Administrative Information

Provenance

The papers of William T. Hornaday, conservationist, zoologist, and taxidermist, were given to the Library of Congress by Temple Hornaday Fielding in 1967. A substantial addition was given by the William T. Hornaday Memorial Trust and William T. Hornaday Conservation Trust in 1981 and more material was added in 1982 as a gift from Quinn Hornaday and Aline Hornaday. Additional papers were given by John Ripley Forbes in 1984, the University of Wyoming American Heritage Center from 1996 to 2007, and James A. Dolph from 2015 to 2016. Two letters were purchased from 1988 to 1989.

Processing History

The Hornaday Papers were processed in 1968 and expanded with the incorporation into the collection of Additions I and II in 1985-1986. Additional material received and purchased between 1984 and 2016 was processed as Addition III in 2016. The finding aid was revised in 2012 and 2016.

Transfers

Photographs have been transferred to the Prints and Photographs Division of the Library, where they are identified as part of these papers.

Copyright Status

Copyright in the unpublished writings of William Temple Hornaday in these papers and in other collections in the custody of the Library of Congress is reserved. Consult a reference librarian in the Manuscript Division for further information.

Access and Restrictions

The papers of William Temple Hornaday are open to research. Researchers are advised to contact the Manuscript Reading Room prior to visiting. Many collections are stored off-site and advance notice is needed to retrieve these items for research use.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of William Temple Hornaday (1854-1937) span the years 1866-1975, with the bulk of the material concentrated in the period 1906-1936. The collection consists of correspondence, diaries, journals, production material for articles and books, notebooks, financial papers, clippings, scrapbooks, memorabilia, and other papers reflecting Hornaday's career, particularly as director of New York Zoological Park (1896-1926). The papers are organized into nine series: Family Papers; General Correspondence; Speech, Article, and Book File; Camp Fire Club of America File; Miscellany; Addition I; Addition II; Addition III; and Oversize

Hornaday's various activities as taxidermist, collector, zoological park director, and wildlife conservationist are well documented; there are also deeds and property contracts for his ventures in real estate in Buffalo, New York. Reflecting Hornaday's family life is correspondence with his wife, Josephine Chamberlain Hornaday, and daughter, Helen Ross Hornaday Fielding, as well as exchanges of letters with other relatives in the Family Papers series and in the correspondence of Addition I.

William T. Hornaday became the first director of the New York Zoological Park in 1896 and remained in that position until his retirement in 1926. The need for wildfire conservation measures became his paramount interest during this period, and the correspondence in the collection contains references to his activities and campaigns in this endeavor. Correspondents of note include Edith Helen Franz, Madison Grant, Jack Miner, the New York Zoological Society, Henry Fairfield Osborn, John M. Phillips, Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft, and Woodrow Wilson.

Other prominent correspondents include Carl Ethan Akeley, Roy Chapman Andrews, Newton Diehl Baker, Daniel Carter Beard, William Beebe, Charles E. Bessey, Frank Buck, John Burroughs, Andrew Carnegie, Elliot Coues, Raymond Lee Ditmars, Theodore Dreiser, G. Brown Goode, Zane Grey, Carl Hagenbeck, W. J. Holland, Charles Evans Hughes, Martin Johnson, S. P. Langley, C. Hart Merriam, Maxwell E. Perkins, Gifford Pinchot, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt, Ernest Thompson Seton, George Shiras, John Wanamaker, and Henry A. Ward.

As president of the American Bison Society, Hornaday worked to prevent the extinction of the bison. He also supported such legislation as the New York (State) Bayne Act of 1911 and tariff measures to prohibit wanton wildlife destruction and helped raise money to establish the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund. Material pertaining to these activities is in the collection. For thirty years Hornaday maintained an interest in the Camp Fire Club of America and its camping and hunting programs. He wrote the music and words for a camp-fire song and saved many mementoes of the club's activities.

During World War I, Hornaday promoted preparedness and became a trustee of the American Defense Society. Under its aegis, he published pamphlets and a book, Awake! America (New York, Moffat, Yard and Co., 1918), materials for which are in the collection along with scrapbooks relating to other aspects of World War I, particularly the French war debt.

Topics among the voluminous writings in the collection include conservation, taxidermy, natural history, zoology, travel, and exploration. In addition to production materials for published works, there are several unpublished manuscripts, one of them about Hornaday's South American expedition for Henry A. Ward's, Canoe and Rifle on the Orinoco, as well as a number of chapters omitted from Thirty Year War for Wild Life and additions continuing the account to 1936. There are also manuscripts and typescripts of Hornaday's writing under the pseudonyms "Just in Playfair" and "Dudley York," his plays and poetry, and patriotic contributions from World War I.

Addition II consists of a typescript of Hornaday's unpublished autobiography, "Eighty Fascinating Years"; a doctoral dissertation on his early life; and a children's book about Hornaday by John Ripley Forbes.

Addition III consists of material relating to Hornaday's interest in taxidermy and wildlife conservation and career at the United States National Museum in Washington, D.C., and New York Zoological Park. Scrapbooks include clippings from published sources, handwritten notations, and inserts such as correspondence and pamphlets. Also included is Hornaday's buffalo hunting journal from 1886; a sketch pad containing drawings related to the buffalo hunt; and a diary kept by Hornaday about acquiring land for the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., followed by his field notes and initial surveys of the unmapped site of the New York Zoological Park.

Arrangement of the Papers

The collection is arranged in nine series:

- Family Papers, 1877-1956
