DEDICATION.

Whatever meed of praise or blame may fall to the lot of a maiden effort in the region of the purely mechanical is due to myself; that which results from sympathetic appreciation is due to my good wife to whom this work is lovingly inscribed.

INTRODUCTION.

"We ought to think more of what our ancestors would think of us than of what we think of them."

—President Stryker, of Hamilton College.

The present attempt to formulate a "Tree" of the Okely family is strictly in the nature of work that is pioneer. It can hardly be said with truth that there were found "no foot-steps either to guide or to warn," for details were not lacking, but as far as could be ascertained, the materials had never been brought together in systematic form.

The difficulties of such a task need not be dwelt upon. It is highly gratifying, however, to be able to say that that portion of it which might ordinarily seem tedious and perfunctory, has been made light and pleasant by the kind co-operation and uniform courtesy of the relatives.

The editor especially wishes to express his acknowledgments to Miss Elizabeth B. Gara, of Lancaster, Pa., without whose kindly aid it would have been impossible to grace the enterprise with some of the earlier and more interesting events in connection with the Okely family. Also Mr. Thomas Wilson, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., by his council and friendly advice, contributed in no small degree; certainly, without such help and moral support anything like success would have been difficult.

Finally, submitting the work for approval, the editor has little fear of its reception, but leaves his readers to judge whether, as the charity boy said of the alphabet, and the senior Weller of matrimony, it is worth while to go through so much to get so little; or, whether they will agree with the junior Weller and "wish there vas more of it."

Indeed, the editor looks with pleasure on his work, however defective, and delivers it to his kinsmen with the spirit of one who has endeavored well.—EDITOR.

Like to a plank of driftwood afloat on the watery main,
Another plank encounters, meets, touches, parts again ;
So man is floating ever on life's unresting sea,—
We meet, we greet, we sever, parting eternally.

TOWNSEND

OKELY, OF BEDFORD, ENGLAND.

PART FIRST.

The most trustworthy information points to John Okely and Mary—maiden name not given—as our “first parents,” so to speak.

Presumably, John Okely was of purely English stock, but it is just possible there may have been an Irish branch to the tree, as there are Celts in this country who spell the name O’Kelly. This is speculation, however, which must be left to the antiquary.

We are informed that John Okely and Mary, his wife, are buried in St. Paul’s churchyard, Bedford, Eng. But little is known of them.

John was one of three brothers, the other two being Peter and James.

James is known to have come to this country in the early days, and after an interval returned to England and became a minister of the Established Church. He was only a multiple great uncle of the present generation, but it would be interesting to know something further of him.

Peter Okely seems to have been better known. One account gives his birth as April, 1654, and his death 1712. The same authority says he lived in Emerton, near Olney, and that he died at Bedford, England.

Peter is described as “a rich and covetous old bachelor who used to say that ‘John Okely would never be a half-penny the better for anything he had.’”

Going to London on business he became suddenly ill, and desired that a place be taken for him in the Olney coach, but through mistake it was reserved in the Bedford stage, where he arrived much worse and soon after died there intestate.

A place called "Trumpeter Meadows" on which was a good stone dwelling, was bought with Peter Okely's money, and it was said the man who occupied the house after Peter's death became suddenly and unaccountably rich. The account then adds ingenuously, "very probably money or bills might have been hidden in the house."

The Olney "Register Book" records the burial of John Okely, October 30, 1672, and that of Mary Okely, widow, May 11, 1681.

By the union of John and Mary there were two children, Francis, and Ann, spinster.

Francis married Anne, surname unknown, and by this marriage we have John, born in Bedford, England, 1721, who died in this country 1792.

Francis and Anne Okely are also buried in St. Paul's church yard.

Part of this relation is conjecture, but perhaps as near the truth as the mathematical demonstration contained in the statement that "The area of a circle equals the square of the radius multiplied by 3.1416." That is, 'near enough for practical purposes.

The positive information in regard to the Okely pedigree on the paternal side dates from John Okely, born 1721. This is our ancestor who held positions of trust and emolument under the United States government during the Nation's struggle for independence.

There is good reason for thinking that Francis and Anne were the parents of John Okely just named, but this seems doubtful.

As for any knowledge that might be obtainable prior to 1668, such an attempt was rendered hopeless by a disastrous fire in that year which destroyed all the Olney Registers up to that time.

* * * * *

The foregoing, as well as certain parts of that which follows, was adapted from material furnished by the courtesy of Miss Gara. On referring to the same source we find that John Okely, afterwards Assistant Commissary General in the Federal Army, came to America under the guardianship of August Gottlier Spangenberg, a Moravian missionary, who afterwards became a Bishop. Spangenberg had already been to this country in 1735, as somewhere near that date he founded the Moravian Church here. He established Moravian settlements in Georgia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, etc.

His protégé must have been religiously inclined, as the good Bishop took such a fatherly interest in him. At this time our ancestor was just twenty-one years old.—[ED.]

OKELY, OF BALTIMORE, MD.

