ſiderable additional force was expected to follow them in a ſhort time.

SEMLIN, Jan. 28.

A numerous body of Turkiſh troops is now on the way to join the Servians, for the purpoſe of co operating in the ſiege of Belgrade.

The military preparations are carried on in Servia with all poſſible activity. It appears, that beſides their plan of occupying the banks of the Drina, the Servians have in view ſome ſecret expedition.

All the poſts of the cordon of troops along our frontiers have been doubled: and a body of infantry is daily expected to reinforce the garriſon of this place.

Frontiers of Italy, Jan 29.—Nothing is talked of at Milan but the changes which are preparing in the government of that country, from the reſult of which the greateſt hopes are entertained. The Italian republic has always appeared to the greateſt part of enlightened perſons merely proviſionary. It was diſtinctly felt, that the great change which has been affected in the government of France, muſt neceſſarily produce one likewiſe in that of the republic, and that the emperor of the French would not long remain the Preſident of the Italian republic. Every reaſonable perſon would wiſh to ſee its place ſupplied by an independent and hereditary monarchy; and it is generally expected that a prince of the Houſe of Bonaparte will be placed on this throne—Many political changes will probably be the conſequence of this event.

FEB 2.

On the 26th of January it was announced to the French garriſon of (Italian) Verona, that the emperor Napoleon, the pope, and prince Joſeph, would arrive at Milan in the courſe of the month of February. The latter will be crowned king of Lombardy, and conſecrated by the pope. A great number of troops are on their march to be preſent at the event.

New York, April 29.

The following intereſting, though melancholy information, we yeſterday received from a friend in Boſton.

Marblehead, April 24.

Arrived this day, the ſchooner Joanna, capt. Henry Quiner, having picked up on the eaſtern part of the Grand Bank of Newfoundland, the yawl of the ſhip Jupiter, late of New York, with the captain, mate, one ſeaman and five paſſengers, which ſhip was foundered by the ice at 12 o'clock on the night of the 6th inſt. on her paſſage from London to New York, having on board 73 ſouls, 27 of whom were loſt in the ſhip, 38 including the ſecond mate and remainder of the crew, took to the long boat, which parted company from the yawl, on Monday the 8th, in heavy ſqualls, after having left the ice that morning.

The following particulars of the loſs of the Jupiter, are communicated to us by capt. Law:

Sailed in the ſhip Juniper from the Downs for New York, March 6th. Nothing remarkable occurred, excepting frequent gales and bad weather, until April 6th, being then in lat. 44, 20, long. by account, 49, at 8 o'clock in the morning ſaw a great number of pieces of broken ice which was paſſed in about three hours, when we ſuppoſed ourſelves clear, ſteering weſt by north, wind E. N. E. and foggy, moderate weather, at 2 P. M. began to diſcover iſlands of ice, and by 3 o'clock ſaw a large field ahead which appeared to have no opening, then wore ſhip and kept off to the ſouth and eaſt, continually paſſing ſmall iſlands, until 5 P. M. when we found the ice extending ſo far to the north and ſouth, that we could not clear, it hove about and ſtretched to the north among broken ice until night came on and no proſpect of getting clear, hove too under double reefed topſails, in hopes to have ſufficient drift to keep clear of the fields to leeward until day light, but found, at 11, that we were drifting faſt on a large iſland, was obliged to ware ſhip and haul to the ſouthward, under eaſy ſail, luffing and bearing away for the broken ice, as occaſion required, until 12, when we ſtruck upon a ſmall piece which penetrated through the ſtarboard bow; immediately rigged both pumps, and the boat outs; 38 men women and children got into the long boat, and eight in the yawl, and put off from the ſhip, which went down in about half an hour from the time ſhe ſtruck, having on board at the time the boats left her, 27 ſouls who periſhed with the ſhip; we then ſhaped our courſe to the weſtward, continually relieving the oars, and with difficulty finding a paſſage for the boats through the fields of ice which we were paſſing during the remainder of that night, the next day and night, until about 12 o'clock on Monday, A. M. having gone about 100 miles W. S. W. from the time of leaving the ſhip; at 12, finding after we had cleared the ice, a rough ſea beginning to make, ſo that the yawl was unſafe in tow, and they not being willing to increaſe their number in the long boat, requeſted them to cut us adrift, when they immediately left us ſteering north, with a ſail ſet, and a freſh breeze from the ſouthward; our ſituation was now ſuch, that we were obliged to keep before the wind, it being very ſqually with heavy rain, and the yawl being ſo deeply laden as to make us apprehenſive that ſhe would immediately fill. About ſunſet the wind abated, and the ſea moderated, ſo that we were enabled to pull to the weſtward, which we did from 7 o'clock, until 8 A. M. on Tueſday, the 9th, when we had the happineſs to diſcover a ſail which we found to be the ſchooner Joanna, capt. Quiner, who humanely received us on board, and paid us every attention which was in his power, and which our ſituation after ſuffering much from fatigue and being conſiderably injured by froſt, rendered neceſſary for the preſervation of our lives.

