INTRODUCTION.

A DESIRE to know one's ancestry is inherent in mankind and has the sanction of divine authority. The Jews were commanded to keep and maintain their family line of descent, and a failure in this respect was sufficient cause to exclude them from the temple service. While no obligation rests upon the present generation to preserve their family record, we have the promise of God that He will honor those who honor their ancestors, and this allegiance can be rendered no more effectively, perhaps, than in preserving their record and good name in a work of this nature.

The practice of keeping a family record is supposed to be quite general, but when research is made for the purpose of tracing definitely the genealogy of one's ancestors, it is often found that such record extends only to the parents or grand-parents, and in many instances is quite incomplete, and frequently copied in small books or on loose sheets of paper, thereby rendering it difficult to obtain reliable information.

In the autumn of 1880, a beginning was made to trace the descent of John Cunditt, who was said to be a resident of Newark, N. J., in 1678. At that time, at the home of Edgar M. Condit, of Condit, Ohio, the authors were shown a manuscript barely covering two pages of foolscap paper, being an abridged record of some of the early families, written in 1850 by Hon. Silas Condit, of Newark, N. J. From this nucleus researches were commenced as a matter of personal interest and information. After considerable correspondence with members of the different families, frequent requests were made for the publication of the history thus gathered, to which we reluctantly acceded, and thereupon entered more systematically into the details of the work—the result of which is now before the reader.

The effort to produce a reliable and correct record has consumed much valuable time and study, an immense correspondence, and no small amount of travel. An earnest endeavor has been made to secure the names and dates of every family of the name of Condit in this country, and none have been omitted whose address or place of residence could be ascertained.

Perfection in the work is not claimed, but where names are found misspelled, or errors occur in dates, such are mainly due to copying—in some cases from second and even third parties. Where blanks occur, (and fortunately there are but few for a work of this kind and size,) they are partly due to inability to personally procure the required names and dates, but in most cases to a failure on the part of others to furnish the information requested.

No attempt has been made to trace the family name beyond the seas; as citizens of the United States we content ourselves with an expression of gratitude to the mother country for her production of our worthy Christian ancestor.

To preserve uniformity in the work, we have adopted the generally accepted form of spelling the name, believing that it will meet with approval. A respectable number still adhere to the name "Condict," probably with even better authority than those who spell theirs differently, as we find many early wills and deeds on file signed "Cundict." The reader will observe that the first two persons of the name in America used different methods of spelling, viz., "Cunditt," and "Cundict," neither of which are now in use. Those adhering to the name of "Condict," are, for the most part, descendants of Peter, of Morristown, second son of John, the ancestor.

The modern plan of numbering each individual of the descent, at the time of their birth, has been adopted, and it will be found convenient in tracing the further history of such descendant, as the number is preserved later on where a record is given of the marriage and family.

The course of descent is carried under six heads, corresponding to the six sons of Peter, the only married son of John, the ancestor, and in the order of their birth. For convenience, the index is also made in six parts, enabling the reader more readily to find his or her name, than could be the case were there but one general index.

We take this occasion to acknowledge our obligations and express thanks to all who have so kindly assisted us in our researches, and hope they may find as much pleasure in the possession of this book as we have in compiling it. And we trust that some one may be found to continue the record, and possibly excel us in furnishing to the world a better and later history of the family.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

During the printing of this volume, information was received by the compilers too late to be inserted in the proper place; this is given below, together with certain corrections of dates and names which are necessary to explain what would otherwise prove to be confusing.

ANCESTRY OF THE CONDIT FAMILY, IN AMERICA.

JOHN CUNDITT is first known in this country in 1678. He was the purchaser of lands "in the bounds of the town of Newark," Essex county, N. J., in 1689 and 1691. This land was conveyed to him in two deeds.* The first, from Richard Hore, dated February 27, 1689:

"For several good causes and lawful considerations me hereunto moving, but expressly for and in consideration of thirteen months' board and fifty shillings have granted and sold unto the said John Condit eight acres of upland in the town of Newark and bounded on the north by Hans Albers—on the east by the river—on the south by said Condit,† and on the west by a highway.

(Signed) "RICHARD HORE, by his mark."

The second is from Richard Laurence, March 24, 1691, and conveys to John Condit, weaver, nineteen acres of upland, for a lawful sum of money; this lot is described as on the plain commonly called the "Mill Brook Plain."

"On the north side of the mill brook bounded on Pisaick river east—a highway west—by John Bruen south—his own lands north.

(Signed) "RICHARD LARENCE."

* By the courtesy of the Secretary of the New Jersey Historical Society we have taken copies of these papers from a volume of manuscript deeds, embraced in their noted and valuable archives of the early history of New Jersey. The orthography of the name is preserved as we find it in these old records.

† As will be seen by this deed, he was already the owner of lands, the record of which has not been discovered.

John is known to be the ancestor of nearly all bearing the name of Condit or Conduct in the United States. Of his ancestry nothing is certainly known. Tradition says he came from England or Wales. If from either, it is probable he was a native of the latter, as we learn from residents of that Province that there are those now living there bearing the name "Conduit." Reasons exist, however, for believing that he may have been of English extraction, as the name has honorable mention in English history.*

John Cunditt, of Norman descent, was married first in Great Britain, where his wife died. He came to America in 1678, with his son Peter, and settled at Newark, N. J., where he married, second, "Deborah," by whom he had a son, John, who died a minor. There is also reason for the belief that Deborah had a daughter by a former husband, named Mary, who married Captain John Morris, who died October 22, 1749, aged 83 years; she died December 10, 1761, aged 84 years, and her grave is in the Orange burying ground.

The father died in 1713. His will, now on file at the office of the Secretary of State, Trenton, N. J., is as follows:

In the name of God, Amen: I John Cunditt of Newark in ye County of Essex and Eastern Division of New Jersey: weaver: being sick and weak of body but of perfect mind and memory thanks be given unto God. Therefore calling unto mind ye mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed unto men to

* John Conduit, Knight, married in England a widow, Catherine Barton, who was a niece of Sir Isaac Newton, with whom they resided during the life of Sir Isaac, and inherited his estate. He succeeded Sir Isaac, also, as Master and Warden of the Mint, and died January 20, 1739, aged eighty years. She died May 27, 1737, at forty-nine. Their monument is at Westminster Abbey. They had one child, a daughter, who married a Mr. Wallop, eldest son of Lord Lymington. The estate at Kensington descended to the Earl of Portsmouth. (See "Life of Sir Isaac Newton," by David Brewster.)

PETER CONDIT (of John) married, 1695, Mary, daughter of Samuel Harrison.* They had:

1. SAMUEL, born December 6, 1696.
2. PETER, born 1698 or 1699.
3. JOHN, born 1701.
4. NATHANIEL, born 1703.
5. MARY, born 1705 or 1706.
6. PHILIP, born April, 1709.
7. ISAAC, born 1711 or 1712.

Peter, the father, died in 1714; his widow survived him, and upon her (assisted, doubtless, by the eldest son, Samuel, then a young man of 18,) devolved the care of the family. The prayers and teachings of the father undoubtedly, under the blessing of God, added much to the moral character of the children; but to the mother, coming, as she did, from a pious ancestry, must we attribute the larger part of the work of their early training and religious education. She probably lived with her mother-in-law, as reference is made in the early town records of Newark to "two widows Cundits." (See records, page 127.)

Three of these sons of Peter, viz., John, Nathaniel and Isaac, settled at the foot of the Orange mountain, on the east; Samuel, the eldest, settled between the first and second mountains, then in Newark township—now the township of West Orange, N. J. The daughter, Mary, is said to have married W. Gould, and may have died without issue, as we have been unable to trace any descent. The other sons, Peter and Philip, settled in Morristown.

Following is a copy of the will of Peter Condit, also on file at Trenton, N. J.:

In the Name of God Amen: This seventh day of february In ye year of Our Lord one Thousand Seven Hundred and Thirteen Alias fourteen and in ye 12th year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lady Anne by ye Grace of God over Great Brittain, france and Part I.

DESCENT OF SAMUEL CONDIT,

OF ORANGE, N. J.,

FIRST GRANDSON OF JOHN, THE ANCESTOR.

SAMUEL CONDIT [1] was born at Newark, N. J., December 6, 1696; he married first, in 1722, Mary Dodd, born November 8, 1698, and who died May 25, 1755; he died July 18, 1777.

About the year 1720 he purchased land lying between the Orange mountains, in what was afterwards called Pleasant Valley. We have the authority of tradition that this land was purchased of the Indians; its first private ownership, as the records show, was vested in Samuel Condit, and its extent was such that during his life-time he gave to each of his five sons fifty acres, and on each lot thus donated he erected a house, and also gave to each son a family Bible. He reserved to himself the homestead with about seventy acres of land. Three of the farms have ever since remained in the family line of descent.

It is probable that Samuel Condit had little apprehension of the great influence in civil and church relations in life which awaited his descendants in Orange, N. J. They have had a continuous representation in an official capacity in the churches of this place for more than one hundred and fifty years.

Like his grandfather John, his first care was that each son should possess a copy of the Holy Scriptures, an act which, combined with the meagre items of his history, which are still preserved, indicate the sturdy Christian citizen. His selection of a farm was a fortunate one. Taking the Livingston road west from Orange, by way of Eagle Rock, and by a long ascent reaching the top of the mountain, the valley beyond stretches out in a panorama of neat and productive farms, with comfortable and tastefully built farm houses. Here was Samuel's home—where,

"In sober state,
Through the sequestered vale of mortal life,
The venerable patriarch guileless held
The tenor of his way."

From here, during the many years of his manhood, was he wont to take his way over the mountain to the Orange church, as often as the time arrived for Divine worship; and from here was borne his sacred dust to the Orange burying ground, where a simple slab bears the inscription, "Samuel Conduit, Sr., died July 18, 1777." He had survived his first wife more than twenty years; he outlived the second wife, Mary Nutman, (widow of Amos Williams, born 1700,) whom he married in 1756, and who died February 18th, 1777. Their graves are near their husband's, while in close proximity is that of his third son Samuel, whose monument bears the name "Samuel Conduit, Jr." Here, also, repose the ashes of many useful members of the Condit family. As we pause and remove from the stones the accumulated moss of a hundred years, we can read the names of benefactors whose pure lives were worthy examples to succeeding generations.

[9.] JOTHAM CONDIT married Rebecca Pierson, (of Samuel);* he lived on a farm adjoining his father's, and died July 9, 1752, aged 25. They had a daughter who married Billington, who had a son named Jotham.

* See Appendix.

[10.] SAMUEL CONDIT married first, in 1754, Mary Smith, (daughter of Joseph Smith,* of Orange,) who died May 26, 1770, aged 37 years. He was a farmer on the land inherited from his father, and is known to have been a very exemplary man, truly pious and God-fearing; he died in middle life, November 18, 1776. His children, thus early deprived of a father's counsel, afterward located on the eastern side of the Orange mountain. Two of them attained positions of eminence in church and state.

He married second, in 1774, Martha Carter, (widow of Stephen Wilcox, of Elizabethtown, N. J.) After his death she married Deacon Paul Day, of Bottle or Long Hill, Morris county, N. J., who died October 30, 1802, in the 78th year of his age. She died at the residence of her son Samuel, November 4, 1815, in her 79th year.

[21.] REV. IRA CONDIT (of Daniel) married, in 1790, Sarah Perine, daughter of Henry Perine, of Freehold, N. J. Instructed in God's law from early childhood, under the training and example of pious parents, he early gave his heart to his Saviour and began his preparation for the ministry. He was ordained to preach at Newton, N. J., in 1787. Subsequently he had charge of the churches of Newton, Hardwick and Shappanack. In 1794 he was installed over the Reformed (Dutch) church at New Brunswick, N. J., and was for several years Vice President and Professor at Rutgers College. He died June 1, 1811, at New Brunswick, N. J., after an illness of nine days. He was eminent for his learning, prudent and successful in his ministry. His last words were, "Prepare for the life to come; may you be of the righteous who shall meet with the saints of God." His son, Daniel H., who died two months later, was a young man full of promise, possessing talents of a superior order. His death was greatly lamented.

Rev. Aaron Condit was born at Orange, N. J., 1765, which at that time was in Newark. His mother, Mary Smith, daughter of Joseph Smith, was of Scotch descent. In 1840 he prepared an autobiography of himself, in which he says of his ancestors:

"As far as I have learned they were generally very uniform and steady observers of the externals of religion, in the family and at the house of God, and, I believe, most of them esteemed truly pious; they were strict adherents to the Presbyterian church.