John Okely, born in Baltimore 1785, was a son of the Commissary General. After the death of his father in 1792, the property was divided between himself and an only sister, Elizabeth, who married William Buck. The mother, who had been Margaret Moore, the widow of Mathew Graeff, passed away just three years before the death of her second husband.

John Okely's share of the estate consisted of a goodly sum of money, and land on the Conestoga river. The money was invested in business enterprises in Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C. He also owned merchant vessels, but during the war of 1812-14, his financial interests suffered greatly by land and sea.

One of his greatest losses, and one which John Okely felt keenly, was some rascally treatment of Stephen Girard. There are those still living who will not be surprised at the intimation that John Okely's descendants might have been many dollars richer if it had not been for Stephen Girard, the founder of the College for Orphan Boys, located in Philadelphia, at a cost of $2,000,000.*

Becoming disheartened under repeated discouragements, John Okely finally gathered together the remnants of his fortune and went into partnership with his brothers-in-law,

*One of Girard's biographers says of him, "Although he could sometimes act the part of a benefactor to the community, it is said he never had a friend."

D. H. and J. W. Wilson, in the manufacture of salt. This was at Harmony, Butler County, Pa., about seventy-five years ago. The firm had also a general company store. The business was fairly profitable for a time, but improved methods of production and close competition soon forced them to the wall.

John Okely died of dropsy, of which he had a slight attack. It was thought his life could have been prolonged but for the ignorant diagnosis of his physician.

OKELY CLAIM AGAINST THE U. S. GOVERNMENT.

By referring elsewhere in this work, it will be seen there are good reasons for thinking that the U. S. Government is indebted to the descendants of Commissary John Okely. In a moral sense at least, there seems to be no doubt whatever that such is the case; a view which is sustained by the records of the Historical Society of Philadelphia, as well as the traditions of the family. Unfortunately, evidence of this character, seemingly conclusive to those most nearly concerned, would hardly stand in a court of justice.

About fifty years ago, receipts showing this indebtedness were in the possession of the family, or perhaps the family solicitor, in Butler, Penna., but for some unaccountable reason disappeared.

Reference to the records of the Historical Society shows that in 1795 a claim was brought before Congress. This was but three years after John Okely's death. Failing to recover, the matter was dropped, but opened again in 1825, about one year after the death of John Okely, Jr. Once more the heirs were doomed to disappointment, and the case has not since been revived.

The chances are that when Congress was petitioned the first time the evidence necessary to recover was in the possession of the claimants. If, therefore, they failed at that time, when the matter was fresh in the minds of those concerned, what hope of success could there be now, when there is no written evidence whatever. The original receipts are lost. They were not lost when the case was presented in 1795, yet it was not allowed. Furthermore, the claim was long ago outlawed by the statute of limitations.

Presumably duplicate papers were filed in the Government archives at Washington, but as the Capital was burned by the British in 1814, it is more than likely they were destroyed at that time.*

In view of these circumstances, "Castle-building, while not altogether a bad employment where hope has laid the foundation, is nevertheless rather a heartless one where imagination has to draw the ground plan as well as the elevations."—[E.D.]

* "The British, under General Ross, entered Washington City in 1814, and burned the Capitol. This included the Congressional library, which contained 3,000 books."

COPY OF RECORD

TAKEN FROM THE "HISTORICAL SOCIETY" OF PHILADELPHIA, PA., AND FROM OTHER SOURCES.

A TRANSCRIPT BY MISS ELIZABETH B. GARA, OF LANCASTER, PA.

The subject of this sketch was born in Bedford, England, March 22, 1721, and died at Lancaster, Pa., May 15, 1792, aged 71 years. He arrived in Philadelphia June 7, 1742, on the ship "Snow Catherine," Thomas Gladman, Captain. The ship left London, England, March 15, 1742.

John Okely was a member of the colony called by the early Moravian writers, "The First Sea Congregation." He came with Bishop Spangenberg, to whom he was as a son. He assisted in founding the Moravian church and college at Bethlehem, Pa.

He married three times; on March 9, 1743, to Johanna Robbins, by whom he had several children who died young. Johanna died March 31, 1745. On October 16, 1745, he was married to Elizabeth Home, who died December 23, 1775. She came from Berwic-on-the-Tweed to New York May, 1738, and joined the Moravians 1745. Left no issue. On February 8, 1780, he married Margaret Moore Graeff, widow, whose maiden name was Moore. She had been the widow of Mathew Graeff, of Lancaster, Pa., to whom she was married February 7, 1769, and who died at Bethlehem July 1, 1779. Their daughter, Elizabeth Okely, was born in Bethlehem May 19, 1782, and their son John was born there April 23, 1785. March 3, 1788, with his wife and children, John Okely, Sr., removed to Lancaster, Pa., where the wife died April 1, 1789.

John Okely, resided in Bethlehem in 1774, was a Justice of the Peace, and at one time an itinerant evangelist for the Moravian church, principally for parts of Burks, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties.

