bargainer died intestate, leaving four daughters his only children and co-heiresses at law, of whom Anne Ogle and Rebecca Dulany the defendants, are two; that Frances Carter and Elizabeth Lowndes, the other two of the said daughters, are dead, and that the other defendants are, by marriage or descent, their representatives and heirs at law.

The bill further states, that the defendant Rebecca Dulany resides in the state of Rhode-Island; the defendants John Tasker Carter, George Carter, Robert Mitchell, Priscilla Mitchell, Spencer Ball, Betty Landon, John James Maund, Harriot Lucy Maund, John Chenn, Sarah Fairfax Chenn, Harriot Peck, John Carter Peck, Emanuel Peck, Hugh Quinlan, Tasker Carter Quinlan, Thomas Jones, Frances Tasker Jones, Thomas Jones, the younger, Sarah Jackall Jones, and Elizabeth Jones, reside in the state of Virginia; and that the defendants Charles Lowndes, Francis Lowndes, Benjamin Stoddert, Benjamin Stoddert the younger, Elizabeth, Ann, Harriot, Richard, William, Rebecca, and Christopher Stoddert, reside in Georgetown, in the District of Columbia.

It is on the complainant's motion ordered, That they procure a copy of this order, to be inserted at least once in each of three successive weeks in the National Intelligencer, and in the Maryland Gazette, before the fifteenth day of September next, to the intent that the aforesaid defendants, and all other persons (if any there be) who are heirs of the said Benjamin Tasker, deceased, may have notice of the complainants' application, and of the substance and object of their bill, and that each of the said heirs may be warned to appear here in person or by a solicitor, on or before the second Tuesday in December next, to shew cause why a decree should not pass as prayed.

FOR SALE.

The subscriber intending to move to the state of Kentucky, has and now offers for sale, the following lands, to wit:

A TRACT in the county of Frederick (Virginia) on Buck marsh, within 12 miles of Winchester, and 5 of Shenandoah river, containing four hundred and six acres under good repair, there is on the plantation between fifty and sixty acres of meadow land of the first quality, with a stream of water running through it, which can at no considerable expence and trouble, be watered if required; there is a dwelling house, kitchen, barn, blacksmith's shop, and several out houses, a number of large and never-failing springs, several of which being quite convenient to the dwelling house, there is a valuable apple orchard, together with a number of other fruit trees, of the most choice kind.

A Tract adjoining on said marsh, containing seventy-seven and two thirds acres, with a dwelling house, kitchen, a large commodious distillery with four stills, tubs, and other requisites sufficient, and in complete order for carrying on the distilling business. There is on this tract, ten acres of meadow land, which can be watered; and is an excellent stand for a store.

One other tract lying on the head of said marsh, and within half a mile of the last mentioned tract, and containing the same number of acres; a proportion of which is cleared, and under good inclosure, a convenient dwelling house, kitchen, and barn, with a well of water near the house, and a large spring at no great distance.

Also the tract whereon the subscriber lives, in four separate surveys, six hundred and twelve acres, lying within seventeen miles of Winchester, on the main road leading to Staunton; and on both sides of a large creek that divides the two counties, Frederick and Shenandoah. A proportion of those tracts, consist of rich low ground, on both sides of said creek; about twenty acres of handsome meadow, a dwelling house, kitchen, a large sheaded barn, with a number of other convenient and necessary outhouses, a good garden, a small apple, and pear orchard, and a number of young and thriving cherry trees; there are three small, but good, springs, one of which is tolerable convenient to the house—The above lands are fertile, and well calculated for raising corn, and small grain of every description, and are particularly calculated for grazing farms, as they afford great quantities of the best grass. Any further description is thought unnecessary, as it is expected that all those wishing to purchase, would wish first to view the land, which will be shewn, and the terms of payment made known by the subscriber living on the last-mentioned premises, in Shenandoah county, Virginia.