"My mother died when I was so young that I have scarcely any recollection of her; my father died when I was only eleven years old; but his prayers in the family, his catechetical instruction and tearful counsels, particularly on the Sabbath, I would ever gratefully remember."

Shortly after the death of his father Aaron was placed in the family of his uncle, Silas Dodd, (who married a sister of his mother) where he remained four years; then he entered a grammar school at Bottle Hill, (now Madison) N. J., where he spent five months; he then entered a grammar school at Newark, N. J., under the care of Rev. Dr. Alexander McWhorter, and continued there until 1782. He then went to live in the family of his eldest brother, John, (who was a practicing physician at Orange, N. J.) with a view of studying medicine; this purpose, however, was abandoned in 1786, for reasons which he gives at length in his autobiography. He was converted in 1785, and was admitted to the Orange Presbyterian church in August of the same year, during the pastorate of Rev. Jedediah Chapman.

One of the reasons he gives for the relinquishment of the study of medicine was, that he had formed a desire for a thorough collegiate education, with a view to entering the ministry. He entered school and pursued his educational course until the autumn of 1787, when he entered Princeton College; after a little more than a year at college, he began a theological course under the care of Rev. Dr. Chapman, his pastor, and while thus engaged he had charge of the Orange Academy, as a means of support.

He was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of New York, at Morristown, N. J., January 7, 1790, after which he preached for a time in the vacant pulpits within the bounds of this Presbytery. On the first of January, 1793, he accepted a call to the church at Stillwater, N. Y., and was installed its pastor on the 15th of the same month, by the Presbytery of Albany. From this pastorate he was dismissed at his own request, August 16, 1796, and in December following was installed pastor at Hanover, N. J.

Here follows, in his autobiography, an account of his marriage, with sketches of his children; he says, in closing this part of his history:

"Four of the sons above mentioned, viz., Robert W., Joseph D., John H. and Jonathan B., became hopefully pious in youth; these I have had the satisfaction of seeing introduced into the holy ministry of the gospel, and am even now comforted with the consideration that they are still spared, and faithfully and usefully laboring as pastors in different parts of the United States. As to my other, and only other, surviving son, viz., Daniel Dayton, I have never been tried with knowing or hearing that he had entered upon any vicious or dissipated course, and still I have not, as yet, been cheered with the intelligence that he had hopefully become a child of grace; my unceasing prayer is that God would take a powerful dealing with his soul, and not suffer him to be hardened to his eternal ruin."

The friends and intimate associates of this son at Terre Haute, Indiana, where he resided, regarded D. Dayton Condit as a truly pious man long before he made a public profession of religion, in the beginning of 1842. His father, Rev. Aaron, in his diary, under date of February 18, 1842, says: "Blessed, forever blessed, be the God of all grace, that the precious intelligence has just reached our ears that he is hopefully converted to God."

Rev. Aaron Condit's ministry at Hanover embraced thirty-five and one-half years. During this time the accessions to the membership of the church were six hundred and forty-four on examination, and eighty-one by certificate from other churches. The number of baptisms was nine hundred and eighty-eight. After his pastorate here was closed, on account of age and declining health, he moved to Morristown in 1839, where he remained until his death. Few men are blessed in their lives of usefulness, and in their families, as was Rev. Aaron Condit.

[29.] JOTHAM CONDIT (of Samuel) married, November 17, 1798, Hephzibah Munn, (of Benjamin, Orange, N. J.) born May 9, 1778, died of pneumonia March 21, 1859; he died of paralysis August 25, 1862. He became an orphan at the age of twenty months, by the death of his father; in early life he was placed under the care of his brother Joseph, of whom he learned the shoemaker's trade, which he carried on through a long life, spent in Orange, N. J. He was a lieutenant in the war of 1812, and during life maintained a character irreproachable, respected by his acquaintances, and at his death mourned by all who knew him. His wife, "Aunt Heppy," as she was familiarly called by a large circle of acquaintances, was a devout, humble, Christian woman, teaching her children the fear of the Lord as the beginning of wisdom; she was a constant attendant at church, both on the Sabbath and at the weekly prayer-meeting.

[48.] SIMON CONDIT (of Captain Jonathan) married first, Hannah Pierson, born in Orange January 18, 1763, and died March 15, 1816; married second, Elizabeth Douglass, (a widow Hamilton.) United with the Presbyterian church at Orange, in 1804, and was an acting trustee at the building of the present First Presbyterian church. He removed with his family to Delaware county, Ohio, in 1833, where he died January 5, 1839.

Simon Condit was the first of the Condit family to settle in Delaware county, Ohio. His son Jotham, and grandson Edgar Condit, had previously visited that vicinity with a view of purchase and settlement. Gilbert VanDorn, John McCutcheon, Silas Ogden and others, had already located there. In 1833 Simon Condit, with his sons, Alvin P. and Jotham, arrived, and Simon immediately purchased of Peter Cockerel eighty acres of land, lying next east from VanDorn's tavern, on which he resided until his death. His widow, Elizabeth, who was his second wife, survived him several years; she died and was buried in Truro township, Franklin county, Ohio, where she had passed her declining years with her daughter, the wife of Jonathan Noe.

These first settlers of Trenton township immediately secured the stated means of grace, and met from Sabbath to Sabbath for Divine worship, under the preaching of Rev. Ahab Jenks and Rev. Mr. Washburn. The meetings were held at Van Dorn's tavern, which was built in 1829, of brick, and still stands in a good state of preservation. In those early times it was a popular stopping place for emigrants, on the thoroughfare from Zanesville and Newark, Ohio, to Delaware, the county seat of Delaware county. Here, also, the Trenton Presbyterian church was duly organized, and of its members who were Condit's at the organization, were Simon and his wife, Elizabeth; Electa, daughter of Simon; Alvin P. Condit and his wife, Maria; Mary, wife of Jotham Condit; Ase-nath, the widow of Smith Condit, and Dorcas, daughter of Smith. Happy beginning of a church, of whose later history it might be said: "The hills were covered with the shadow of it, and the boughs thereof were like the goodly cedars."

* Samuel U. Dodd, three months after his second marriage, enlisted in the 26th Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, and was mustered in the service for nine months. He received a captain's commission and at once proceeded to the front, where he was actively engaged in the stirring events which characterized the War of the Rebellion. When near the expiration of his term of service, while leading his company in a boat across the Rappahannock, at Fredericksburg, to charge the enemy's rifle pits, he was wounded by a rebel sharp shooter, which caused his death the following day. Thus passed away a true patriot, an honored citizen and a sincere Christian.

[84.] SILAS CONDIT (of Dr. John) was born in Orange and married, May 9, 1799, Elizabeth Smith, (of John) born 1782, died November 16, 1855. He graduated from Princeton College in 1795, and for a short time engaged in mercantile life at Orange, but soon afterwards moved to Newark, where he spent a long and useful life. He was a Representative in Congress from 1831 to 1833, a member of the State Constitutional Convention in 1844, and also served as a member of the New Jersey Legislature. He was ever active and energetic in civil life, and for several years was President of the Newark Banking Company. He took great interest in the history of the Condit family, and but for his efforts in this direction, we should, probably, have remained ignorant of the genealogy of the earlier branches. The records which he left were brief, and embraced only his descent from John; this was enough, however, to enable us to trace all the different branches, aided by the memory of others. The name of Silas Condit is remembered by many of the aged members of the family with profound regard, and few men leave behind them a name so untarnished. He, with his wife, were members of the Presbyterian church at Orange, and afterward transferred their connection to the church at Newark, where he continued to reside until his death, November 29, 1861, aged 83 years.

[112.] REV. ROBERT WOODRUFF CONDIT, D. D. (of Rev. Aaron) was born at Stillwater, N. Y., in 1795. He married, December 21, 1820, Harriette Whittlesey, (of Elisha Whittlesey, formerly a lawyer at Danbury, Conn.) She was born May 12, 1794, died October 21, 1859, while on a visit to her native place. He graduated at Princeton College in 1814, and united with his father's church at Hanover, N. J., in 1815. He was elected tutor at Princeton College in 1816, was licensed to preach in 1818, and ordained and installed pastor of the Presbyterian church at Montgomery, Orange county, N. Y., December 13, 1820. On April 22, 1830, he was dismissed, and on August 23, 1831, was installed pastor of a Presbyterian church at Oswego, N. Y., where he remained during life. His preaching was the gospel, so presented as to be profitable to all. Gifted with a clear voice and an attractive manner, he made a deep impression on every occasion. He was peculiarly fitted for the ministry, as his life and labors have conclusively shown. At his death, which occurred February 11, 1871, another Christian entered the sleep of righteousness. Rev. Dr. Vermilye, of Hartford, Conn., officiated at his funeral. His wife was a woman of marked character and ability, a devoted Christian mother, and one who, in all the walks of life, social and domestic, performed in the fear of God every duty belonging to the wife of a pastor and that of a mother. Her memory is truly blessed.

[113.] DANIEL DAYTON CONDIT, (of Rev. Aaron) born at Hanover, Morris county, N. J., 1797, married, February 3, 1824, Charlotte F. Coon, (of Thomas) born August 3, 1802, died at Indianapolis, Ind., November 9, 1881. In 1831, Mr. Condit, with his family, settled at Terre Haute, Ind., where he engaged in mercantile life. As a man of sound judgment, native delicacy and purity of mind, he had few equals. In the winter of 1841-2 he made a profession of religion and united with the Presbyterian church. He was widely known and universally respected. He died at Terre Haute January 24, 1877.

[115.] HANNAH MARIA CONDIT (of Rev. Aaron) married, October, 1882, Rev. William B. Barton, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Woodbridge, N. J. She died of consumption January 20, 1827; he died in April, 1852. Hannah M. became hopefully pious at the age of 12 years. Being lovely in her disposition, she was the favorite of all who knew her and was truly an ornament to her sex. At the close of her funeral and after her many friends had parted with the remains of one they loved so dearly, the venerable father, standing at the head of the coffin, gently raised his hands and said, "I thank God for giving me such a daughter." She had three children, two of whom died before her in infancy, and the other followed the mother three years later.

[116.] REV. JOSEPH DAYTON CONDIT, (of Rev. Aaron) born at Hanover, N. J., 1804, married, September 11, 1830, Mary Gardner Miller, of East Hampton, L. I. He died September 22, 1847. Mr. Condit united with the church at Hanover, N. J., in 1821, at the age of 17. At this time he looked forward with desire to the Christian ministry, and, after entering it, he magnified his office and regarded it as the highest earthly honor and privilege to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ. He entered Princeton College in September, 1826, and graduated with the highest honors of his class in 1829. He was licensed to preach at Sag Harbor, L. I., August 29 of the same year, and was installed pastor of the Presbyterian church at East Hampton, September 1, 1830, where he remained nearly five years, when he was compelled to resign his charge because of declining health; he preached his farewell sermon June 14, 1835. Subsequently he removed to South Hadley, Mass., where he was afterward installed pastor over the church, and where he faithfully labored for twelve years. Mr. and Mrs.

Condit were active colleagues with Miss Mary Lyon in the organization and establishment of the Mt. Holyoke Female Seminary. This institution was regarded as part of his ministerial charge, and as from year to year the Spirit was poured out upon it, he labored for its good, as many of its former pupils can testify. He was president of the board of trustees, and from year to year delivered the diplomas and parting addresses to its graduates. Always of delicate constitution, he did not anticipate long life. Early in 1847 he was obliged to relinquish his active duties, and then came a pause in his usefulness, which was terminated by death in the following September. They had no children.

[117.] REV. JOHN HOWELL CONDIT, (of Rev. Aaron) born at Hanover, N. J., 1806, married, September 30, 1835, Louisa Cutter, daughter of William W. Cutter, of Woodbridge, N. J. She was born January 24, 1808, and died August 8, 1877, at Ashland, Ky. He graduated from Princeton College in 1831, and from the Seminary in 1835. A few days after their marriage they started for the West. Descending the Ohio river, Saturday evening found them at Clinton Furnace Landing. Here they stopped over the Sabbath at the house of a Presbyterian elder, to whom they had a letter of introduction from Dr. Alexander. The nearest church, Bethesda, now called Ashland, Ky., being vacant, Mr. Condit preached for them on the Sabbath, and was invited to remain and become their pastor. This was in October, 1835. He remained at Bethesda until May, 1840, when he accepted a call to the Presbyterian church in Washington, Ky., where he remained and faithfully labored for twenty-eight years. A pastor wholly devoted to his work, he was greatly beloved by his own church and by all in the surrounding regions. His wife shared with him all the trials, joys and sorrows of an arduous and self-denying life. By reason of declining health and the disturbances that arose in consequence of the civil war, he resigned his charge in June, 1868, and returned to Ashland, where his son had for several years been settled over the old Bethesda church. There he remained until God called him to his reward, which was on the first of August, 1869. His many friends and former parishioners united in testifying to his worth and their love for him by erecting a monument to his memory in Ashland cemetery.