While Assistant Commissary General in the Quartermaster's Department, his pay was $160.00 a month.

a. This transcript says John Okely was born in Bethlehem, Pa., April 23, 1785. His only living child, Mrs. Isaac E. Wade, Sr., says he was born in Baltimore, Md.—EDITOR.

b. The designation Assistant Commissioner General may not be correct as applied to John Okely. The records of the "Historical Society" vary as to the title, sometimes giving it as Deputy Quartermaster. (M. E. B. H.)

OUTLINE BIOGRAPHY.

BY THE EDITOR.

OKELY, OF BALTIMORE.

SIXTH GENERATION.

Caroline Okely married twice. First to John C. Wilson, her second cousin. The second marriage, at New Brighton, Pa., was to Richard D. Morlan, father of W. S. Morlan, who married Elizabeth Wilson.

Richard lost his life in New Brighton by a fall through an outer cellar-door. His wife died in Brooklyn, L. I., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Bishop.

John M. Okely, who married at Pittsburgh Katherine S. Murphy, was financial manager in the Fort Pitt Works, Pittsburgh, Pa. In 1857 he formed a partnership with Scaife Atkinson and Okely, also of Pittsburgh. They were outfitters for river steamers. From Pittsburgh he removed with his family to Dubuque, Iowa, thence to New York, finally returning to Pittsburgh. He died in Allegheny City, Pa.

Susan Ann Okely, born in Baltimore, Md., 1814, married in 1834 Isaac E. Wade, Sr., in Harmony, Pa., and came to Pittsburgh the same year. Mr. Wade was a partner in the Fort Pitt Works at this time. His health becoming impaired he was advised to go South. He accordingly settled in Houston, Texas, where he died in 1850. He was buried there.

His widow, with her youngest child, Isaac, came North early the following year and settled in New Brighton. At this time the other two children, Lois and Charles, were in Irvington, N. J., at a boarding school conducted by the Rev. John L. Chapman.

Eliza Okely married Thos. A. Barker about 1843, and settled in New Brighton.

Lavinia Okely married Milton Townsend and settled in the same place, but for some years resided in Pittsburgh.

SEVENTH GENERATION.

Elizabeth Wilson married W. S. Morlan, a lawyer, who was the son of Richard D. by a former marriage. Settled in New Brighton.

Alice A. Wilson, sister of Elizabeth, married at New Brighton Dr. H. M. Bishop, and went to live in Sharon, Pa., but later settled in Brooklyn, L. I.

Albert E. Morlan, born in New Brighton, was apprenticed to a jeweler, and after learning the trade went into that business in Belize, British Honduras. Later on he accepted the position of United States Consul at that port, serving under two administrations, one Democratic and the other Republican, resigning in 1898. Married in New Orleans, La. (See last page of Miscellaneous.)

Mary Morlan, sister of Albert E., widowed by the death of her first husband, John Burt (to whom she was married at New Brighton), went West and bought a small farm at Lamar, Mo. In 1883 she married Saml. C. Cotterill, and settled on a farm in Kenoma, Barton Co., Mo.

John M. Okely, Jr., was a Captain in the Civil War in Sickle's brigade, and served with distinction. About the time of his marriage he engaged in the brokerage business in Pittsburgh and became quite wealthy. He died suddenly in San Francisco, Cal.

Charles I. Wade, settled in Western Pennsylvania about 1853. He engaged successively in the banking and insurance business in Pittsburgh, and finally retired in 1897. Married in Pittsburgh 1864.

Isaac E. Wade born in Houston, Texas, came North when five years old, eventually settled in Pittsburgh, and engaged in the railroad business. This was about 1863. In the early part of 1872 he took a clerical position in the Tradesmen's National Bank of Pittsburgh, and after leaving that institution four years later, once more secured employment in the railroad business, this time with the Pennsylvania Company of the same city. Married at Grace Episcopal Church, Chicago, Ill., 1883.

Frank A. Barker went into the banking business in Beaver Falls, Pa. While out hunting in Beaver County he lost his life from the accidental discharge of his gun.

Wade Wilson married in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1868. He succeeded his father, J. W. Wilson, in the milling business at New Brighton. After disposing of this he became a traveling salesman of mill machinery. His eldest child, Frank, lost his life by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of a boy companion.

Harry T. Barker, brother of Frank A. Barker, married and settled in New Brighton. He went into the banking business with his brother, but subsequently became resident city engineer at New Brighton.

H. B. Okely (Oakley) has for many years been employed in the general offices of the Pennsylvania R. R. at Philadelphia.

Emily O. Townsend, married in New Brighton in 1888, and settled there.

Miss Mazie Okely and her sister Emily, live in Philadelphia with their brother Harry. Emily is an art teacher.

EIGHTH GENERATION.

Carry M. Morlan was born and reared in New Brighton, but early in life drifted West. She married twice. First at White Rock, Kansas, to Mr. Andrew L. Milligan, and next at Hardy, Nebraska, to James W. Longfellow. She now lives on a farm in Hardy.

Charles W. Wade was born in Pittsburgh. For a number of years he was employed in the business department of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Soon after his marriage which took place at St. Augustine, Fla., in 1895, he migrated west and purchased a fruit farm in Redlands, Cal. Subsequently he took a clerical position in the Union Bank of Redlands, but retained the farm, where he still resides.

