A NEW WORK!

The private life of WASHINGTON,

With a great number of original anecdotes,

BY M. L. WEEMS,

Ci-devant Rector of Mount Vernon Parish, and, for fifteen years, the intimate of the grey-hair'd veterans of the last century, who were the neighbors and companions of Washington.

Criticism by Judge Brackenridge, dated Carlisle, Jan. 19th, 1809.

Dear Sir,

I have read and read again your publication; the life of Washington; and you will not understand me as acknowledging it to be without defects when I take notice only of its excellencies. These indeed are very great. You have combined, with great felicity, the useful and the pleasant; historical information and amusing anecdote. You have drawn from both urns, of tears and of mirth. With a sudden transition we have the pathetic and the comic, and both irresistible. Your style is always perspicuous, and occasionally noble; in flights of imagery and richness of expression, rising to the sublime. But the great excellence of your book is the morality of the sentiment. I do not know a better to be put into the hands of young persons to raise the mind to political and moral virtue. It ought to be introduced into all schools; and to be in every family. With regard to biographical merit, the delineation is such as to give a view of character, not on a parade day, but as independent of command or station. This is the painting which interests. It is that alone which makes a likeness; for a mere outline wanting the expression, gives no physiognomy.

I am, with much esteem, your's,

H. H. BRACKENRIDGE

ASTONISHING FEMALE ARTIST!

[Miss Rogers' performance is entirely different from the young lady's who was in this city about a year since.]

The inhabitants of Washington city & its vicinity are respectfully informed, that a more singular and surprising instance of the wonderful production of nature was perhaps never so apparently demonstrated, as in the case of Miss SARAH ROGERS, A young lady who has just arrived in the city, at Mr. Underwood's, next door to Mrs. Doyne's boarding house, Pennsylvania Avenue.

Miss Rogers is a native of New Hampshire. She was born without the use of any of her limbs, but the amends made in the exercise of her other faculties, surpasses all human belief. With her mouth only, she will paint elegant flowers and landscapes, mix colors, write, thread a needle, cut paper, &c. &c.

The curious, who are desirous of seeing the displays of genius exhibited by this young lady, and one of the fine arts exhibited in a most extraordinary manner, without the natural use of the hands and arms, and with the mouth only, are invited to improve the present and perhaps the only opportunity they ever will have of partaking of this delightful and rational amusement.

Hours of admission every day and evening, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 in the evening. Price of admittance 25 cents.

Charles County, Jan. 6—2aw3m.

NOTICE

BY Virtue of a decree of the hon. the high Court of Chancery of Maryland, the subscribers will offer at PUBLIC SALE, on the Premises on TUESDAY the 7th day of March next, the following Tracts of LAND, to wit: "The Ramble," "Hounslow," and the "Strand." lying and being in St. Mary's county, and adjoining each other, supposed to contain more than 1000 acres, and formerly occupied by Dr. William Lansdale, deceased. The above estate is situated in a healty and genteel neighborhood, about two miles from Leonardtown. The improvements consist of a large and convenient Brick Dwelling-house 4 rooms below and 4 above stairs, with a Kitchen adjoining, Meat House, Corn House, Stables and Granery, and a young thriving Apple Orchard. The Dwelling House stands on an eminence, commanding a view of the whole of the flat land on said estate which is esteemed to be of the first quality in the county and is well adapted to the culture of tobacco, corn, small grain, clover, &c. and is deemed the finest grazing land in the county. There is a fine stream of water that runs through this estate, on which has been heretofore a valuable Mill.

On the same day, by virtue of the above decree, the Subscribers will also Sell on the premises, Three other Tracts of LAND, called "Newcastle," "Hearts Delight," and "Back Acre," containing in the whole about 500 acres adjoining the above described estate—they were lately owned and occupied by Dr. John Reeder, deceased. The improvements on these lands are extremely valuable, consisting of a new Two story Dwelling House, Kitchen, Corn House, Granery, Corn Houses and Stables; there is likewise on this estate a valuable Mill in complete repair. This estate is rendered very valuable on account of the great quantity of Wood and Timber on it, and of the flat land which is adapted to meadow.

A further description is deemed unnecessary as persons who are inclined to purchase can view the premises; the title of which together with a plat of the whole may be seen on application to Mr. Enoch J. Millard of Leonard Town. This property will be sold entire or in parcels as may be deemed advantageous.

The terms of sale are that the purchaser of the whole or any part thereof shall give bond with approved security for the payment of the purchase money within eighteen months from the day of sale.