She died January 7, 1835. He married second, May 5, 1836, Sarah S. Woodhull, his deceased wife's sister, who died June 15, 1879. Mr. Condit united with the Presbyterian church at Woodbridge, N. J., in 1825, graduated from Princeton College in 1827, and from the Princeton Seminary in 1830 or '31. In July, 1831, he was ordained pastor by a Congregational council at Long Meadow, Mass., where he remained until September, 1835; was Professor of Rhetoric at Amherst College from 1835 till May, 1838; he became the pastor of a Congregational church at Portland, Me., June, 1838, from which he was dismissed in 1845. In December, 1845, he was settled as pastor over the Second Presbyterian church at Newark, N. J., where he remained till April, 1850. The following year he became a professor at Lane Theological Seminary, Ohio, and occupied this chair until June, 1854. In 1855 he entered a like position at Auburn Theological Seminary, New York, which he resigned at the close of his labors in 1871. Mr. Condit received his degree of D.D. from Princeton College in June, 1847. He died January 1, 1876.

He learned the shoemaker's trade with his father. Soon after his marriage, he built the house which he still occupies. He has always led a quiet, unobtrusive life, and been deeply interested in local and general affairs. He is a man of steady habits, regular in his attendance on the means of grace on the Sabbath, and his life conveys a lesson to the present generation of the value of sterling integrity and abiding trust in God's providences. At the age of 85, he is still active and in the enjoyment of almost youthful vigor, and resides in East Orange with an unmarried daughter.

John Baldwin, of Bloomfield, N. J. In early life he easily acquired the use of tools, and, while in New Jersey, was successfully engaged as a cooper, machinist and carpenter. In the autumn of 1843 he moved with his family to Jersey, Licking county, Ohio, where he became an undertaker, but was more prominently engaged in the manufacture of carriages and wagons. He was succeeded in his business by three sons in the extensive undertaking and carriage trade now carried on at Jersey under the firm name of "Harrison & Brothers." Mr. Harrison was, during life, active in all the affairs of civil life and of the church. Martha, still a widow, resides with her son Richard at Jersey, Ohio, a happy, cheerful octogenarian, just entering her ninth decade. She is a constant attendant at the Jersey Presbyterian church, with which she and her husband connected themselves upon their arrival there.

[152.] SILAS D. CONDIT (of Japhia) was born in Orange in 1796. At the age of 18 he enlisted in the war of 1812 for six months, and received an honorable discharge. He was possessed of more than ordinary shrewdness for making money, and when he entered the army he took with him into camp a small stock of notions and established a kind of sutler's trade. Beginning with only seven dollars and renewing his stock from time to time; at the expiration of his term of service he had realized one hundred dollars. He married Phebe Pierson January 7, 1817, born August 21, 1798. He bought a farm in Orange, where he lived until 1839, when he moved to Gallia county, Ohio. Here he located on eighty acres of heavily-timbered land which he had procured by the sale of his farm in New Jersey. On the place he erected a log house, which he occupied eleven years. Then he removed to Albany, Athens county, Ohio, for the purpose of providing his family with better educational advantages. In 1858 he removed to Jasper county, Iowa, where he purchased a farm, on which he resided until his death, which occurred February 23, 1860. His numerous descendants, who are settled in that locality, inherit the temperate habits, sturdy integrity and industry which were characteristic of Silas, honored and useful members of the Condit family and worthy the name they bear. His widow is still living, in the 86th year of her age.

In the spring of 1835 he moved to Harrison township, Licking county, Ohio, with five children, where he purchased one hundred acres of unimproved land, and, after erecting a cabin, began pioneer life in the woods, and remained in this locality during life. Isaac and his wife, with fourteen others, were the organizing members of the South Fork Presbyterian church, in which he was an elder until 1852, when a church was formed nearer his home at Kirkersville. He was made an elder in the new organization, and remained such until his death. During all these years of his residence in Ohio he was an active worker in the Sunday school, and an earnest advocate of the cause of temperance.

He died at the same place, August 31, 1835. She united with the Presbyterian church at Orange in 1825, and transferred her relations to the Presbyterian church in Ohio in 1835, of which church she remained a worthy member until her death. Joseph Smith moved to Ohio, with his family, in 1835. He manifested traits of character which were very promising to his neighbors in the locality in which he settled, and, his sudden death soon after his arrival was a lamentable occurrence to the little colony. He was a professor of religion, and publicly identified himself with the Trenton church one week before his death.

died in 1823. He married second, Jan. 14, 1824, Mary Mulford, widow of Jesse Pierson, born Oct. 3, 1796. He was one of the early residents of Trenton township, Delaware county, Ohio, whose virtue, industry and Christian character left their imprint on the society of that locality, now noted for the independent integrity of its inhabitants. He emigrated to Ohio from New Jersey in 1835, with his family. Before his emigration he carried on the business of a tanner and currier, his partner in that occupation being Alvin P. Condit, a younger brother. He had been successful in his native State, and on his arrival in Ohio entered a large tract of land, and occupied, with his family, a cabin previously erected on his purchase, which was one of the primitive dwellings common in those days. "Grit" was the prevailing element of character displayed by the early settlers of Trenton township, and by it Jotham added to his farm, from time to time, until it embraced about fifteen hundred acres. He erected a saw-mill near his home which he operated thirty years, and afterwards, until his death, was extensively engaged in raising cattle and sheep. Four living children reside near the old home, and are worthy members of society and of the Trenton church. "Aunt Polly," now in her eighty-eighth year, occupies the home with her son Elias. She is a living monument of a temperate and well-ordered life, bearing fewer marks of age than many of far less years. Jotham was of light stature and very erect. He enjoyed full health until about six years previous to his death, when he was attacked with disease of the lungs and never fully recovered. He embraced religion while yet in New Jersey, and after his removal to Ohio was a useful member of the Trenton church. He died of pneumonia, February 3, 1875, aged 81 years.

[208.] REBECCA CONDIT (of Simon) married, February 24, 1819, Ira Condit [56], (of Joel.) She died December 12, 1873; he died December 18, 1873.

[209.] ALVIN P. CONDIT (of Simon), and grandson of Capt. Jonathan Condit, was born in 1801 in Essex county, N. J. Upon attaining his majority he engaged in the business of tanning and the manufacture of shoes, associated with his brother, Jotham Condit. They were very successful and continued the business until 1832. On December 23, 1823, Alvin was married to Maria Jacobus, of Verona, who was born December 4, 1802. In 1833 Alvin moved with his family to Delaware county, Ohio, where he had purchased four hundred acres of land in Trenton township. There he began frontier life, and erected a saw-mill which he and his boys operated for a number of years. His cabin, it is said, was the first one raised in that county without the "jug of whiskey," so common on such occasions. In 1852 he made a prospecting tour to Iowa at the earnest request of his son Robert. They journeyed by carriage, and, upon arriving at what is now Langworthy, Iowa, they drew up at a hotel, and the elder Condit, taking a survey of the beautiful expanse of prairie, remarked, "I will take all the land I can get like this, that I can pay for, at a dollar and a quarter per acre." The son, whose zeal and interest in the prospect had materially cooled, was surprised at the exclamation of his father; but the far-reaching and instantaneous grasp of the mind, characteristic of Alvin, knew no backward movement. Calculations of commercial development, based upon probable or possible facilities for the transportation of the enormous productions of these lands—calculations made with a view of purchase and settlement, required a mind of no mean standard. The mental acquisitions of Alvin enabled him to correctly estimate the future value of these prairie lands, of what was then called the "far west." The result of his determination is shown in the fertile farms, growing villages and thrifty character of this vicinity, to which he soon after removed. Calling upon Joseph Secrest, one of the early pioneers of that country, who had charge of the sale of government lands, he selected a section of land and would not retire for the night until the necessary papers were executed. Subsequently he traded the horses and carriage, used on their journey from Ohio, with a Mr. Fisher, for another farm. The father and son started next day for Dubuque, on their way home, on a wagon heavily loaded with flour and drawn by four horses. In 1854 Robert Condit, the son, with his brother-in-law, Oliver Doyle, settled in this section; and in 1856 Alvin Condit with his family followed. Here they began their second experience in pioneer life. Alvin proposed to his sons, soon after he had located, that if they would raise five hundred dollars among themselves, he would add to it enough to build a Congregational church. The building was soon erected, the site for the house and also ground for a cemetery being donated by the son Robert. The first member of the family to occupy this home of the dead was the honored father, Alvin P. Condit, who died February 1, 1883. Twenty days after, his wife Maria was buried by his side, ending an eventful career of eighty-one years. She united with the Presbyterian church at Caldwell, N. J., at the age of 16. Such was the Christian influence and earnest devotion brought with her into these new relations in life that her husband was soon led into the church, and his fifty-nine years of active church work are traceable to the purity of life and Christian worth of the then young wife. Her health gave way in middle life, and for several years before her death she was confined almost constantly to her bed-chamber. She died February 21, 1883.

[438.] FRANCES P. CONDIT (of Stephen) married, August 12, 1846, William M. Babbitt, (of Daniel, Orange,) born in 1821. He was a lawyer by profession, and died at his home in Newton, N. J., September 25, 1875. They had one son, Frank M., born January 16, 1852, who was a practicing lawyer at Newark, N. J. He died July 16, 1884, leaving a wife, the daughter of Dr. Smith, of Newton, and five children.

[443.] MARY TUCKER CONDIT (of Rev. Robert W.) married, April 18, 1853, William Porter Pierson, born at Leroy, Genesee county, N. Y., December 8, 1811. He is a descendant of Rev. Abraham Pierson, who, with his church colony, founded the city of Newark. His line of descent is, first, Abraham Pierson, founder of Newark; second, Abraham Pierson, rector, first President of Yale College; third, Abraham Pierson, Worshipful Colonial Magistrate of Connecticut; fourth, Samuel Pierson; fifth, Samuel Pierson; sixth, Philo Pierson; seventh, William Porter Pierson. He graduated at Vermont University, Burlington, in 1839. After his marriage he settled at Onarga, Ill., in 1854. The Illinois Central Railroad was then being built through this section of the State, and Mr. Pierson immediately engaged in mercantile business, establishing a trade which for several years was an extensive and profitable one. In the financial crash of 1857 he maintained a good business credit, and, though heavily stocked with goods, he preserved his financial and moral reputation. A large portion of the town of Onarga was built by Mr. Pierson, who, having retired from business, now resides with his wife at their beautiful home on the outskirts of the town. Mrs. Pierson is one of those kind-hearted ladies whom it is pleasant to meet; being sociable and entertaining, her home is a welcome retreat for all who visit there. They have no children, but for many years have adopted girls who, in their life, exemplified the teachings of a faithful and Christian foster mother. By her kind assistance we have been able to secure the history of the descent of the five sons of Rev. Aaron Condit, of Hanover, N. J.

[445.] HARRIETTE W. CONDIT (of Rev. Robert W.) married, May 26, 1846, Gilbert Mollison, born at Bound Brook, N. J. They were married at Oswego, N. Y., where they reside.

[446.] HANNAH MARIA CONDIT (of Rev. Robert W.) married, November 24, 1851, Rev. William Woodbridge Eddy, D.D., born at Penn Yan, N. Y., December 18, 1825. He is a son of Rev. Chauncey and Julia W. Eddy, formerly of Penn Yan, N. Y. He graduated at Williams College in 1845, from the Union Theological Seminary in 1850, and was ordained by the Presbytery of Newark, N. J., in 1851. He was married the same year, and sailed for Syria November 29, 1851. They arrived at Beirut February 1, 1852, and were stationed at Aleppo until 1856, at Sidon from 1857 to 1878, and at Beirut from 1878 to the present time. Dr. Eddy has been a faithful and successful worker in the Syrian Mission, and Mrs. Eddy has been in full sympathy with her husband in his thirty-two years of mission life, and, as far as her health permitted, aided him by the faithful discharge of home duties, and also in the more active labors incident to her position. Under her fostering care, with the co-operation of faithful, Christian teachers, the Sidon Female Seminary was established and carried forward until their removal to Beirut, when her daughter, Harriette M., succeeded to her labors at Sidon. Mrs. Eddy has been a devoted mother, teaching and training her children from their earliest infancy, they having been deprived of all other educational advantages. She says, "Varied have been the experiences of these thirty years, but goodness and mercy have followed us. Not one good thing has failed us of all that the Lord hath promised."