Alice Morlan studied art while pursuing the occupation of school teacher. At the present time, and for some years past, she has had a studio and art school in New York City.

(a) The descendants of Elizabeth Okely, sister of John Okely, settled in the Eastern part of this State, chiefly in and around Philadelphia and Lancaster, although some of them moved to the far West. Henry M. Baer, a grandson, died in Salem, Oregon. His brother, Samuel C. Baer, is employed by a Pittsburgh firm in the toy business.

(b) It will perhaps be of interest to know that any of the Okely descendants, I believe, after fourteen years of age, are eligible as sons and daughters of the "American Revolution."

TOWNSEND.

So much for the paternal side of the pedigree. The record on the maternal side is fairly complete for nearly 300 years. Of this branch of the Okely family Richard Townsend must be placed first. He can be traced in a direct line through Alisanna Wilson, 1790.

Richard Townsend was born during the reign of Elizabeth, although at its close. The house of Stuart was just coming into power, and Lord Bacon was at the height of his popularity. Richard Townsend was a cotemporary of Sir Walter Raleigh and the English patriot, Sydney. His boyhood was spent when Shakespeare's genius had reached its full fruition, and before the question was raised as to whether Shakespeare wrote his own plays or whether they were written by some other man of the same name.

Nine generations of Richard Townsend's descendants have been born since he himself first saw the light.—[ED.]

NOTE.—One noticeable feature of these pedigrees is the great number of children in the earlier generations, the most prominent being the family of Daniel Hoopes and Jane Worrelow, which shows 17 children. Evidently the troubles of this union were chiefly little ones.

Another marked peculiarity which stands out in bold relief is a certain mildness of temperament, which is nevertheless tempered by a dogged persistence in the pursuit of right—the moral code always kept in sight, but with no great parade or asceticism. This is doubtless the Quaker element.—[ED.]

TOWNSEND.

COURTESY OF S. E. AND C. K. CHAMBERLIN.

Richard Townsend was born in Gloucester, England, 1602. His wife's Christian name was Elizabeth,—surname not given. They had two sons, Richard and William.

Richard Townsend, Jr., married Ann Hutchins 1677, and in 1682 came to Pennsylvania in company with William Penn on the ship Welcome. He settled in Chester county, and later removed to Philadelphia.

William Townsend married ? His son, Joseph, married

Martha Wooderson in 1710, and came to America in 1712. They settled in Chester County, Pa.

Richard Townsend, Jr., died at the residence of his nephew, Joseph Townsend, of East Bradford, Chester County, Pa. From these two, uncle and nephew, are descended the Townsends of Pennsylvania.

NOTE: The present generations of Townsends and Hoopes are to be congratulated on their ability to trace their descent e regione from so old and distinguished a family as that of Richard de Guylpyn, born in England about 1175, of French parents, or perhaps Norman French. In all probability there are many of the name in this country who are direct decendants, although spelling the name Gilpin. Prominent among these we find Henry D. Gilpin, an American lawyer and classical scholar, born in Philadelphia in 1801. He graduated at the University of Pennsylvania in 1819, was admitted to the bar in 1822, and soon became a distinguished jurist. In 1840 he was made Attorney General of the United States. He died in 1860. (Allibone.)—[Ed.]

(ADAPTED.)

THROUGH THE COURTESY OF S. E. AND C. K. CHAMBERLIN.

Joshua Hoopes, surname perhaps spelled originally Hoops, was born in Skelton, in Cleveland, Yorkshire, England. He was a yeoman, or gentleman farmer.

With their three children, Joshua and his wife, Isabel, came to America in the ship Providence, arriving September 10, 1683. During the Civil War, in 1648, he was a cornet in a regiment of horse.* This couple located in Bucks County, Pa.

See family record for Daniel, and Daniel's son, Thomas, who married Susanna Davies.

David, son of Thomas last named, together with his wife settled in New Garden Township, Chester County, and in 1801

*A cornet of horse had the old rank of Fourth Lieutenant, and bore the standard. There was a similar office in the Infantry, but both were abolished in 1872.

removed to Middle Falls, Beaver County, afterwards known as Brighton, and at the present time, 1898, Beaver Falls. In 1743 David Hoopes was accidentally drowned while crossing the Beaver River in a skiff. He was then 68 years old.

Joseph Hoopes, son of David, was married in Wilmington, Del., and removed to New Brighton, Pa., in 1801.

Joseph Hoopes' descendants, through his wife, Eleanor Hamilton, trace their lineage from the time of King John, something over 700 years.

“That time of life when leaves are none, or all, or few; bare, ruined choirs where once the sweet birds sang.”—Shakespeare.

WILSON.

James Wilson, born April, 1806, was reared by his uncle, Isaac Wilson, and was first employed by him at the Salt Works, Harmony, Butler County, Pa.

Subsequently, Mr. Wilson was apprenticed to Edward Hoopes, a maker of wagons and buggies, and later, about 1830, went into business for himself in New Brighton, Pa., Main street, in the same line. After his marriage, which took place in 1837, he built a frame residence on a portion of the lot he had purchased for his wagon shop. This was near a brick building owned by David Hoopes and next to Jimmy Boies' tavern.

