Richard Merriken, John Francis Mercer, Lloyd Dorsey and Joshua Clarke Higgins, are elected for Anne-Arundel county, and

Francis M. Hall, Archibald Van Horn, Alexander Contee, and Henry A. Callis, for Prince George's county.

ST. MARY's COUNTY.

From a Correspondent.

"I enclose a state of the polls in the different districts of our county for delegates to the General Assembly. This year the Federalists nominated their most popular characters and yet in proportion to the number of votes taken we have 70 or 80 more than we had last year. There were by no means the exertions made this that there was last year, and one of the republican nominaion declined on account of the situation of his family's health.

An arrival from Port-au-Prince states that the British had actually got possession of Cape Nichola Mole.

An arrival from Bristol, (Eng.) brings advices from that place to the 1st of September, and London advices to the 27th of August. She brings no important news.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15.

Extract of a letter from a mercantile House of the first respectability in England, to their correspondent in this city, dated Liverpool, Aug. 21, 1805.

"Several American vessels bound from French and Spanish ports in the West Indies, to the continent of Europe, have of late been detained, and brought into this country by the British cruisers, on account of their carrying on a trade, in the present time of war, that they were not entitled to do it in the time of peace. Some of those vessels have been condemned; but, in consequence of a representation from the American merchants to the Privy Council, an order is just past, a copy of which we hasten to communicate to you as follows:

"That all ships that may now be on their passage, or may clear out from the Havanna, &c. prior to the 1st of November, should be protected from molestation by British cruisers, and from condemnation in the courts of Admiralty, and are therefore pleased to order his majesty's advocate-general to prepare the draft of Instructions to the courts of admiralty, and to the commanders of his majesty's ships of war and privateers, requiring them not to molest or detain any such vessels which shall have been cleared out prior to the first of November next; and in case any vessels under those circumstances shall have been seized and brought before any court of admiralty, the same to be forthwith liberated, upon proof being exhibited that they were cleared out from those countries prior to the said first day of November next."

"This order, we presume, applies to the colonies of Holland, as well as to those of France and Spain.

"It is, however, a most extraordinary fact, that any government should undertake to prescribe the period, when it proposed to commence aggression on the commerce of a neutral and friendly nation."

DIED

At his country residence, on the 5th inst. in the Barrens of Baltimore, John O'Donnel, Esq. aged 56 years.

It would be ungrateful in a citizen of Baltimore to announce the demise of this very respectable gentleman, without at the same time mentioning a few of his valuable characteristics, and a part of those acts of public beneficence which marked that useful and active period of his life spent in and near the city of Baltimore.

Possessed of a large fortune, he bro't to this state and city a mind that sought to benefit the country, and devoted and applied a considerable portion of his substance to objects of great national importance.

The foreign cattle of different species, and of the most approved breeds of each, which he imported from Europe and multiplied at a great expence, remain a rich and invaluable legacy to our farmers.

The number of houses which he erected in Baltimore accelerated the moment when its exports and imports ranked it the third commercial city in the union; and while they added much to its magnitude and appearance, served to revive industry, then drooping, and to circulate his ample wealth in a thousand channels.

He was the founder of that elegant edifice in which the dancing assemblies are held, and in which the public library is deposited; the handsomest, perhaps, and the most spacious for such purposes to be seen in the United States.

He was always ready and liberal in promoting with his purse, works of general utility; & in some instances, as those of supplying shipping with wholesome water at the Point, projected and carried them into effect solely with his own means.

In acts also of hospitality, benevolence and charity, who is the man in this community who hath exceeded him?

He was a colonel in the militia for several years, and beloved by his regiment: he resigned his commission, when he felt his growing infirmities interfered with the duties of the officer.

He was a delegate from this city to the state legislature. No person could commit his thoughts to paper with a more rapid pen, or express them more perspicuously. The writer of this sketch has a manuscript of above ten pages, composed by him in the course of an evening, when a member of the assembly, pointing out and enforcing the various advantages that he conceived would result to the state, from rendering the Susquehannah a safe and public highway for commerce.

As a husband and a father, he was indulgent and affectionate; as a friend, warm and without guile; as a companion, facetious and improving. Having travelled much in distant countries, and carefully observed the customs and peculiarities of different people, he could use promptly and aptly in conversation the knowledge he had gained, and the facts he had collected.

In his last illness, which was long and excruciating, he still retained, and would occasionally exhibit, that cast of remark which characterised his gayer and happier moments.

It would be easy to enlarge: The difficulty is, to say so little of a man to whom our city and state is so much indebted, and whose character comprised so many grounds for praise and for reflection.

He retained his senses to the last; gave precise directions respecting his funeral; consoled his weeping family; and resigned his soul, in humble hope of an happy hereafter, into the bosom of his merciful Creator.

"No further seek his merits to disclose,
"Or draw his frailties from their dread abode,
"There they alike in trembling hope repose,
"The bosom of his Father and his God."

Alleghany.

The ſubſcriber having determined to reſide in Alleghany Co. Maryland, offers for ſale 20.000 acres of land there and in Hardy County, Virginia, which is ſeparated from Alleghany county, only by the North branch of Potomac. The land to be laid of in ſmall or large quantity as to ſuit purchaſers. He will remain here till 5th October, and be in Weſtern Port at the mouth of Georges creek, 25 miles above Cumberland on 12th of October, for the expreſs purpoſe of ſhowing, ſelling, and laying out lands for thoſe who wiſh to purchaſe. The terms of ſale will be very reaſonable, and a long time allowed for a large proportion of the payments, and produce or ſtock of any kind will be taken from year to year, at the Cumberland prices, and as he will want land opened, labor will alſo be taken in payment. A ſmall payment will be expected at the time of purchaſe, ſay one Eighth part, which may be made in caſh, good notes, bonds or ſlaves. He alſo offers a number of good lots at the weſt end of the city of Waſhington, and his dwelling houſe, out houſes, garden &c. in George Town, now under the occupation of Waſhington Bowie, Eſq. The lots will be ſold for caſh or on a long credit, or leaſed on ground rents. The place in George Town is one of the handſomeſt in the world, is well calculated for a man of buſineſs, and particularly well for a gentleman with a family of Children to educate, it being ſituated in the midſt of excellent ſeminaries for male and female, and good ſociety, with fine water and excellent health. For further Particulars reſpecting the city and George Town property, apply to Mr. CHARLES WAYMAN in George Town. The country at the head of the Potomac, where the ſubſcriber offers his lands for ſale, has perhaps important advantages over all other new countries, though in general it is mountainous, yet there are large bodies of land ſufficiently level, and fertile in a high degree. No country is more healthy, none better adapted to farming and grazing. The crops of Indian corn are from 5 to 8 barrels the acre, in the common mode of cultivation, and there is no country ſuperior for wheat, rye and oats, but its greateſt advantage over moſt new countries, is its convenience to market, being not more than 150 miles from the ſeat of government of the United States; to which the produce can be brought by water. Thoſe who may wiſh for further particulars, may ſee me in George Town any time between this and 5th of October.