[661.] EDGAR M. CONDIT (of Joseph Smith) married, July 15, 1835, Jane Mulford, born in Morris county, N. J., October 31, 1814. He was one of the pioneers of Delaware county, Ohio. At the age of fifteen he began learning the carpenter's trade with his father in Essex county, N. J. Two years later, in 1829 or '30, he made the journey to Delaware county with his uncle, Jotham Condit, walking the entire distance. The return trip was accomplished in fourteen days. Having finished his trade, he returned to Ohio in 1832, and subsequently spent three years working at the carpenter business in Delaware county, during which time his grandfather, Simon Condit, his father, Smith Condit, with his brothers came from New Jersey with their families, and settled there. Edgar had, for his father, entered two hundred and forty acres of land from the government, at the land office located at Chilicothe, Ohio, eighty acres of which were given to Edgar. The price was one dollar and a quarter per acre. By industry and economy he accumulated sufficient to purchase one hundred and sixty acres adjoining that received from his father, on which he erected a cabin, which was occupied by his father's family on their arrival from New Jersey. Early in the summer of 1835, after his father had become settled, Edgar returned to New Jersey, where he was married in July of that year to Jane Mulford, with whom he immediately set out for Ohio. Arriving at his grandfather's home, after a tedious journey by the old-time public conveyances, he was informed that the funeral of his father was then being held in the cabin which Edgar had so lately built. This unexpected reception which the young couple experienced, with the additional responsibilities laid upon Edgar by the death of his father, doubtless resulted in the development of the manly and Christian character so sturdily maintained by him in after years. J. Smith Condit, his father, had but one week previous publicly identified himself with the little band of worshipers, who afterward became duly organized into a church. His death threw the little colony into consternation and discouragement. He was considered the leading spirit among them, and their hopes of his future usefulness were confident and ardent. Thus .

Edgar, with his wife, immediately occupied the cabin with his father's family, where all remained until a house could be built. Here began their pioneer life, which was only disturbed by the death of the husband forty-six years later. Edgar followed his trade continuously for fifteen years, and the proofs of his ability and taste are still preserved in Trenton township in the neat and commodious residences of many of its inhabitants. His wages during the greater portion of this time was one dollar per day, and he hired others at fifty cents per day to assist him in clearing his farm. He also worked after nightfall, (when his day's work as a mechanic was done,) guided by the light afforded by a cup of grease, which was protected from the wind by a lantern of perforated tin, and held in position by his faithful wife. She still lives at the beautiful home, (which has been improved and adorned by the united efforts of herself and husband,) in full health, and a rare example of a happy old age. They had no children of their own, but have brought up four others whom they trained in habits of usefulness, and supplied with the comforts of life. In 1856, upon the removal of Alvin P. Condit to Iowa, Edgar purchased two hundred acres of his farm, which, with that he already owned and the additions made since, composed the aggregate of six hundred acres which he occupied at his death. Never in public life, his position in home and local affairs was an enviable one. During nearly the whole time of his residence in Delaware county he was constantly employed in the settlement of estates, and in charge of funds as guardian. Loved and respected by all, he had the confidence of those who knew him. The Trenton church, of which he was a member forty-four years, and for twenty-five years an efficient elder, was formally organized at the Van Dorn tavern in 1836, and Edgar and his wife became its members in 1837. He was always at church, and during his last sickness, which was the only illness of his life, he often spoke of being lonesome on the Sabbath because of his inability to attend the services at God's house. His pastor, Rev. Robert Wylie, says of him, "His counsels were always marked with wisdom; his dying testimony was that Christ is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." He died November 20, 1881, aged 70 years.

"Manhood looks forth with careful glance,
Time steadily piles the oar,
While old age calmly waits to hear
The keel upon the shore."

Part II.

DESCENT OF PETER CONDIT,

(OF PETER) MORRISTOWN, N. J.

SECOND GRANDSON OF JOHN, THE ANCESTOR.

PETER CONDIT was born at Newark, N. J., in 1698 or 1699. He married Phebe Dodd, who was born in 1703, and who died July 26, 1768, aged 65 years. He died July 11, of the same year, at the age of 69.

Peter, early in life, became a resident of Morristown, N. J., where he acquired property, and where some, if not all, of his children were born. At the formation of the First Presbyterian church in Morristown, in 1741, he and his wife were among its first communicants, and continued to be steadfast supporters of the organization until their death. Some of the descendants of Peter filled honorable places in the early political history of the country, while others attained to positions of eminence in the professions.

His will, on file in Trenton, N. J., is dated February 1, 1767, and was proved August 25, 1768. It names his wife Phebe, and his children Joseph, Nathaniel, Ebenezer, Silas and Peter. The executors named were his wife, and sons Joseph and Silas. The witnesses were Benoni Hathaway, Jedediah Mills and Thaddeus Dodd.

Nearly all of the descendants of Peter have left their ancestral homes at Morristown, and settled either in the West or South. It is noteworthy that those who spell their name "Condict," for the most part belong to this branch of the family, but for uniformity we have retained the orthography of the name as it is generally accepted at the present time.

* Capt. Samuel Day, father-in-law of Silas Condit, died of small-pox March 25, 1777. His wife, Elizabeth, died April 22, 1761.

Byram and Abigail Alden,* of Morristown. She was born 1743, and died January 14, 1823. Silas died September 6, 1801. He became a member of the Morristown church September 2, 1764. He was made a member of the Board of Trustees of that church October 19, 1772, and remained such for many years, acting as clerk and president of that body. He was a member of the State Council of New Jersey, from its organization in 1776 till 1780. In 1781 he was elected a member of the Continental Congress, and continued as such until 1784. From 1791 to 1800, (excepting the years 1795 and 1799,) he was again a member of the New Jersey Legislature, and was speaker of the House during the years 1792, 1793, 1794 and 1797. He was a large land-holder in Morristown and vicinity, his farm embracing several hundred acres. He was a useful man and a Christian citizen.

[16.] TIMOTHY CONDIT (of Joseph) married, June 15, 1794, Elizabeth Spangler, (of William, Jefferson county, Ky.) born January 17, 1775. He died June 15, 1844. She died March 29, 1863. As a youth Timothy Condit is said to have been very active and robust. He received a common school education, and early became an apprentice to the trade of a tanner and shoemaker. In 1793 he emigrated to Ohio with a party of teamsters in the employ of Judge John Cleve Symmes, the noted pioneer of southwestern Ohio. Judge Symmes and his associates had previously formed a syndicate, which contracted with the government for a large amount of land bordering on the Ohio river and lying between the two Miamis, at sixty-six cents per acre. This contract was forfeited by non-payment on the part of the syndicate. Symmes subsequently purchased a smaller tract of land, (said to be two hundred and forty thousand acres,) in the same locality, the patent for which was issued in September, 1794. One hundred and sixty acres of this land was conveyed by Symmes to Timothy Condit as compensation for services rendered by him on the trip from New Jersey. Timothy soon afterwards sold this land for a nominal sum and removed to Jefferson county, Kentucky. Tradition says "he traded it for a horse, and that his wife refused to sign the deed;" also, that "the horse lived but a few days." He remained in Jefferson county until 1808, when he removed to Ohio county, Kentucky, where he bought a farm of two hundred and sixty acres, on which he established a tannery and shoe shop. He was engaged in this business until old age and infirmity obliged him to desist. As a pioneer he, with his wife and their young family, endured all the privations incident to a frontier life, spending much of the time of their early married life in block houses or semi-military posts, as a protection from the Indians, who were numerous in those early years of the history of this section. The religious life of Timothy was one of usefulness. His early training was in the Presbyterian church. When he became settled in Kentucky he united with the Methodist church, of which he was an active and honored member until death. For many years the quarterly meetings were held in his hewed-log house, which was always open to the Heralds of the Cross. An aged cotemporary who knew him well, records: "He departed this life in the full assurance of a blessed immortality, loved and respected by all who knew him."

He married second, December 20, 1824, Martina Elmendorf, of Somerset county, N. J.; she was born September 26, 1784, and died August 10, 1851. Dr. Condit was an eminent physician of Morris county, having graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He was sheriff of Morris county in 1800, and was one of the incorporators of the Morris and Essex Railroad; he served as president of the company until its extension beyond Morristown, when he was succeeded by William Wright, of Newark. He was one of the commissioners of the Trenton asylum, and an original member of the American Colonization Society. He served also as a commissioner to fix the State boundary line between New York and New Jersey; was a member of the State Legislature from 1805 until 1810—the last two years being speaker of the House. He also represented his district in Congress from 1811 to 1833, except two terms, and in 1837 and 1838 was again elected a member of the Legislature. During these two years he was also speaker of the House. Dr. Condit was a prominent member of the State Medical Society, and was considered one of the best Latin scholars of that day; he was also an extensive reader of English and French literature, and conducted quite a large correspondence with Everett, Clay, Calhoun and Chittenden, in relation to the affairs of the general government; he served as a trustee of Princeton College forty years. He died May 26, 1862.

* Rev. Edward Henry Fairchild and his wife were both graduates of Oberlin College, Ohio. He was settled over the First Congregational Church of Cleveland, Ohio, in 1841, the year of their marriage. The following year he was settled at Birmingham, Michigan, over a Presbyterian church, where he remained seven years. Here his labors were abundant and not without success, his average number of sermons for the whole time being five a week. He spent one year preaching at Elmira, N. Y., and three years at Hartford, Ohio. In 1853 he became Principal of the Preparatory Department of Oberlin College, where he remained sixteen years, during which time he preached in neighboring and vacant churches. In 1869 he became President of Berea College, Kentucky, where he still remains. This College has 400 students, equally divided between the white and colored races. Mrs. Fairchild has been a faithful colleague in all the labors of her husband. Charles G., their eldest son, is a Professor at Berea; he married Adelaide F. Dean. Edward H., second son, married Eva Hoyt; he was killed at St. Paul, Minn., by a frightened team. Julia M., third child, married Charles F. Hall; resides in Illinois. Arthur B., fourth child, is a graduate of Berea College and Professor in Doane College, Nebraska; he married Belle Pratt. Eugene P., fifth child, is a minister; single.

went with his uncle, Timothy Condit, to southwestern Ohio, where he remained three years, and then returned to New Jersey. His early religious training was under the careful instruction of his grandmother, the widow of Joseph Condit. This eminent Christian lady is said to have been the religious tutor of the aged missionary now in Turkey, the Rev. Elias Riggs. Paul P. Condit went to Ohio again in 1814, and settled on a farm near Cleveland, where he was married; his wife is a great-granddaughter of Abram Clarke. The condition of Paul's health in later years disabled him for agricultural pursuits and he erected a hotel, which for many years was a popular haven of rest for travelers. He occupied many positions of trust, and maintained a high reputation for honesty, uprightness and kindness to all in need. He died at his home in 1856, aged seventy-two. His widow still survives him, and in her attractive old age occupies, with her widowed daughter (Mrs. Rhoda L. DePuy), the old home first improved and adorned by the father and husband.

his brother-in-law, Amzi Babbitt. In 1836 he moved to Euclid, Ohio, with four children, where his brother, Paul P. Condit, resided; he lived there one year, when he removed to Jersey, Ohio, where he remained until his death, which occurred November 8, 1848. During his residence in Jersey he was an active and consistent member of the Presbyterian church, of which he was for several years an efficient elder, and his example and counsels were fruitful of much good in the community. His widow, Nancy, resides with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Pierson, at Grinnell, Iowa, and is still in the enjoyment of excellent health; she makes yearly visits to her daughter, residing in Licking county, Ohio.

[58.] DAVID CONDIT (of Timothy) was born in Jefferson county, Kentucky, in 1795. He worked with his father at the business of tanning and currying, and married, October 31, 1827, Elizabeth Hunt, who was born in Kentucky, June 5, 1800. Of his history, the Rev. W. F. Davenport, of Calhoun, Ky., has written: "David Condit professed religion when he was about twenty years old, and joined the Methodist church, of which he was a consistent and worthy member through life. He belonged to the old times, and to him the days long gone seemed more joyous and prosperous. The preachers of the past generation were giants to him, and he loved to dwell upon their heroic deeds; while feeble, he often expressed a desire to see one more revival in his church before he departed to the good world; he lived to see it, and at its close 'Uncle Davy' departed from among us; like a ripe shock of wheat, he was gathered to the garner above; his end was peace." He died August 20, 1880; his wife died August 20, 1873.