During the rest of an active life, until his retirement, Mr. Wilson resided in a home which he erected at the corner of Broadway and Apple Street, as these streets were then called. This was one door below the residence of Benj. Rush Bradford.

He spent a few years in Washington, D. C., with his two children, Thomas and Alisan.

At the present time, February, 1899, and for some years previous, Mr. Wilson has resided with his granddaughters Silliman in New Galilee, Pa., having reached the ripe age of nearly 93 years. His health is excellent, but unfortunately, since he was 65 years old, he has been hopelessly blind. He bears this affliction with resignation and Christian fortitude. He has spent most of his life in Beaver County.

Jas. Wilson is the father of Thomas Wilson next mentioned.—[Ed.]

Thomas Wilson, the son of James just mentioned, is a great-great-grandson of Christopher Wilson.

At the age of sixteen the subject of this sketch was apprenticed to David Woodruff, of Salem, Ohio, in the manufacture of carriages and buggies. At nineteen he returned to his home at New Brighton, Pa., and joined his father in the same business. Later on he migrated to Marietta, Iowa—regarded as the “far West” in those days—and opened a shop for making heavy plows for breaking prairie.

Mr. Wilson, who had always been a student, afterward engaged in the study of law with Messrs. Finch and Crocker, of Des Moines, Ia., and in course of time opened an office in Marietta, Iowa, where he was fairly successful.

At the breaking out of the Civil War, Mr. Wilson was among the first to respond to the country's needs, serving as captain in the Second Iowa Cavalry and the 44th Infantry until the close of the war, after which we find him in Washington, D. C., where he resumed the practice of his profession, chiefly before the Court of Claims and the United States Supreme Court.

As United States Consul, Mr. Wilson served his government successively at Ghent, Nantes and Nice, and while abroad improved his opportunities to study prehistoric anthropology, and at the present time, 1898, occupies the responsible position of Curator in the National Museum and Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D. C., holding also a professorship in the National University with the title of LL. D. In recognition of his scientific labors, Mr. Wilson has been made Commander of the Order of Isabella la Catolica by the Queen Regent of Spain, and the same in the Order of Leopold Premier by the King of Belgium.

As Mr. Wilson is still living it would perhaps not be in good taste to use panegyrics, however much one might be tempted to do so. Suffice it to say that at least among his friends and acquaintances all eulogy is quite unnecessary.—
[Ed.]

DE GUYLPYN.

COURTESY OF S. E. AND C. K. CHAMBERLIN.

In 1206, during the reign of King John of England, the Baron of Kendal gave the manor of Kentmere to Richard de Guylpyn for his valor in slaying a wild boar which infested the forests of Westmoreland and Cumberland. From this circumstance Richard de Guylpyn took his armorial device, which reads:

A field, or ; a Sanglier, or boar,
Sabled, armed, Turks Gules.

Richard Gilpin, of the ninth generation—spelling of surname changed in this generation—had a son William who was a captain in the civil wars of York and Lancaster. He was killed in the battle of Bosworth Field, August 22, 1485.

Edwin Gilpin, of the tenth generation, had a son George who was a distinguished man of letters. George was a minister at the Hague for Queen Elizabeth.

Bernard Gilpin, thirteenth generation, was a distinguished English divine, born in Westmoreland, 1517.

WEST FAMILY AND CONNECTIONS.

Ann Gilpin—fifteenth generation from Richard de Guylpyn—married Major Thomas West, son of Sir Thomas West, who was of the family of Lord de la Warre. Thomas, a son of this union, married Mary Deane, and moved to Concord, Chester Co., Pa., in 1712, where he bought land. Thomas had ten children, one of whom, Eleanor, married James Robinson, and by this union we have Rachel Robinson, who married Thomas Hamilton. Eleanor Hamilton, of this marriage, was united to Joseph Hoopes. Joseph was the son of David Hoopes and Esther Townsend, and a brother of Susanna Hoopes, who married Isaac Wilson, whose daughter Alisanna married John Okely of Baltimore, born 1785.

Thus we find that the Okely descendants are collateral, but not lineal, descendants of Richard de Guylpyn. [See chart B.—ED.]

MISCELLANEOUS.

JOHN OKELY'S SERVICE UNDER THE GOVERNMENT.

A TRANSCRIPT.

The will of John Okely of Bedford, Eng., was probated at Lancaster, Pa., in 1792. Will book F., page 352.

By reference to "Pennsylvania in the Revolution," Vol. 2, page 4, pages 591 and 592, on the 21st of December, 1774, an election was held in the court house of the county. Thirteen men were elected, and among the number was John Okely. From this number was elected a standing committee of correspondence consisting of six members, one of whom was John Okely.

At a meeting of the general committee held at Easton, Pa., July 9, 1775, John Okely was chosen with four others to represent his county, Northampton, in Provincial Congress, held at Philadelphia, January 23, 1775.

