NATIONAL INTELLIGENCER.

MESSAGE

From the President of the United States.

Gentlemen of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives.

In pursuance of the act, intituled "An act supplemental to the act, intituled an act for an amicable settlement of limits with the state of Georgia, and authorizing the establishment of a government in the Missisippi territory," James Madison, secretary of state, Albert Gallatin, secretary of the treasury, and Levi Lincoln, attorney general of the United States, were appointed commissioners to settle by compromise with the commissioners appointed by the state of Georgia, the claims and cession to which the said act has relation.

Articles of agreement and cession have accordingly been entered into and signed by the said commissioners of the United States and of Georgia, which, as they leave a right to congress to act upon them legislatively at any time within six months after their date, I have thought it my duty immediately to communicate to the legislature.

TH: JEFFERSON.

April 26th, 1802.

SIR,

WE have the honor to enclose a copy of an agreement entered into between the commissioners of the United States, and those of Georgia, in pursuance of the act, entitled "An act supplemental to the act, entitled "An act for an amicable settlement of limits with the state of Georgia; and authorizing the establishment of a government in the Missisippi territory."

The nature and importance of the transaction have induced the insertion of a clause which renders it necessary that the subject should be communicated to congress, during their present session.

We have the honor to be,
Very respectfully,
SIR,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) JAMES MADISON,
ALBERT GALLATIN,
LEVI LINCOLN.

City of Washington,
April 26th, 1802.
The President of the United States.

ARTICLES of AGREEMENT and CESSION, entered into on the twenty-fourth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and two, between the commissioners appointed on the part of the United States, by virtue of an act entitled "An act for an amicable settlement of limits with the state of Georgia, and authorizing the establishment of a government in the Missisippi territory," and of the act supplemental to the last mentioned act, on the one part; and the commissioners appointed on the part of the state of Georgia, by virtue of an act entitled "An act to carry the twenty-third section of the first article of the constitution into effect," and of the act to amend the last mentioned act, on the other part.

ARTICLE I.

THE state of Georgia cedes to the United States all the right, title and claim which the said state has to the jurisdiction and soil of the lands situated within the boundaries of the United States south of the state of Tennessee, and west of a line beginning on the western bank of the Chatahochie river, where the same crosses the boundary line between the United States and Spain; running thence up the said river Chatahochie, and along the western bank thereof to the great bend thereof, next above the place where a certain creek or river called "Uchee" (being the first considerable stream on the western side, above the Cussetas and Coweta towns) empties into the said Chatahochie river; thence in a direct line to Nickajack, on the Tennessee river; then crossing the said last mentioned river, and thence running up the said Tennessee river, and along the western bank thereof, to the southern boundary line of the state of Tennessee; upon the following express conditions, and subject thereto, that is to say:

First—That out of the first net proceeds of the sales of the lands thus ceded, which net proceeds shall be estimated by deducting from the gross amount of sales the expences incurred in surveying, and incident to the sale, the United States shall pay, at their treasury, one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to the state of Georgia, as a consideration for the expences incurred by the said state, in relation to the said territory; and that, for the better founding as prompt a payment of the said sum as is practicable, a land office for the disposition of the vacant lands thus ceded, to which the Indian title has been, or may hereafter be extinguished, shall be opened within a twelve month after the assent of the state of Georgia to this agreement, as hereafter stated, shall have been declared.

Secondly—That all persons who, on the twenty-seventh day of October, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, were actual settlers within the territory thus ceded, shall be confirmed in all the grants legally and fully executed prior to that day, by the former British government of West Florida, or by the government of Spain, and in the claims which may be derived from any actual survey or settlement made under the act of the state of Georgia, entitled "An act for laying out a district of land situate on the river Missisippi, and within the bounds of this state, into a county, to be called Bourbon," passed the seventh day of February, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five.