[63.] WILLIAM S. CONDIT (of Timothy) married, August 6, 1833, Jane Brown, born in Kentucky September 11, 1809, died December 1, 1875; he died in Kentucky February 8, 1865. The life of William Spangler Condit was an eventful one; he moved with his family from Jefferson county, Kentucky, to Texas, in 1851, and subsequently settled in Lamar county, where he and his wife identified themselves with the M. E. Church. He immediately secured a valuable farm, and at the beginning of the last war was the owner of several hundred sheep and two or three hundred horses and cattle. Like many others, in the succeeding years of trouble, he was the subject of bitter persecution. He was charged with disloyalty to the South because he clung with the spirit of a freeman to his principles—opposite, as they were, to the prevailing sentiment of those around him. Though escaping the fate of a number of his acquaintances, who were hung by a mob from a tree near his residence, on the banks of the Sulphur river, he soon after became a victim of their hate. In February, 1862, Mr. Condit was roused at night from a sick bed by a squad of armed and masked men, some of whom were his neighbors, who ordered him to quit the soil of Texas, and no appeal would move them from their purpose. Surrounded by a helpless family of ten children, the alternative presented itself of exile or death. Hastily gathering his household, he read a portion of scripture, and they knelt for the last time around that sacred family altar, where he committed the dear ones to the care of a covenant-keeping God. Upon rising, he gave each one his parting blessing, and went out into the darkness; mounting his best horse, he began the tedious journey to his native State. But little is known of this trip, except that he reached Kentucky in safety. Here he remained until his decease, which took place near the close of the war, at the home of his aged mother. His family knew nothing of his welfare until his death was announced to them, after communication was restored between the North and South.

[64.] JACOB L. CONDIT (of Timothy) married, December 31, 1829, Eliza Neely, (of Matthew H., of Indiana,) born in Vermont January 28, 1809; she died in Arkansas January 12, 1881; he died at Booneville, Ark., December 31, 1876. He was a blacksmith, having learned the trade at Cincinnati, Ohio, where he worked six years. After his marriage he continued the business in connection with a farm, near the home of his father, and became noted as a manufacturer of edged tools. He lived for a time in Warwick county, Ind., from whence he removed to Hopkins county, Texas, where he continued to carry on his trade successfully. He soon after became engaged in the operation of a grist and saw mill in Titus county, Texas. This proved to be a remunerative business until the breaking out of the civil war, when all his hopes and prospects were blasted and his business destroyed. About this time his eyesight failed, and sickness prevailed in his family until 1866, when he removed to Arkansas, where he remained until death. He was a man six feet in height and of corresponding physique. Being possessed of strong intellect and good judgment, he was a wise counselor, and the friend of all needing advice or assistance. During the greater part of his life he was a member of the M. E. Church, South, and held for many years an official position in that church.

He was married November 1, 1832, to Mary Lindsley, daughter of Daniel Lindsley, of pioneer fame, in Kentucky, and who emigrated to that State from Morris county, N. J., in 1804. She was born November 6, 1810, and died August 26, 1864. He married second, December 8, 1868, Elizabeth T. Kimbley, a widow. He learned the tanner's trade with his father, and was engaged in that business until the close of the last war; with his wife he now occupies his farm of one hundred and seventy-seven acres, near Point Pleasant, Ohio county, Kentucky. Of his religious character he says: "I am a Methodist, warp and filling; do not chew tobacco, smoke or drink whiskey; and all this is no more than any honest man ought to be." He was named for his uncle, Uzal Condit, who moved to Kentucky from Morris county, N. J., with his wife and six children.

[157.] MARTINA L. CONDIT (of Dr. Lewis) married, June 1, 1852, Rev. John J. Brandegee, D.D., who was born at New London, Conn., July 25, 1823; he was the son of John and Mary Brandegee—one of whom was of Dutch and the other of French extraction; both families had long previously settled in this country. Dr. Brandegee spent his early youth at New London, and in 1843 graduated at Yale College with a high reputation as a scholar; he was confirmed by Bishop Brownell, at New Haven, at the age of eighteen. Before graduating he formed the purpose of studying for the ministry, and on September 27, 1843, he entered the General Theological Seminary, at New York city, where he completed his course of preparation, and was ordained a deacon by Bishop Brownell, July 3, 1846, at Hartford, Conn. After his ordination he went with an invalid brother to the West Indies, where he labored for two years; on his return, he was ordained to the priesthood, January 24, 1849, by Bishop Henshaw, of Rhode Island, at New London, Conn. At this time he was laboring in the parish of St. Michael, Litchfield, Conn., where he continued until February 4, 1854. He then entered upon his duties as rector of Grace church, Utica, N. Y., and remained there during life—though repeatedly invited to other attractive fields. In the ten years of service at Utica his labors were abundantly blessed, and to his efforts may be credited the erection of the beautiful edifice now occupied by the parish of Grace church; the corner stone was laid in July, 1856, but the church was not opened for divine services until May 20, 1860. The last two years of Dr. Brandegees labor was frequently interrupted by sickness, which finally resulted in his death April 6, 1864. In 1867 his widow published a volume of sermons which he had preached at different periods of his ministry of eighteen years; they indicate a mind of uncommon intellectuality, and breathe a spirit of true devotion to the service of the Master.

He early became a member of the Baptist church, and was licensed to preach in 1862, and ordained in 1864. Previous to the year 1872 he had charge of three separate churches—his main support, for the time, being derived from working his farm. These arduous duties, added to his ministerial work and consequent exposure, affected his health and made a change imperative. Of his subsequent career he says: "I became dissatisfied on the subject of free communion, and severing my connection with the general Baptists I joined the Missionary Baptists, in 1873, by whom I was again ordained, and have been preaching for them ever since." Nine of his descendants are members of the same church with him.

DESCENT OF JOHN CONDIT,

(OF PETER ORANGE, N. J.)

THIRD GRANDSON OF JOHN, THE ANCESTOR.

JOHN CONDIT was born at Newark, N. J., about 1701. He married, at Orange, Joanna Williams, daughter of Matthew, one of the first settlers. This is said to be the first marriage solemnized within the present limits of the Oranges. Early in life he acquired property in what is now the central part of the city of Orange on the south side of Main street, extending west from Centre street. He built the Orange Hotel, probably in 1739, as a license was granted to him that year, by the court, to keep a public house. This hotel was known then, and for many years thereafter, as the "Condit House," and continued under the management and ownership of different members of the family for nearly ninety years. John's will, on file in Trenton, N. J., was dated September 14, 1780, and in it he named his children Matthew, Ruth, Jemima and Mary. His son Matthew, and Jonathan Condit were named as executors, and the witnesses were Nathaniel Condit, Zebulon Jones and Joannah Mackensy. As no mention is made in the will of his wife Joanna, she probably died before its execution. The will was proved June 10, 1783, which is the only record we have been able to find denoting the probable date of his death.

[1.] MATTHEW CONDIT married Sarah Lindsley (of Benjamin,* Orange, N. J.) But little is known of his record except the fact that he inherited the estate of his father, and lived either at the Orange Hotel or in its vicinity. In 1785 he deeded one-tenth of an acre of ground on Main street, to trustees, for an academy building, which was for many years the centre of educational facilities in Orange. The building is still standing after a lapse of one hundred years. On June 10, 1795, he advertised in a Newark paper, announcing "the sale of twenty-three building lots on the main road opposite the meeting-house and adjoining the academy." The date of the birth, marriage and death of Matthew and his wife are not preserved.

DESCENT OF NATHANIEL CONDIT,

(OF PETER) ORANGE, N. J.

FOURTH GRANDSON OF JOHN, THE ANCESTOR.

NATHANIEL CONDIT was born at Newark, N. J., about the year 1703. He married Elizabeth Ogden, of Orange, a daughter of Swain Ogden* and Susan Ackerman, who was born in 1711, and died January 10, 1785, aged 74 years. Very little is known concerning Nathaniel. He lived in Orange; and the homestead is said to have been on Scotland street, near Main. There is no will on record. He died June 23, 1746, at the age of 43 years. Their graves are in the old burying ground, Orange.

5. MARY, married ——— Parsonate.
6. SARAH, married ——— Harrison.
7. SUSANAH, married ——— Ward.

* Swain Ogden was the youngest son of David Ogden, who came to Newark from Elizabethtown about 1676. David married Elizabeth, widow of Josiah Ward. He died in 1691. Swain died April 20, 1755, aged 68 years.

[1.] PETER CONDIT married Eunice Smith (of Joseph, Orange, N. J.) Of his history nothing is positively known. They lived in Orange, where he died February 21, 1770, aged 39 years. His will was dated December 16, 1769, and was proved March 7, 1770. In it he names his wife, Eunice, his wife's father, Joseph Smith, his sisters Mary Parsonate, Sarah Harrison and Susanah Ward, his cousin Elizabeth Williams and brother Timothy. The executors appointed were his wife, uncle Isaac Cundict and brother-in-law John Dodd. Witnesses, Jared Harrison, Joseph Harrison and Lydia Harrison. Signed, "Peter Cundict." The will also mentions a female child, but does not give its name.

[4.] TIMOTHY CONDIT married Elizabeth Lindsley, (of Benjamin* and Mary Morris.) She was born April 26, 1749, and died August 19, 1813. He was a private in the Revolutionary war and resided in Orange, where his children were born, and where he died September 9, 1791, aged 50 years.

J., and was afterwards engaged in that business with Captain Baldwin, at Montville, N. J. His life was interspersed with financial successes and reverses, reflecting both sunlight and shadow. In 1831 he moved to Illinois, where he located at Rushville. Subsequently he settled at what is now East St. Louis, and while there he engaged in the transfer and sale of stock. In his peculiarity, he adopted the name of "Pap," and kept a tavern known as "Pap's House." Leaving there he located at Mt. Vernon, Ill., where he remained a few years, and connected himself with the Presbyterian church. In 1862 he returned to New Jersey on a visit, where he died suddenly while at church, September, 1862.

Part V.

DESCENT OF PHILIP CONDIT,

(OF PETER MORRISTOWN, N. J.)

FIFTH GRANDSON OF JOHN, THE ANCESTOR.

PHILIP CONDIT was born at Newark, N. J., April, 1709. He married Mary Day, who was born in 1713. They lived in Morris county, N. J., and in 1742, at the organization of the First Presbyterian church at Morristown, he and his wife were among its members, of which church he soon after became an elder. His children were baptized there, and his life was identified with the early years of its existence. While the lineage of his brothers were quite frequently represented in public and civil affairs, as well as in mechanical pursuits, Philip's descendants have been more conspicuous in the church and in society, and have had a continuous representation in the Morristown church since its organization. Five of the grandsons of Philip were prominent in the early years of Presbyterianism in western Pennsylvania, and three grandchildren and a great-grandson were among those who laid the foundation of the Presbyterian church at Jersey, Ohio, which has had a prosperous existence for nearly seventy years. A great-grandson, Rev. Philip Condit, was the first Presbyterian minister in a group of several counties in northwestern Ohio, where he organized four churches, and later in life organized the church at Pleasant Grove, Oregon, where he died. His son represented that Presbytery in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in 1883. Nearly one hundred of the male descendants of Philip have been either ministers, elders or deacons in the church.

Philip purchased from Josiah Stanbrough one hundred acres of land three miles west of Morristown, for "sixty pounds, current money of the Province of New Jersey, eight shillings per ounce." The deed is dated "29th day of November, in the twenty-third year of his Majesty's reign, King George the Second, of Great Brittain, 1749." This land in regular descent, is part of the farm occupied by his great-grandson, the venerable Sylvester R. Whitehead, now in the ninetieth year of his age. Philip died December 23, 1801, aged 92 years. His wife died September 30, 1785. It is a noticeable fact that of the large male descent of Philip, none are now known to be living in or near their ancestral home.

60. HANNAH C.,† born April 13, 1788; married, June 28, 1810, Rufus Dodd, of Daniel, a farmer of Washington county, Pa, who died August 10, 1861.
61. JEMIMA C.,‡ born December 4, 1790; married, November 4, 1814, Daniel F. Dodd, of Daniel, a farmer and millwright, of Washington county, Pa., who died October 16, 1843.
62. BETHANY C., born April 7, 1793; married Joseph Riggs, a farmer, of Washington county, Pa.
63. HENRY C., born December 11, 1795, died young.