On the 6th of May, 1775, he is on record with his committee of correspondence as directing the formation of military companies, and directing that each member be provided with one good fire-lock, one pound of powder, four pounds of lead, a sufficient number of flints and a cartridge box. The records of the War Department at Washington show that he was Assistant Commissary General under General Robert Lettes Hooper.

Amount owing John Okely by government for disbursements when stationed at Bethlehem, Pa., first of 2,788 pounds, 55 shillings, then additional amounts of 2,317 pounds, 14 shillings, 7 pence, and another disbursement of 3,206 pounds, 13 shillings, 8 pence. Altogether over 8,000 pounds—$40,000, which was never paid.

Kendal, the birthplace of Richard de Guylpyn, the founder of that family, is one of the most charming localities in all England. It is situated in the North, in what is known as the "Lake Country," and is made additionally famous as the birth-place of Wordsworth, Coleridge and Southey, who were called the "Lake Poets."—[ED.]

Bedford, John Okely's birthplace, is an agricultural and manufacturing centre, and is situated about fifty miles north of London, and has a population of thirty thousand.—[ED.]

Gloucester, (Glo'ster) is a city of about forty thousand inhabitants, and lies 150 miles west of London, near the Bristol Channel.—[ED.]

Skelton, a town of about six or seven thousand population, is in Yorkshire, near the coast.—[ED.]

Benjamin West was born in Springfield, Delaware County, Pa., October 10, 1738. He was a member of the Society of Friends. His most noted paintings are "Death of Wolf," "Departure of Regulus," "Battle of LaHogue," "Death on the Pale Horse," "Christ Healing the Sick." The original of this latter painting is in the British National Gallery. A copy is in the possession of the Pennsylvania Hospital at Philadelphia.

It is said that West, on being asked to contribute to the hospital fund, gave the managers a copy of this noted painting. It was soon after exhibited throughout the United States, and earned a nice sum of money for the Hospital. In 1792 Benjamin West succeeded Sir Joshua Reynolds as president of the Royal Academy.

West's biographers speak of him as eminent. This is scarcely the word to use. His art treatment is hard and mechanical, and while displaying great talent, it nevertheless lacks that element of greatness which is the offspring of genius.—[Ed.]

PARTLY ADAPTED FROM INFORMATION FURNISHED BY THOMAS AND ALISAN WILSON OF WASHINGTON, D. C., GREAT-GRAND-CHILDREN OF CHRISTOPHER WILSON.

A tradition says that Christopher Wilson, the father of John Wilson, who married Alisanna Webster, was a Quaker preacher of some note in the North East of England, perhaps Yorkshire.

Christopher visited Maryland prior to 1760, and on his return found that his son John was engaged to be married "out of meeting." His father then urged John to come to America. This he did, landing at Joppa, Md. As the vessel approached the landing—always an event of interest—the girls of the neighborhood assembled on the bank, and as each young man came down the gang-plank the young women laughingly made choice of their future spouse. When John Wilson appeared, Alisanna Webster, who was among the girls, said, "That is my beau; I'll have him."

John Wilson subsequently returned to England, but with permission from meeting, and the consent of his parents, returned to America and married Alisanna Webster. They lived at Stafford, on the Susquehanna River, about five miles above Havre-de-Grace, Md.

The old mill and stone house were still standing in 1868, but were unoccupied and going to decay.—[Ed.]

TO FIND THE EXISTING RELATIONSHIP OF ANY MEMBER OF ONE FAMILY WITH THAT OF ANOTHER BRANCH.

e. g.—What is the relationship between No. 69 “Okely of Baltimore” and No. 29 “Hoopes?” As the chart indicates, the Hoopes connection joins that of Okely of Baltimore through No. 36. From this it is readily seen that No. 36 was the great-grandmother of No. 69, or indeed of any member of the eighth generation of Okely. The relationship of No. 29 to No. 69 is therefore that of great uncle, since 29 and 36 were brother and sister. If we wish to trace back still farther in the same line we have only to remember that the children of a great uncle bear the relationship of second cousin, their children third, their's fourth, and so on. Other tracings may be made in the same way.—[ED.]

The written detail of the de Guylypyn line shows nineteen generations to Eleanor Hamilton. As fourteen of these show a direct descent from father to son, it is deemed unnecessary to diagram that portion of the family. This will account for the omission from Chart B of all names back of that of Ann Gilpin. The earlier details of this branch will be found elsewhere.—[ED.]

The marriages shown in the charts use squares for the males and circles for the females. Dotted lines indicate certain connections between the various families.—[ED.]

The use of “half” numbers, e. g., 25½ Townsend record, indicates that there is no further record of that marriage.—[ED.]

O.—Okely of Bedford, and No. 1 Okely of Lancaster refers to the one person.

No. 5.—de Guylypyn and No. 29 Hoopes is the same.

No. 36.—Hoopes and No. 15 Okely of Baltimore are identical.

No. 29.—West and No. 66 Townsend is the same person.

No. 29.—West and No. 29 Hoopes are one and the same.

No. 32.—Townsend is the immediate connection for Okely of Baltimore through the daughter No. 65, who married No. 35 Hoopes.

No. 6.—Wilson record and No. 35 Hoopes record will indicate the connection between the families of Wilson and Okely.—[ED.]