BY THE
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

WHEREAS by the first article of the terms and conditions declared by the President of the United States on the 17th day of October 1791, for regulating the materials and manner of building and improvements on the Lots in the city of Washington, it is provided "that the outer "and party walls of all houses in the said "city shall be built of brick or stone," and by the third article of the same terms and conditions, it is declared "that the wall of "no house shall be higher than forty feet to "the roof in any part of the city, nor shall "any be lower than thirty-five feet on any "of the avenues." And whereas the above recited articles were found to impede the settlement in the city of mechanics and others whose circumstances did not admit of erecting houses authorised by the said regulations, for which cause the operation of the said articles has been suspended by several acts of the President of the United States, from the fifth day of June 1796 to this day, and beneficial effects arising from such suspensions being experienced it is deemed proper to revive and continue the same with the exception hereafter mentioned.

Wherefore, I, THOMAS JEFFERSON, President of the United States, do declare, That the first and third articles above recited, shall be and the same are hereby suspended until the first day of January in the year one thousand eight hundred and ten, and that all houses which shall be erected in the said city of Washington, previous to the said first day of January in the year one thousand eight hundred and ten, conformable in other respects to the regulations aforesaid, shall be considered as lawfully erected; except that no wooden house covering more than three hundred and twenty square feet, or higher than twelve feet from the sill to the eve shall be erected, nor shall any such house be placed within twenty-four feet of a brick or stone house.

Given under my hand the first day of January in the year one thousand eight hundred and nine.

PROPOSALS

By THOMAS J. ROGERS & OTHERS,

(Of Easton, Pennsylvania,)

For publishing by subscription, a new and valuable work, to be entitled

THE AMERICAN SENATOR,

Or Select DEBATES in the Congress of the United States.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IN offering this work to the American people, the Editors deem little need be said in its praise. It is to perpetuate as well the names as the talents of the sons of America, and to rescue from oblivion the eloquence of the American Senate. It has long been a source of regret to the lovers of oratory, that hitherto the debates in the Congress of the United States have been suffered to pass into oblivion, or preserved only in the ephemeral productions of the day. Orations, which would have done done honor, to a Cicero or a Demosthenes, to a Chatham or a Curran, have been suffered to expire for the want of the fostering hand of a kind parent. No attempt has ever been made to give them a substance capable of enduring for ages to come. The Editors, proud of their country, and anxious to transmit to posterity monuments of her fame and her glory, are determined to publish in volumes the speeches that may be delivered by the Representatives of the people of the United States. These they are not ashamed to put in competition with the most eloquent of antiquity. If Rome had her Cicero, and Greece her Demosthenes, America had her Ames. If Great Britain boasts of her Burkes, her Foxes, and her Chathams, why may not America boast of her Madisons and her Dickensons, her Giles's and her Bayards, her Pinckneys and her Livingstons!

In reading this work, the patriot may rejoice that his country has yet her defenders, and liberty her advocates. The student may contemplate with pleasure and delight the manly eloquence displayed by his countrymen, while the statesman may here study the true interests of his country. All ranks and all classes will be interested in a work, that has for its object, to preserve and perpetuate the talents and eloquence of our enlightened statesmen.

In the formation of these volumes, the Editors will be guided by a strict and impartial attention to the merits of the speeches alone; and if, on any interesting question, a greater number of orations should be published on one side, than are to be found on the other, the Editors will not be considered as blameable. Nor can they be answerable, on which side, the strength of the argument will lie. Their object is to give to the world a fair specimen of American genius, and by publishing the debates on each side of any question which may be agitated, a better opportunity will be given to every citizen of thinking and of judging for himself. It is in this manner, and in this manner alone, by enlightening the people of the United States, and exhibiting every measure proposed or adopted in its proper colors, that the liberties of the country will be preserved.

Prefixed to the orations on any particular subject, a concise narrative will be given of the object of them, and the orations will be selected without reference to parties or politics.

The Editors had intended to have commenced their publication with the next Presidency; but as the debates, during the present session of Congress have been extremely interesting to men of all parties, the editors have thought it most proper to commence with them, as in all probability the debates during the ensuing legislature, will have a strong relation to the acts and proceedings of the present one.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work shall be put to press as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained to defray the expences of printing.

II. The debates of each Session will be comprised in a large Octavo volume, to contain about 400 pages.

III. The work shall be handsomely printed, on a good paper, with a new Small Pica Type, and delivered to subscribers at Two Dollars the volume in Boards. To non-subscribers the work will be enhanced.

IV. A list of Subscribers' names will be given at the end of the work.

☞ Orders from Booksellers and others will be promptly attended to.