[13.] DAVID CONDIT (of Jabez) married Rachel Ross, of Washington county, Pa. She was born in 1773, and died November, 1846, aged 73 years. David moved to Washington county, Pa., where he resided several years, and was married. After the birth of his two eldest children he removed to New Vernon, Mercer county, Pa., probably in the year 1798. Some other families accompanied them. This locality was then an unbroken forest, the nearest settlement being sixteen miles north, known as the Taylor settlement, and twenty miles easterly was the French Creek settlement, now the city of Franklin.

* Luther Axtell was ordained an elder of the church at Lower Ten-mile, Pa., November 6, 1837; remained such until his death. He had two sons; Philip, a minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, at Pittsburg, Pa., and Luther, a clergyman of the same denomination at Pike Run, Pa.

† Hannah C. and Rufus Dodd had Jemima, Luther, Bethany, Daniel, Cephas, Mary, Silas F., William W. and Rhoda J.

‡ Jemima C. and Daniel F. Dodd had Oliver, Daniel, Henry, Joanna, Mary, Maria, Clarissa. Their names are not given in order of age.

Another settlement embraced a few families in what is now the town of Mercer. Their first summer was spent in clearing a little spot where they intended to make their new home; a small log-cabin was also erected during this season. Their first crop was a few bushels of oats and some turnips. Subsistence for the approaching winter being found inadequate for their support, they determined to select one of their number to remain and care for their little herd of stock, while the other members of the company returned to Washington county for the winter. David Condit was the man chosen to remain. Procuring a little corn meal from the nearest settlement, and with the milk furnished by the stock of cattle, together with game procured by his trusty rifle, he passed a comfortable winter in his enforced retirement. The return of the colony in the spring brought three children to David, one having been born during their absence in Washington county. His wife traveled the entire distance of one hundred miles on horseback, using a man's saddle and carrying the little one, less than four months old, on her knee. The following summer this colony was blessed with a bountiful harvest. Twelve children were born, ten of whom grew to mature life, and two are still living. The clothing for all this numerous family was produced on the farm, spun and woven by the members of the household, besides yielding an amount sufficient to procure other commodities needed in the family. Salt then sold in that locality at eight dollars per bushel. David was justice of the peace for many years by appointment of the Governor. Many instances are related of parties coming to 'Squire Condit, as he was always called, with the most bitter feelings of strife and resentment, who, under the mild and Christian advice given them, would finally become reconciled. When nothing but litigation would satisfy contending parties, the trial was conducted with the most solemn dignity and decorum. It is said that no appeal was ever taken from this court to a higher one.

The members of the new colony in Mercer county were Presbyterians, and founded what is now known as the old Fairfield church, of which David became an elder.

78. IRA CONDIT,† born April 8, 1798; married April 6, 1829, Sarah L. Johnson.
79. MARTHA, born July 15, 1800, died unmarried, February 24, 1879.
80. ISAAC NEWTON, born November 30, 1803, died February 22, 1822.

* Sylvester R. Whitehead was elected an elder of the Morristown church in 1832, continuing in active service for twenty-five years. He is still living on the farm, formerly owned by his grandfather, Philip Condit, three or four miles west of Morristown. His children are Isaac N., Aaron D., Mary and Mary Louisa.

† Ira Condit Whitehead was elected elder of the Morristown church in 1846. He was a prominent jurist and judge. He died August 27, 1867, at the age of 69. He had one child, Mary, who died unmarried.

[15.] JONAS CONDIT (of Jabez) married Eunice Leonard, of Morris county, N. J. He married second, Hannah Dodd, (of Rev. Thaddeus) of Pennsylvania. About the year 1794, at the age of 25, he emigrated to Washington county, Pa. Being a man of excellent habits, temperate and prudent, he maintained a robust physique, and was only once laid upon a bed of sickness previous to that which terminated his life. By appointment from the Governor he held the office of justice of the peace for many years. Although by trade a carpenter, the active years of his life were spent in farming. He cleared a spot in an almost unbroken wilderness, built, beautified and adorned a home that stood as a landmark and haven of rest for many a weary traveler. It was here the little colony that emigrated from the same place in New Jersey, and settled in Deaking county, O., used to stop and refresh themselves as they journeyed to and from their native place. On his arrival in Pennsylvania Jonas immediately identified himself with the Presbyterian church, known as the united congregations of "Upper and Lower Ten-Mile churches," that were organized about the year 1781 by Rev. Thaddeus Dodd, who was a son of Stephen Dodd, of Mendham, N. J. In 1805 Jonas Condit was elected and ordained a ruling elder of the Lower Ten-Mile organization, and remained such until his death. This organization in the year 1825 built a church on the farm of Jonas, which was known as the "Brick Meeting House." Jonas and his family were eminently efficient in the service of sacred music, and the leadership of the choir in this church has been uninterruptedly held by his descendants since 1843. He was a man of excellent judgment, yet being distrustful of his ability, never knew his worth; though modest and unassuming he would go, with the courage of a lion, wherever duty called; a devoted Calvinist, he was firmly attached to the doctrines and ordinances of the Presbyterian church. He died November 23, 1836, aged 72 years, and in the little church-yard, near the old brick meeting house, rests the body of this venerable man. .

[16.] MOSES CONDIT (of Jabez) married Electa Ball. He was a shoemaker and moved to Pennsylvania, where he lived until 1816, when he removed with his family to Seneca county, N. Y. Efforts have been made to secure information of his descent without success. He had two sons nearly grown when he left Pennsylvania, known as John and Harvey.

[17.] REV. IRA CONDIT (of Jabez) was born in Morris county, N. J. in 1772, and married Mary Miller, of Washington county, Pa., in 1800. She was born in New Jersey, February 18, 1781, and died November, 1836. Of the early years of Ira Condit but little is preserved; they were spent on a farm, and he experienced the hardships incident to all new settlements. In 1798 he emigrated to Sandy Creek, Mercer county, Pa., and settled within one mile of where the Fairfield church now stands. He made a profession of religion May 10, 1802, and became a member of the Fairfield church, of which he was afterward pastor. In 1803 he left his farm and moved to Canonsbury, Pa., and commenced his studies for the ministry, where he graduated in 1808; then he removed to a farm about seven miles from the town of Washington, Pa., and commenced the study of theology under the direction of Dr. McMullen and Rev. George Scott, supporting his family by teaching a school in the neighborhood. He was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of Ohio, on October 17, 1811. The first year of his ministry was spent as a missionary among the vacant churches and destitute settlements of Washington county. In 1812, Mr. Condit moved back to Sandy Creek, and after preaching some time in the vacant churches accepted a call from the congregations of Fairfield and Big Sugar Creek, and was ordained November 8, 1814. In April, 1827, he accepted a call to the church of Georgetown, and was afterwards installed over the church at Amity. This latter charge was relinquished April 22, 1829. In June of the same year he accepted a call to the church at Cool Spring, and was installed June 24, 1829; in this united charge of Fairfield, Georgetown and Cool Spring, he labored until his death, October 24, 1836.

He married second, March 7, 1822, Sarah Beatty, born 1786, died January 29, 1873. He became a member of the old Fairfield Presbyterian church, Mercer county, Pa., by letter, August 31, 1805, and was ordained elder in 1829, which office he held until his death, May 23, 1845. He was one of the early residents of the region of the Fairfield church, who laid the foundations of the society of that vicinity, now noted for the integrity and Christian character of its inhabitants.

125. THEODORE F., born September 23, 1821; married first, Jane Bushfield, second, Sarah Anderson; residence, Jersey, Ohio.

[22.] ZENAS CONDIT (of Jabez) learned the carpenter's trade in New Jersey with a mechanic named Halsey; he emigrated to Washington county, Pa., in 1800, with Philip Axtell, where he married Eunice Goble, December 11, 1804. She was born January 22, 1787, died February 7, 1857. He removed to the adjoining county of Greene in 1815, where he purchased four hundred acres of land near the line between Greene and Washington counties. He occupied this farm eighteen years, then sold it for twelve hundred dollars and purchased three hundred acres further south, near what is now Nineveh, Greene county; there he remained until his removal to the residence of his son, Sylvester, in Iowa, where he died December 4, 1862. Zenas was ordained ruling elder in Upper Ten-Mile Presbyterian church in 1825, and remained such until his removal to Iowa. Being a devout student of the Bible, his aptness in using Scriptural phrases is remembered by all who knew him. An eminent divine once remarked that he "feared theological combat with no one but Uncle Zenas Condit." His son, Ira S. Condit, resides on the old farm in Greene county.

[23.] EBENEZER CONDIT (of Capt. Zenas) married, in 1789, Mehetabel Burnett, who was born March 15, 1770, died July 28, 1859. He was a shoemaker by trade and owned a small stony farm three miles west of Morristown, where he carried on his business until 1804, when he moved with his family to Cayuga, N. Y., then called "the Lake country." There he engaged in the manufacture of shoes until his death, which occurred in January, 1812. He had two sisters, of whose history but little is known. One of these, called Sally, married a man named Muir, and spent her married life in New York city, where she died; the other, Abigail, married a Connett, and lived in Morristown.

After the death of Ebenezer, his widow returned with her children to Madison, N. J., and resided on the old Burnett homestead until her family were grown. She became a member of the Morristown Presbyterian church in 1799, (previous to her removal to New York,) and with three of her children was baptized there. In 1837 she removed to Jersey, Ohio, where she lived with her son, James B., until his removal from Jersey, when she took up her abode with Wickliff, an older son, where she remained until her death, which took place in 1859, at the age of eighty-nine years. During the last six or seven years of her life she was totally blind, but retained in a remarkable degree her mental faculties to the last.

Early in life she formed a strong desire to go west, and in the Spring of 1815 removed to Euclid, Ohio, with her married sister, Martha Dickerson, making the entire journey by wagon over the mountains of Pennsylvania. Her marriage to Samuel Cozad occurred in January, 1816, and the following month the newly married couple made the journey back to New Jersey in a sleigh through New York State. They remained in New Jersey till June, when they returned to Ohio and purchased a farm near "Doan's Corners," now East Cleveland, which is a prominent part of Wade Park. Here they remained until the death of Mr. Cozad in 1870. She died a year later at the residence of her eldest child, in her eighty-second year. Mrs. Cozad possessed a strong mind, good judgment, a kind heart and a pleasant disposition. In her later years she was "Aunt Polly" to every one, and those in trouble or poverty always found in her a friend and benefactor.

Samuel and Mary Cozad, with three of their children, were among the small number who organized the Euclid avenue Congregational church at Cleveland, Ohio.

[65.] WILLIAM CONDIT (of David) married, December 27, 1821, Margaret Gordon, born in Venango county, Pa., March 20, 1801, died July 4, 1862. William was born in Washington county, Pa., in 1797. Soon after his marriage he erected a saw-mill near his father's and began to utilize the dense growth of pine timber then covering that locality, (now known as New Vernon township,) floating the lumber in the Spring of the year down Big Sandy creek into the Allegheny river, thence to Pittsburg, and often to Cincinnati. His home was near his father's, on a farm which he owned, and where he reared his numerous family. He united with the Fairfield Presbyterian church in 1821, and was ordained elder of that church in 1840, serving as such until his death, which occurred suddenly, November 5, 1859. While riding with a neighbor in a wagon drawn by a spirited pair of oxen, a pin about the yoke became loosened; when adjusting this the cattle started suddenly and threw him to the ground, the kingbolt of the wagon striking his head and killing him instantly. The accident occurred a few rods from his house. The session of the old Fairfield church, on January 22, 1860, adopted resolutions of condolence with the family.

[66.] ALVAH CONDIT (of David) married, 1819, Ruth Axtell, (of Eliab); he died January 1, 1883. They had no children. They lived at different times in Pennsylvania, Indiana and Missouri, and in 1845 removed to Oregon. They were among the organizing members of the first Presbyterian church west of the Rocky Mountains. His widow survives him in Oregon.