NOTE.—Just as the work is receiving the last few touches deemed necessary before handing it to the publisher, a book finds its way to the editor's sanctum. It has for its author Mr. Albert E. Morlan, late United States Consul at the port of Belize, British Honduras. The title of the work is "A Hoosier in Honduras." The book is well written and of absorbing interest from start to finish. It deals chiefly with the social and political aspect of Honduras and vicinity, and includes much of its early history and folk-lore.

This seems hardly the place for an extended review, but I am so well pleased with Mr. Morlan's production that I feel at least some reference should be made to it.

It is written in a light, breezy style that is at once striking and unique, with a strong flavor of the tropics.

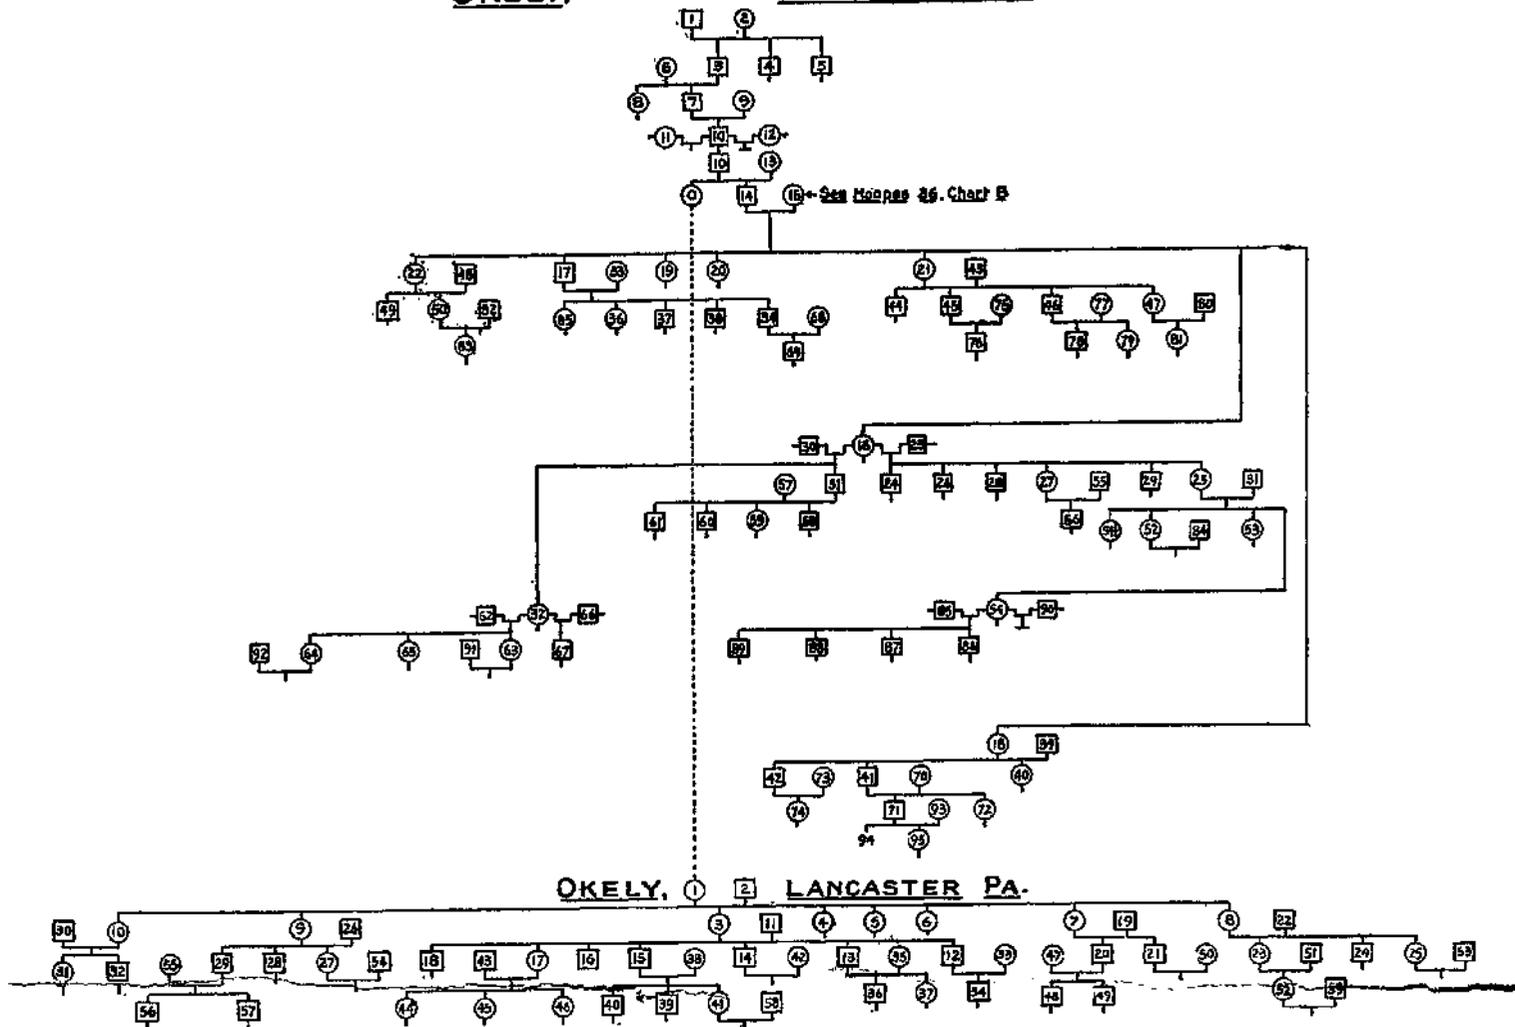

Mr. Morlan's somewhat candid admission in his preface that he stole a portion of it is quite humorous and taking, but will hardly be regarded in a serious light. Such a statement will at most be taken "with a barrel of salt" by those who have any acquaintance with the author. In spite of such assurance, there is enough of the context that bears the unmistakable stamp of Mr. Morlan's individuality, and the reader who knows him will have little trouble in making a separation, and returning to the rightful owner that which is not morally the product of his own brain.

To do the author full justice he is entitled to the thanks of any one who has the privilege of reading this entertaining book, and if it be true, as he says, that he is guilty of literary piracy, I feel sure that posterity will look with charity on a first offense, and not impose a heavier sentence than "six months twice a year."—[ED.]

CHART A

OKELY.

BEDFORD, ENG.

This child I to myself will take ;
She shall be mine, and I will make
A lady of my own.

The stars of midnight shall be dear
To her ; and she shall lean her ear
In many a secret place

Where rivulets dance their wayward round,
And beauty born of murmuring sound
Shall pass in into her face.

*This is the only recorded marriage of this line. [See Wilson record].

“Man is his own star; and the soul that can Render an honest and perfect man,
Commands all life, all influence, all fate,
Nothing to him falls early or too late.
Our acts our angels are, for good or ill;
Our fatal shadows, that walk by us still.”

WADE.

AN AFTERTHOUGHT.

"My ancestors came over on the Cauliflower and landed on Plymouth Church."

—Malaprop.

As this work was about ready for the publisher, a relative suggested that the Wade family be included, or at least so much of it as might indicate a straight line. As there is no decided objection to such a course I have done so, although it is too late to make a chart for it.

Benjamin Wade, the original progenitor of that branch of the family known as the "Jersey Wades," was born in Pembrokehire, Wales, a good sized town near the sea-coast. He was a yeoman, a farmer of the better class, probably Welsh, although tradition has always claimed England as his birth-place.