Thirdly—That all the lands ceded by this agreement to the United States, shall, after satisfying the above-mentioned payment of one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to the state of Georgia, and the grants recognised by the preceding condition be considered as a common fund for the use and benefit of the United States, Georgia included, and shall be faithfully disposed of for that purpose, and for no other use or purpose whatever: provided, however, that the United States, for the period and until the end of one year after the assent of Georgia to the boundary established by this agreement shall have been declared, may, in such manner as not to interfere with the above-mentioned payment to the state of Georgia, nor with the grants heretofore recognised, dispose of or appropriate a portion of the said lands, not exceeding five millions of acres, or the proceeds of the said five millions of acres, or of any part thereof, for the purpose of satisfying, quieting, or compensating for any claims other than those heretofore recognised, which may be made to the said lands, or to any part thereof. It being fully understood, that if an act of congress making such disposition or appropriation shall not be passed into a law within the above-mentioned period of one year, the United States shall not be at liberty thereafter to cede any part of the said lands on account of claims which may be laid to the same, other than those recognised by the preceding condition, nor to compensate for the same; and in case of any such cession or compensation, the present cession of Georgia to the right of soil over the lands thus ceded, or compensated for, shall be considered as null and void, and the lands thus ceded or compensated for, shall revert to the state of Georgia.

Fourthly—That the United States shall, at their own expence, extinguish for the use of Georgia, as early as the same can be peaceably obtained on reasonable terms, the Indian title to the county of Tallasee, to the lands left out by the line drawn with the Creeks in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety eight, which had been previously granted by the state of Georgia, both which tracts had formerly been yielded by the Indians; and to the lands within the forks of Oconee and Okmulgee rivers; for which several objects the President of the United States has directed that a treaty should be immediately held with the Creeks; and that the United States shall, in the same manner, also extinguish the Indian title to all the other lands within the State of Georgia.

Fifthly—That the territory thus ceded shall form a state, and be admitted as such into the Union, as soon as it shall contain sixty thousand free inhabitants, or at an earlier period if Congress shall think it expedient, on the same conditions and restrictions, with the same privileges, and in the same manner as is provided in the ordinance of congress of the thirteenth day of July, one thousand seven hundred and eighty seven, for the government of the Western Territory of the United States; which ordinance shall, in all its parts, extend to the territory contained in the present act of cession, that article only excepted which forbids slavery.

ARTICLE II.

The United States accept the cession abovementioned, and on the conditions therein expressed; and they cede to the state of Georgia whatever claim, right, or title they may have to the jurisdiction or soil of any lands lying within the United States, and out of the proper boundaries of any other state, and situated south of the southern boundaries of the states of Tennessee, North-Carolina, and South Carolina, and east of the boundary line herein above described, as the eastern boundary of the territory ceded by Georgia to the United States.

ARTICLE III.

The present act of cession and agreement shall be in full force as soon as the legislature of Georgia shall have given its assent to the boundaries of this cession: provided that the said assent shall be given within six months after the date of these presents, and provided that congress shall not, during the same period of six months, repeal so much of any former law as authorises this agreement, and renders it binding and conclusive on the United States; but if either the assent of Georgia shall not be thus given, or if the law of the United States shall be thus repealed within the said period of six months, then, & in either case, these presents shall become null and void.

IN FAITH WHEREOF the respective Commissioners have signed these presents, and affixed hereunto their seals. Done at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, this twenty-fourth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and two.

New Invention.

The IMPROVED SAW-MILL, for which the subscriber has obtained a Patent.

THIS improvement saves the sawyer much labour, and the work is also much more expeditious. The log being fastened, turned down, and the saw started, the whole operation proceeds without further manual aid; for, the instant the cut is finished, the log is run back, and at the same time is gauged to the utmost exactness by the machine, ready for another cut in two thirds of a minute. The saw resumes its action in the log, and thus moves in alternate succession until the whole be cut up in any given dimensions, at which time the mill stops of itself, or at any number of cuts for which the sawyer prepares, for his attendance is unnecessary.

Any person or persons inclining to purchase the privilege, of erecting this valuable and simple machine, or of adding the improvement, to mills now erected, or to any saw Mill already in use, will please to apply to the subscriber at West Bradywine Bridge, on the Turnpike road and near the Turnpike road, Pennsylvania, or to Dr. Thornton, patent office, City of Washington.