When we parted company with the long boat, they had plenty of proviſions on board, and ſtrong hopes are entertained that they were ſo fortunate as to meet with a veſſel ſhortly after, there being ſeveral at no great diſtance to the w ward, or that they would be able to reach ſome port in Newfoundland.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in England to his friend in this city, dated

"Second-month 14th, 1805.

"I believe I have already informed thee, that our committee for the abolition of the ſlave trade, lately reinforced by a reſpectable addition of new members, has reſumed its activity in conſequence of W. Wilberforce's intention to bring the queſtion, this ſeſſion, under the conſideration of parliament. He has already announced it to the Houſe of Commons, and the day propoſed for the diſcuſſion, been more than once ſuſpended by what is deemed by ſome more important buſineſs. And although melancholy experience has evinced that little reliance is to be placed on the moſt flattering proſpects, even the opponents of the meaſure admit that there is now a better chance of ſucceſs than at any former period. The ſtate of my health of late has not admitted a frequent attendance of the meetings of the committee; but I underſtand that ſo much ſatisfaction was afforded by the reports of your committee of correſpondence, on ſome points, that further communications on thoſe and others mentioned, or alluded to in my letter, will be highly acceptable. In intimating thus much to the latter committee, I repeat my requeſt, that in the name of our's, thou will acknowledge the kindneſs of its communications, and the ſenſe we entertain of their importance. The occaſion has again drawn our friend Thomas Clarkſon to London, where his aſſiſtance is peculiarly acceptable to W. Wilberforce. The able Author of the Criſis, &c. is alſo very aſſiduous in his contributions of labor and talent; and I expect we ſhall ſoon ſee, from his pen, one of the beſt of the very valuable tracts, which have been publiſhed on this momentous ſubject.

"John Norton, the Mohawk Chief, remains in the vicinity of London, and yet undetermined on the time for embarking on his return homeward. Since our firſt acquaintance, his has been much extended, and he is a good deal noticed as an intereſting character. He has been employed in the tranſlation of the Goſpel of St. John into his own language, and in reviſing an edition of two thouſand copies, printed for the uſe of his nation. His tranſlation into Engliſh of the preface, written by himſelf, beſpeaks a capacity for ſuch a work, and induces a hope that it is done properly. As he ſeems to be ſo diſpoſed, I doubt not he may be extenſively uſeful in aiding your benevolent endeavors for the civilization of the Indians; and on that account, I have expreſſed to him my wiſhes that in his way homeward, he may give the Friends, principally active in that concern, opportunities of conference; believing they may prove mutually uſeful and ſatisfactory."

WASHINGTON CITY.

FRIDAY, MAY 3.

Every new mail from Maſſachuſetts brings us a diminiſhed federal majority for Mr. Strong, the federal candidate for governor. Our lateſt ſtatement exhibits the votes of 414 towns as follow:

For Mr. Strong,	34.008
Mr. Sullivan,	32,328
Federal majority,	1,680

In the laſt year, the votes for the ſame towns were,

For Mr. Strong,	28 900
Mr. Sullivan,	23,106
Federal majority,	5 794

which is greater by 4 114 than the majority of this year. We ſhould be led to queſtion the final iſſue of this election, but for the poſitive, and uncontradicted aſſertions, of the Boſton Federal prints, that Mr. Strong is re-elected.