I point with some pride to the indisputable fact that our ancestor was not included on the passenger list of the "Mayflower."

Benjamin Wade was born in 1646, and died at the age of 54. He married Ann Looker, by whom he had three sons, Robert, John and Benjamin, Jr. Robert married twice. The first record is incomplete. Of the second marriage there were eight children—five sons and three daughters. One of these sons, Robert, Jr., was a soldier of the French war under General Wolfe, and died in a French military prison.

Robert Wade, Jr., was married and had nine children, one of whom was Captain James Wade, who married Hannah Hinman. By this union there were twelve children. Isaac, the sixth child of the marriage was united to Lois Osborn, November 15, 1786. There were ten children as follows: Elizabeth, William, Phebe, Jane, Elias, Sarah, Hannah, Mary B., Isaac E., Jr. Phebe lived to the age of one hundred years and one month. Sarah, "Aunt Sally," lived to be ninety years old. I knew them both very well. I saw Aunt Sally about a year before her death, and even at that age she had a lovely pink and white complexion that youth might envy.

The offspring of the eighth generation are five times great grand children.

Of either Captain James Wade, or his son Isaac, tradition says that he eloped with his bride, and that when on the deck of the vessel bearing them to this country he held her up, as he said "to take a last look at old England," she replied; "If I thought that, I would rather see a rope around your neck." In relating the story, my informant told me that it was, as her husband said, "her last look at her native land," for she never returned.—[ED.]

a. Isaac Wade died from an accident. He had various business interests, among them a tannery. A cow having died on his place, and his men refusing to skin the animal he performed that office himself with the result that he died of blood poison.

b. Elizabeth, who married the Rev. Gorsham Williams, was murdered by a tramp on Sunday morning while passing through a piece of woods on her way to church. She had given him food when he called at the house the day before. The man was hanged.

ERRATA.

Add to marriage of No. 17 to No. 33, on page 36 :

Wilson Okely, born August 26, 1844; died August 22, 1845.

Charles Knap Okely, born November 3, 1846; died August 23, 1847

On page 36, the initial D, in the name of Richard D. Morlan, No. 30, may not be correct, although it so appears on his tombstone. Birth should be February 18, not 10.

The dates given for the birth and death of John Okely, No 14, page 35, are the same as those used by the Historical Society. Family notes differ slightly. Alisanna Wilson's birth should read, "January 21, 1790."

Some of the "Composite" numbers are confused, but this is not of vital importance as the names are shown.