[67.] REV. PHILIP CONDIT (of David) was born in Mercer county, Pa., in 1801; he married Nancy Gordon February 2, 1826, who died January 3, 1861. In 1833 he entered his preparatory course at Jefferson College, while his wife provided for the family. After graduating, he was licensed to preach, and was an evangelist in northwestern Ohio. In 1840 he settled with his family in Hancock county, Ohio, where he remained one year, preaching at points thirty miles distant from each other. He then moved to Wood county, Ohio, and located near the present site of Tontogany, where he soon after organized the churches of Bethel, (now Tontogany) Milton, (now Milton Centre) and Gillead. He preached for them until 1854, doing also mission work in Lucas and Williams counties. In 1854 he removed to Oregon, and in December of that year settled thirteen miles southeast of Salem, where he labored as a missionary, dividing his time with other places not remote. In 1856, assisted by Rev. J. A. Hanna, he organized the church of Pleasant Grove, and with his sons was making preparations to build a house of worship, when he was suddenly removed by death, November 20, 1856, aged fifty-five years. His wife survived him five years. Two sons only remain of the family, who reside at Aumsville, Oregon, active and useful in the service of the Master.

[94.] JOHN CONDIT (of Rev. Ira) was born in Mercer county, Pa., 1801, married, May, 1830, Mary Zahniser. She died October 19, 1836. He married second, Mary Limbert, April, 1839, who died September 3, 1884. The early training of John Condit, in western Pennsylvania, among the first settlers in the back-woods, qualified him for the sterner duties of life. At the age of 17 he left home and walked to Buffalo, where he obtained employment as a carpenter. Naturally gifted with a genius in wood-working, he made rapid progress, and regularly sent his wages home to assist in the support of the family. After an absence of several years he returned to Mercer county, Pa., and settled in Georgetown. In 1829 he built the Fairfield Presbyterian church—being the first frame church in Mercer county. In 1835 he built the Georgetown Presbyterian church, which is still occupied and is in good repair. Soon after his first marriage, he erected for himself a brick residence in Georgetown; he engaged in the cabinet-making business, and subsequently merged it into the manufacture of wagons and carriages, and was quite successful. In 1840 he became associated with his brother-in-law in mercantile trade at Rockville, Pa., and subsequently removed to Georgetown, where he extended his business. In 1866 he retired from business, sold his farm and removed to Girard, Pa., where he died November 20, 1880. Of his career as a citizen, he is spoken of in the highest praise. For a number of years he was a justice of the peace, and was always actively engaged in measures for the elevation and christianizing of the human family.

[139.] WICKLIFF CONDIT (of Ebenezer) was born in Morris county, N. J., in 1796. His mother, Mehetabel Condit, nee Burnett, lived to a great age. He learned the trade of a tanner and currier with Job Dodd, of Bloomfield, N. J., and seems to have been much attached to him, as he named his eldest son for him. At about the age of eighteen he enlisted in the war of 1812, in the Company of Capt. John Baldwin, of Bloomfield. On March 14, 1819, he married Julia Samson, daughter of Abram and Chloe Samson, of Madison, N. J., who was born September 25, 1798, and moved to Jersey, Ohio, where he bought of Abner Whitehead ten acres of land on Indian Run, one-half mile northwest of the present village of Jersey; there he erected a cabin and also a tannery, and soon built up a profitable business, to which he added a shoe-shop; in both branches he displayed great energy and tact. In November, 1822, while on a visit to New Jersey, his wife died. In the Autumn of 1823, he married second, Nancy Mingis, of Bloomfield, N. J., who was born May 12, 1795. As an interesting incident it may be stated that he traveled in his own conveyance to New Jersey, and took his wife to Ohio, the trip each way occupying about three weeks; his widow lately made the trip to New Jersey in a Pullman sleepers in nineteen hours. Mrs. Condit proved a valuable addition to the Jersey church. Having been successful in his business, Wickliff, in company with Andrew D. Pierson (his partner in the manufacture of leather and shoes,) and Dr. Edward Beecher, opened a store in 1831, near his residence—an event of importance to the community. Dr. Beecher, who was an estimable citizen and physician, died in 1834, a great loss to the vicinity of Jersey. This event necessitated a change in the firm, which soon after merged into that of J. B. Condit & Co.; James B., a younger brother of Wickliff, having come to the settlement from New Jersey, in May, 1832. The new store (now located in the village,) opened up a market to the farmers to their advantage: to the firm it also proved a profitable investment. Through his force and skill, Mr. Condit gradually attained a property which for the time was large; he early became a member of the Jersey church, and one of its strongest supporters. Public spirited in a high degree, when a young man with small means, he aided to build the log church and then the first frame church, and in the latter part of his life was the financial leader in building the commodious church which now stands near the site of the former ones. When the anti-slavery excitement in 1833-4 threatened to drive the pastor, Rev. Charles M. Putnam, from the pulpit, Wickliff, with Abner Whitehead and others, prevented it; Mr. Putnam remained its pastor forty years. Mr. Condit was a man of great energy in all he undertook; zealous in his business, he was also zealous in the church.

Of the original members of the Jersey church, none survive. Even the most of the children, who were in Jersey at that time, are gone; the men and women who bore the brunt of those trying times are all gone; many of them, with the pastor, sleep in the grave-yard close to the church they built. Mr. Condit's health declined in 1860. The prospect of a civil war was a source of great anxiety to him. A man of great intelligence, a large reader, a deep thinker, and having an extended acquaintance with public men in different parts of the country, the National events, accumulating with such direful portent, moved his inmost soul. He was attacked by a slow fever in 1862, which resulted in his death January 31, 1863, aged 67 years. His widow, Nancy, lived to an old age; she was a beautiful example of a consistent Christian woman, and a constant attendant at church until one month previous to her death, which took place April 5, 1884, at 89 years.

[145.] JAMES BURNETT CONDIT (of Ebenezer) was born in 1811, at Cayuga Lake, N. Y. He spent the years of his youth with his widowed mother at Bottle Hill, now Madison, N. J., at her father's home, to which she had returned after the death of her husband. James B., at the age of fourteen, became an apprentice to S. A. Reed, a brick-mason in New York city, which occupation he followed there until 1832, when he emigrated to Jersey, Ohio, and the same year engaged in mercantile pursuits with his brother, Wickliff. The members of this firm, then known as W. Condit & Co., consisted of Wickliff and James B. Condit, Andrew D. Pierson and Knowles Linnell. July 31, 1834, James was married to Ananda Samson, daughter of Abram and Chloe Samson, of Madison, N. J. She was one of the sisters of the first wife of Wickliff Condit. In 1836 the firm of W. Condit & Co. dissolved, and the business was continued by James B. and Wickliff Condit, with B. B. Pierson (a brother-in-law of Wickliff) as an associate, under the name of J. B. Condit & Co. In 1846, this firm by mutual consent dissolved, and the business was continued in Jersey by B. B. Pierson & Co. James B. and Wickliff Condit then opened a dry goods store in the village of Johnstown (seven miles north,) associating with them a portion of the time, Rodney B. Condit, a son of Wickliff. To this place James removed with his family, where they lived in prosperity for thirteen years, when the firm dissolved and the business ceased. In 1859, he purchased a farm near Jersey, his former residence, to which he removed in 1860, and as he says, "followed the happy life of a farmer," until 1869, when he sold his farm and removed to Champaign, Ill., his only daughter and three of his sons having previously settled there. Here he engaged in the grain and coal trade in connection with his son-in-law, Beman C. Beach. In 1878, he retired from this business and removed to Penfield, Ill., taking with him his youngest son, Hobart, and resumed his former calling, that of a merchant, which continued until the Autumn of 1883, when he again abandoned the dry goods trade, and at present is a resident of Rochelle, Ill., engaged as a hardware merchant. He united with the Presbyterian church at Jersey, Ohio, in 1833, with his wife, Amanda, who came by letter from the church at Madison, N. J. On their removal to Johnstown they connected themselves with the Presbyterian church there, and were very active and useful in elevating that church to a high degree of efficiency, James being one of its elders. After they returned to Jersey he was elected to a like position in the Jersey church, but declined to serve. He was afterwards made an elder of the church at Champaign during his residence there. James and his wife are still in the enjoyment of health and activity, he at the age of seventy-two, and she at seventy-four—having completed nearly fifty years of married life. They have seven children, all but one married. Old age is dealing kindly with them both, and they are blessed with a competence of the good things of life.

"He that gathereth by labor shall increase."

He engaged in the dry goods trade at Cincinnati, Ohio, and has followed the business since boyhood. He says in one of his letters: "I have witnessed the rise and progress of manufactures in America, and the rise and downfall of more than fifty per cent. of those engaged in mercantile pursuits, during a period of fifty years." He is active in every measure of moral reform, and conscientious in politics and business, as well as in the more serious relations in life. He was captain of Company I, 26th Regiment New Jersey Volunteers. His commission dated September 4, 1862.

[180.] JAMES W. CONDIT (of Philip) was born in Morris county, N. J.; he married, December 20, 1843, Sarah B. Warner, born November 7, 1823. At the age of eighteen he entered an apprenticeship to the brick and stone-mason trade, and in 1837, at the age of twenty, he and his brother Alfred emigrated to Wood county, Ohio, where he remained during life, which was one of sobriety and usefulness. In 1843, he settled on a farm near Tontogany, and soon after his father, Philip, moved from New Jersey and purchased land in the vicinity. James, by prudence and industry, became possessed of one of the most attractive homes and productive farms in north-western Ohio. Alfred H. Condit, of Mansfield, Ohio, says: "No one who has visited him and his devoted partner in life, surrounded as they were by a numerous and entertaining family, will ever forget the kind hospitality extended to them while under the roof of this comfortable home." The death of James caused a vacancy in Wood county difficult to fill. The elements of Puritanism were so blended in his nature, that the four cardinal virtues—temperance, fortitude, prudence and justice—were prominent characteristics. James was an elder of the Presbyterian church at Tontogany, and a few Sabbaths before his death assisted in his last communion on earth. A kind husband, a devoted father and a Christian citizen, beloved by all who knew him, leaving an untarnished name and an unsullied character, he died November 7, 1882, aged 65 years.

Alfred Condit, at seventeen, made the trip from New Jersey to Wood county, Ohio, on foot, with his brother James W. Active and industrious in youth, he developed into an energetic man and citizen. He was for many years extensively engaged in shipping cattle and sheep to the New York market. Public spirited and generous to a high degree, he became very useful in the early improvement of that portion of the State. He was an active member of the Congregational church, and died in 1868, at the age of forty-eight. His eldest son, Harvey W. Condit, occupies the old farm of his father, Alfred, who had received it from his father, Philip Condit, the title to which was directly from the government.

[197.] PHILIP CONDIT (of Daniel Day) was born at Orange, N. J., 1808. At the age of 17 he commenced to learn the shoe-making trade with Peter Campbell, where he remained two years. He then spent a short time as a clerk for Aaron Peck, of Orange. In 1828, he became engaged as a clerk for Amos W. Condit of the same place, and remained in his employ until 1843. During that year he emigrated to Jersey, Ohio, where he engaged in the shoe trade with Elijah B. Pierson, one of the firm of J. B. Condit & Co. In 1846, he became a member of the firm of E. B. Pierson & Co., successors to the last named firm, which carried on a dry goods business, and also a shoe and harness manufactory. It continued with but little change until the death of Mr. Pierson in 1876, when it dissolved. Philip was a member of this firm during the whole period of its existence, and during the later years of this time he also managed a farm of one hundred acres. His experience in the early years of his business life made him exceedingly cautious and accurate in all his commercial relations. On the third of September, 1834, he was married to Jemima Condit, of Orange, N. J., [see page 63,] and on September 3, 1884, with eighty members of the Condit family, they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, at the residence of their eldest son at Jersey, Ohio. Among those present at this gathering were two brothers and two sisters of Mrs. Condit, five members of the family of Jotham, whose average age was seventy-four years; and of the family of Mr. Condit, there were present two brothers and one sister, whose average age was sixty-three years. It was an unusual gathering of the Condit family. Philip and Jemima are spending the evening of life at the home of their eldest son, at Jersey, Ohio, in the enjoyment of a quiet and comfortable old age.