Accounts from New Orleans of the 4th of April, ſtate that the Louiſiana Bank went into operation on that day. The Caſhier of the Branch Bank of the United States, had arrived and purchaſed a houſe for the inſtitution. An Inſurance Company, with a capital of 200,000 dollars is now open for ſubſcription in that city.

A line of mail ſtages has commenced running between Pittſburg and Wheeling. By this conveyance, together with the Pittſburg ſtages, a perſon may perform his journey from this city to Wheeling in eight days and a half. The fare from Pittſburg to Wheeling is four dollars, twelve cents and a half. Phila. paper.

Philadelphia, April 29.

Captain Tatem, arrived this morning from St. Thomas, informs, that on the morning of the 6th inſt. he ſaw a Britiſh 44 gun frigate off the harbor, and 8 larger ſhips in ſight. A boat was ſent aſhore; and in the afternoon, ſaw them go through the paſſage, ſuppoſed to be bound to leeward. This, moſt probably, was the Britiſh ſquadron, under admiral Cochrane. He heard nothing of the French ſquadron.

A letter from London ſtates, that another bill had been brought into the Britiſh Parliament, for the abolition of the Slave Trade. It was advocated by Meſſrs. Wilberforce, Bareham, Fox, and others; and oppoſed by Gen. Tarleton, Gaſcoigne, and others; when the queſtion, "ſhall the bill have a ſecond reading?" was negatived 77 to 70. The bill was therefore loſt.

Extract of a letter from Halifax, dated March 2.

"An extraordinary deciſion took place here in the court of Vice Admiralty on Wedneſday laſt. The facts were theſe—Meſſrs. Scott and Tremain, of your city, ſhipped per the ſchr. Nancy, captain Huxford, 190 barrels of tar, conſigned to Meſſrs. Tremain's of this town, which were ſeized by the collector of the cuſtoms under an idea that no perſon whatever, reſident in the United States, could legally ſend property to this country; and the judges of the admiralty, condemned the tar upon that principle. This ſentence, we underſtood will be appealed from; but, until the iſſue of the appeal is known in England, we ſhall recommend it to all our American correſpondents, by no means to ſend their property here."

LORD THURLOW.

Mr. Pitt, when chancellor of the exchequer, was ſufficiently notorious for the poſitiveneſs with which he delivered and ſupported his opinions. Lord Thurlow once rebuked him in his own way. Mr. Pitt was declaiming, at a cabinet dinner, on the energy and beauty of the Latin language, and, amongſt other things, mentioned as a peculiar elegance in it, that two negatives made a thing more poſitive than one affirmative poſſibly could. "Then," ſaid Thurlow, "your father and mother muſt have been two negatives, to have made ſuch a damned poſitive fellow as you are."

An extensive Field for Speculation, is offered in the Sale of the

POWHATAN ESTATE,

Which lies contiguous to the lower limits of Richmond, contains 3000 acres of land, borders near a mile on James river, and runs 5 miles back

The principal part is fine grain land, covered with valuable timber, convenient to a ſaw mill erected thereon, which has cut 1700 feet per day and connected with a griſt and manufacturing mill, on a conſtant ſtream with two pair of ſtones.

There is a ſmall farm, with a commodious brick manſion, ice houſe, the uſual offices, and two fiſheries.

It has many elegant ſcites for building, furniſhed with good water, commanding views of the city, falls and ſhipping, which lie oppoſite to them.

There is a beautiful level already laid out into lots, at right angles, on the river.

The peculiar advantages of this property are multiplied by a late act for the eſtabliſhment of an inſpection of Tobacco on it, and the act for uniting the upper and lower navigation by locks, which as the proper point of junction render it valuable for ſtore houſes.

Few perſons are unacquainted with the political importance of Richmond, as the capital of the moſt influential ſtate of the union, nor its commercial advantages from the immenſe quantities of coal, flour and tobacco, which paſs through its market—and will it be neceſſary to add? that theſe advantages will be ſhortly increaſed by the weſtern produce brought through the Kanawha to this navigation and depoſit, to be thence ſhipped directly abroad when the contemplated improvement of the lower navigation ſhall be complete.

It is ſubmitted to monied men to conſider whether a purchaſe by ſhares either to ſell out or improve parts of this growing eſtate, would not in a few years afford a certain and handſome remuneration for their attention; being free from thoſe contingencies to which many inſtitutions are liable
