he caused to manœuvre before him. The chiefs of the regiments went each time to him with drawn swords, took his orders, and commanded accordingly. Each regiment particularly was forced to form a square, perhaps in commemoration of the war in Egypt. One of the regiment of the Consular Guard he ordered to exercise, to load and fire, the first rank to kneel, and the other two to fire over it. I do not know whether the word of command was rightly understood, but I am certain of it, it was very badly executed. Half of the companies stood still, considered for some time, and then one after another fell upon their knees. The Consul was so dissatisfied, that he ordered this manœuvre seven or eight times over again. Afterwards the infantry filed off, and a delightful march was heard, not to be surpassed any where. We do not hear the usual marches with the regular repetition. They are more properly march symphonies, composed by good masters, and executed with the greatest precision. When the infantry left the Court Yard, the cavalry entered and filed off before and by the Consul, upon beautiful Hanoverian horses. These regiments made only some few evolutions, which closed this grand parade. Next were, for the the first time, presented, a battalion of sailors, who were remarked for their curious axes and anchor hooks.

MEDITERRANEAN PASSPORTS.

Notice is hereby given, that it has been deemed expedient to change the form of the Mediterranean Passport issued to vessels of the United States, that from the eighth day of July next those of the new form will be issued at the custom houses to every vessel, for which application may be made on a compliance with the terms prescribed by law and surrendering the former passport of which she may be possessed, if any, in which latter case no fees will be required for the exchange; and that by an arrangement agreed upon by the Barbary powers, with whom we are at peace, either the old or the new form of passport will be sufficient to protect the vessels of the United States, from capture until the 1st of July 1805, after which the old form of passport will be unavailable and the new one alone in use.

Department of State,
23d of May, 1804.

The printers of the laws of the United States are requested to insert the above in their Gazettes twice a week for the space of six months, and the Collectors of the Customs to keep copies of it posted up in their offices.

WASHINGTON CITY.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2.

Extract of a letter from Commodore PREBLE to the Secretary of the Navy, dated 14th June 1804, on board the United States Frigate Constitution off Tripoli.

"Yesterday I anchored off the Harbour and sent Mr. O'Brien on shore under a flag of Truce to endeavour to ransom our unfortunate countrymen, and if the Bashaw should desire it, to establish peace. Mr. O'Brien did not succeed in his mission, he landed at noon and returned on board at 1-2 past 2 o'clock P. M. You will see by his instructions how far he was authorised to go for the ransom. I presume if the terms had been accepted that our government would have been satisfied, but they were refused, and we have no alternative but to oblige him to accept them or others more favorable for us.

Extract of a letter from Commodore Preble to the Secretary of the Navy, dated 5 July, 1804, on board the Constitution, Messina Harbour.

WE have taken on board here 700 bomb shells, and powder in proportion and the bomb vessels being ready, we sail to-morrow morning. I hope my next letter will announce to you our success against Tripoli, the restoration of our unfortunate countrymen to the sweets of liberty, and our country an honorable peace.

Extract of a letter dated TUNIS, July 10.

"AT length Naples has felt a spasm of energy; and its squadron for the first time made a visit to this port; but we cannot imagine the reasons which prevented the admiral's making himself master of the whole naval force of this Regency. On the 26th ultimo, one ship of the line, and three frigates, entered the road of the Gouletta, shewing English colours; (most of the corsairs were ready for sea, and anchored at a considerable distance from the batteries) a frigate laid along side of the Tunisian frigate, and commenced the attack by a general discharge of musketry, shewing at the same time the Neapolitan flag; some of the Tunisians on board the frigate instantly cut her cables, while others endeavored to make their escape by swimming to the shore: the Tunisian frigate, drifted under the forts, receiving without any resistance the full force of the enemy's great guns. She was completely equipped and ready for sea; nine of her crew were killed, about twenty wounded; and an equal number of prisoners made, which were taken up by the boats of the Neapolitans: She is considerably damaged in her hull, has two shot between wind and water, and her foremast, somewhat injured. There were no soldiers in the forts, except a few Moors who were not sufficient to man half a dozen guns; they notwithstanding kept up a tolerable brisk fire for nearly two hours after the Neapolitans had ceased; and until they stood out of the Roadsted—no damage was done to any of the other corsairs, and not one captured, except a small Galiota off Porto farina."

We are indebted to a respectable correspondent at Charleston for the following complete statement of the votes given for a Representative in Congress for that District:

Our correspondent adds:

"I inclose you a complete return for member of Congress from our District; you will find I was within bounds when I stated, as my opinion, that Mr. Marion would have a majority of more than 200—Every other member from this state will be republican."

If the result of the elections be such as our correspondent represents, there will be a substitution of two republicans for two federalists, making a difference of four.

The general result of the elections for representatives in Congress which have recently taken place is as follows:

November 2d.

New York. October 29.

The ship Sutan, arrived yesterday in 37 days from Dublin, has furnished Irish Papers to the 20th of September, containing London dates some days later than before received. No event of importance had occurred; but they contain some rumours which deserve notice. The captain of a neutral vessel, arrived at London, reported that the Russians had landed a considerable force on the northen coast of Holstein; and the captain of another said that the French had taken possession of the south of that Dutchy, and had levied heavy contributions on it. Another report, which may have give rise to the former, was, that general Bernadotte had threatened to take possession of it if any Russians were allowed to land there. A Russian fleet of seven sail of the line and six frigates had arrived in the Sound, intended to cruize in the Baltic and the North Sea. A rumour was circulated in London at the Stock Exchange, on the 14th, that a peace would shortly be effected between Britain and France, but nothing had transpired that could corroborate it. Paris papers had been received to the 5th ult. which mention that Bonaparte had reached Mons on his way to Aix la Chapelle.

LITERARY INTELLIGENCE.

The Rev. Mr. Harris has issued Proposals for publishing the Journal of his Tour in the territory North West of the Allegany Mountains; to be illustrated with Maps and Views. The Prospectus leads us to expect much topographical information respecting an interesting part of our country, of which there have been published only vague and exaggerated accounts; with some curious particulars of the appearance, dimensions and probable history, of the prodigious forts and pyramidical mounds on the banks of the Muskingum and Scioto—"the solitary evidences of a great population in some remote, forgotten period."

It is hoped that a work so valuable and curious will be favored with the most liberal patronage.