[203.] IRA A. CONDIT (of Daniel Day) was born at Orange, N. J. He learned the trade of carriage-trimming with William Pickett, of Newark, N. J., where he remained until 1846, in which year he was sent by his employer to sell carriages at New Orleans, La. He soon after returned to New Jersey, and in the Autumn of the same year emigrated to Jersey, Ohio, where he became a partner in the firm of Elijah B. Pierson & Co., who were engaged in the general merchandise business, and also in the manufacture of harness, boots and shoes. He was married at Bloomfield, N. J., April 14, 1847, to Ann E. Dodd, daughter of Josiah Dodd. She was born September 30, 1824. He returned to Ohio, accompanied by his wife, his sisters, two brothers and his aged mother. The firm with which he was connected at Jersey, continued until the death of Nelson Pierson in 1864, when the manufacture of boots and shoes was abandoned, and the store and harness shop continued, under the firm name of Condit, Pierson & Co., until the death of E. B. Pierson in 1876, when the firm dissolved. It was succeeded by the firm of C. W. Condit & Co., which still exists. Ira A. Condit, in 1854, bought a small farm, on which he has since resided. During the more active years of his life he was prominently engaged in public business in Licking county, and for a number of years held the office of county commissioner. He has quite frequently served as trustee and guardian of funds belonging to minor heirs and orphans, and much of his time is still occupied in this position of trust. He has been for a number of years an elder of the Jersey Presbyterian church. His wife, Ann Elizabeth, was a faithful Christian woman, and, although an invalid, confined to her house and generally to her room for ten years previous to her death, her influence in church work, and in her family, was quite extensive. She died September 3, 1875.

[300.] REV. IRA M. CONDIT (of John) was born in Georgetown, Mercer county, Pa. In youth he spent two years at Rev. J. S. Travelli's boarding-school for boys, at Sewickly, Pa. He entered Jefferson College in 1852, and graduated in 1855. It was during the latter part of his college life that he was converted and joined the home church during the pastorate of Rev. J. M. Shields. In 1856, he entered the Western Theological Seminary, and had nearly completed his course of study when there came an urgent call for a missionary to China. Many of the faculty pointed to Ira M. Condit as the one, and after consultation with his father it was decided that he should go. On the first of March, 1860, he was married to Laura E. Carpenter, a talented teacher in the Female Seminary at Granville, Ohio, and at once began the journey to Canton, which was completed in about five or six months. Their voyage across the Atlantic and Indian Oceans was made in a sailing vessel. Here, again, a course of study in a difficult language became necessary before anything could be accomplished in the great life-work before him. During their stay in Canton the house in which they lived was destroyed by fire; by this and other misfortunes they suffered much loss of property, but their lives were spared. After a residence there of five years, Mrs. Condit's health had failed to such a degree that a change of climate became necessary. They sailed across the Pacific Ocean and spent one year in Napa, California, where Mr. Condit preached during their residence. Mrs. Condit's health was not restored by the change, and they again resumed their journey by way of the Isthmus to New York. They returned immediately to the friends of Mrs. Condit in Lima, Ohio, where she died December 6, 1866. Mr. Condit subsequently went to Girard, Pa., where his parents and only sister then resided, and was stated supply of the Presbyterian church there. He remained three years, when he received an urgent request from the Board of Foreign Missions to return either to China or to the Chinese in California. He obeyed the call and went to California. After laboring there for two years, he was married in April, 1872, to Sawantha Knox, who had been a teacher in various schools of note, and who has since proved herself a most earnest and useful missionary. Their missionary life in California has been spent at San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland, where they now reside, devoting their time and energies to their special work. The labors of Mr. Condit in the various fields he has occupied, have been successful, and no doubt many souls will be as seals to his ministry.

[421.] JULIA CONDIT (of Wickliff) married, April 28, 1851, William Lenington. She died December 29, 1859. Soon after marriage Julia moved to Galena, Ohio, with her husband, where he was engaged as a merchant. In 1856 they removed to Champaign county, Ill., and settled on a farm in what is now Condit township. A married sister and two married brothers, with their families, accompanied her, and in a short time they were followed by several other young married people from Jersey, Ohio. This colony was soon organized into a Presbyterian church in Condit township, which still exists. In 1859 and 1860 six men and women of this settlement were removed by death, among which number was Mrs. Lenington. Being kind hearted and ambitious, her interest in the little church had no bounds; her anxiety for the welfare of other members of the colony, and her efforts in behalf of all, were too much for her frail nature.

Part VI.

DESCENT OF ISAAC CONDIT,

(OF PETER) ORANGE, N. J.

SIXTH GRANDSON OF JOHN, THE ANCESTOR.

ISAAC CONDIT was born at Newark, N. J., in 1711 or 1712. He married and lived on the west side of Main street, east of Centre street, Orange, N. J. It is not known whom he married, as there seems to be no record concerning him or his wife. He was living in 1754, as Rev. James Hoyt, in his History of the First Presbyterian Church (or Mountain Society) of Orange, states that Isaac Condit, with others, was credited with work done in demolishing the first meeting house. He probably died in middle life. None of the male descendants of Isaac remain in their ancestral home.

Supplement.

CONDITS OR CONDUITS, DESCENDED FROM FIELDING CONDIT, A NATIVE OF ENGLAND, WHO SETTLED IN MARYLAND.

THIS genealogical record was well advanced before we were aware that there were any Condits in America, who were not descendants of John Condit, of Newark, N. J. Letters have been received from parties who bear the name of Condit and Conduitt, whose ancestry could not be traced from their limited knowledge of their lineage, until a communication was received from Madison Conditt, of Stone county, Arkansas, in which he says:

"My grandfather, Fielding Conditt, came from England and settled in Maryland. He had seven children—four sons and three daughters. Two sons and all the daughters, with the mother, were murdered by the Indians and Tories in 1776 or '77. Fielding, my father, and John, his brother, were the only survivors. All trace of John is lost to the family. My father moved to North Carolina, where I was born in 1812; father then moved to Tennessee in 1815. I moved to Arkansas in 1846; had five brothers and seven sisters; brothers all dead; two sisters dead. The names and residence of my surviving sisters are as follows: Mrs. John Luckey, Nashville, Tenn.; Wm. Bruce, Joshua Goad, Wm. Draper, John Ray and Jesse Beasley; the last five live in Smith county, Tenn. I have nine children, all living in this county."

This letter is dated at Marcella, Stone county, Ark., April 19, 1882.

Mrs. Susan J. Price, of Bradford, Ark., under date of April 2d, 1882, says :

"I am a great-granddaughter of John F. Conditt. I cannot tell you anything about the births and deaths of his children, with the exception of my grandfather, John D. Conditt; he died January 17, 1863; his wife, Susan, died July 3, 1863. James Monroe and James Madison are still living; for information address James M. Conditt, Chestnut Mound, Smith county, Tenn., or James Madison Conditt, Buck-Horn, Independence county, Ark."

Under date of May 11th, 1882, she writes :

"My grandfather was John D. Conditt; he had nine children—the oldest, my father, was born October 10, 1822, and died August 9, 1872. Their names are, Francis Marion, (my father,) William Henry, Horace Jefferson, Kitty Harriet, Sarah Margaret, Luther Alexander, John Fielding, Martha Elizabeth and James Monroe. William Henry lives in Tennessee; Luther died in 1863, John died in the army; my father's wife was named Elizabeth H., born in 1823, and died October 13, 1868.

"My name is Susan J., born October 22, 1852. My brother, William G., was born April 25, 1856, and Charles H., September 29, 1864; he died August 26, 1870. I was married to W. B. Shelton, June 18, 1871, and had two children by him—Harry Lee, born August 22, 1872, and Carrie Bell, born October 11, 1875, died September 26, 1876. My first husband died in four years. I then married Joseph W. Price; I have two children by him—George A., born December 23, 1877, and Joseph A., born March 31, 1880. There are a great many young Conditts, both in Stone county, this State, and also in Smith county, Tenn., and Crittenden county, Ky."

Miss Alma Yeakey, formerly of Cave-in-rock, Ill., now a resident of Perry county, Ohio, writes under date of March 25th, 1882:

“About twenty-five years ago, or perhaps longer, John Condit and family came to Butler county, Ky., from Smith county, Tenn. He had three brothers that I know of—Madison, Bennett and Washington, and I believe there was a Monroe, but I am not quite sure; I do not remember his sisters' names. John Condit married Susan Zachary; his children were, William, Francis, John, Horace, Luther, James, Martha, Sarah and Kitty.

“John Condit was once a very wealthy man; his wife was of a very aristocratic and wealthy family, and when she married him they discarded her, but she knew John was a good man and of a very good family. Their eldest son, William, remained in Tennessee; I don't know whether he still lives; the last I heard of him he was living and very wealthy.

“John Condit afterwards removed to Crittenden county, Ky., where he and his wife died. Their son, Francis, married Lizzie Manner, an educated lady; Horace married Sarah Davis; Kitty Condit married James Edgar Yeakey; she was my mother; I am an orphan girl, nineteen years of age; papa died October 6, 1880; mamma died January 24, 1881; I have two sisters, ten and eight years of age; I support my sisters and myself by teaching school.

“James Edgar Yeakey and Kitty Harriet Condit were married January 17, 1861; James E. Yeakey was born April 3, 1834; Kitty H. Condit was born February 26, 1840. Their children were, Susan Almira, born October 16, 1862; Richard Grant, born July 1, 1864; Arthur Clay, born January 14, 1866, died November, 1867; James Alpheus, born October 24, 1867, died 1867; Myrtilla I.,

born October 11, 1871; Cora Maria, born September 2, 1873."

We have not given this letter in full, but only such as related to the genealogy of the family.

Willie G. Conditt, of Marion, Kentucky, says, under date of December 23, 1883:

"My grandfather's name was John D. Conditt; he had four brothers, as follows: James Bennett, James Madison, James Monroe and Washington. My grandfather moved to this country from Smith county, Tennessee; his wife's name was Susan; he had five sons, whose names were William, Francis Marion, (my father,) Horace, John Fielding and James; daughters—Kitty, Sarah and Martha. I am sorry I cannot give you more information."

From the record given below we are led to the conclusion that the ancestor of Alexander B. Conduitt, of Indianapolis, Ind., was John, the son of Fielding, the ancestor of this branch of the family.

John Conduitt, of Greene county, Tennessee, married Patcy Landrum. His sons were Willis Green, who married Malinda Morland; Daniel Wesley and John Garrard; his daughters—Sarah, Patcy, Eliza and Candace.

James Conduitt, a brother of John, had four sons—John, Jarber, Henry and Wilmington; one daughter, who married — McDonald, of Clark county, Ind.

Willis Green Conduitt, (of John) had Alexander B., Cincinnatus C., Washington L., Penelope, Matilda and Elizabeth.

Alexander B. Conduitt, (of Willis Green) married Melissa Hardwick; had John Willis, Henry Columbus, Allen Washington, George, Sarah, Laura, Mary and Elizabeth.

The foregoing facts are all that we have been able to obtain in reference to this family of Conduits; some of the early records of the family were destroyed by fire.

MUNN FAMILY.

THE following, taken from Savage's Genealogical Dictionary, are all the facts known of the Munn ancestry in this country: "Benjamin Mun or Munn, of Hartford, Conn., died November, 1675; served in the Pequot war, 1637; removed to Springfield, Mass; married in 1649, Abigail, daughter of Henry Burt, w dow of Francis Ball; his widow married Lieut. Thomas Stebbins. Children, Abigail, 1650, married Thomas Stebbins, Jr.; John, 1652-1684; Benjamin, 1655; James, 1657; Nathaniel, 1661.

"John, (1652), was in the great fight at Turners' Falls; he left John, born March 16, 1682, and Benjamin.

"James, (1657), of Springfield, was in the fight at Turners' Falls, 1676, and settled at Colchester.

"Daniel Munn, of Milford, died 1666; left will; inventory £42. Samuel Munn, of Woodbury, 1680, may have been of a different family, as he is said to have come from Milford; his family is unknown; had Jane and Amy, baptised 1680; Mary, baptised 1681; Daniel, baptised 1684, and Samuel, baptised 1687."

Family tradition denotes that the ancestors came from England or Wales. The time of their settlement in New Jersey remains in doubt. Three brothers, Joseph, Benjamin and Samuel, came to New Jersey, from Connecticut, about the year 1750. Their father was probably John Munn, of Branford. Joseph and Benjamin settled in Orange, N. J., while Samuel located in Morristown.

Joseph was born in 1721 and died in 1815. He married Sarah Williams, of Matthew, who was born in 1724 and died in 1798. Children, Isaac, 1749-1811; John, 1755-1793; Sarah, 1759-1848, married Matthias Dodd, born 1753, drowned at Coney Island, 1801; married second, deacon Amos Harrison, 1755-1832.

INDEX.

FOR convenience of reference the following Index has been made out separately for each Part. The pages given after those bearing the name of Condit, refers to their birth, and as each are numbered, no difficulty will be found in tracing the further history of the family. Where children are known to have died under five years of age, their names do not appear in the Index.

In classifying the names of persons other than Condit, those only have been indexed who married into the Condit family. The names of the children can usually be found immediately following that of their parents.
