

AMERICAN OFFICERS HAVING COFFEE ON THE CHAMPS ELYSEES—A TYPICAL PARIS SCENE ANY BRIGHT AUTUMN AFTERNOON.
(© International Film Service.)

AMERICANS
IN FRANCE
AT BAYONET DRILL
OVER HURDLES.

From an American Official Photograph.

BOMBERS OF THE AMERICAN OVERSEAS FORCES ADVANCING FROM TRENCH TO TRENCH THROUGH BARBED WIRE ENTANGLE-MENTS AS A PART OF THEIR TRAINING.

READY FOR "THE COCK FIGHT"—A FORM OF PHYSICAL TRAINING IN DAILY
USE AMONG THE AMERICANS IN FRANCE.
(Photos © Committee on Public Information.)

COLONEL
THEODORE ROOSEVELT AT
COOPER'S HEALTH
FARM, WHERE HE AN-NOUNCED HE HAD LOST 14 POUNDS AND,
AT THE SAME TIME,
THAT SINCE BEFORE
HE LEFT THE WHITE HOUSE HE HAS BEEN TOTALLY BLIND IN
THE LEFT EYE.

In the group, left to right,
are "Jack" Cooper, Col.
Roosevelt, Mayor John
Purroy Mitchel, and Warren Barbour, former amateur champion heavyweight pugilist of America, called by Colonel Roosevelt "the best man I ever saw except
John L. Sullivan."
(© Western Newspaper Union.)

A GERMAN OBSERVATION POST, CONSTRUCTED
WITHIN THE HOLLOW OF A SHELL-BROKEN
TREE, LEFT STANDING ON GROUND
CAPTURED BY THE CANADIANS.
(© Western Newspaper Union.)

MEN OF THE AMERICAN OVERSEAS FORCES ATTENDING A MILITARY LECTURE BEHIND THE LINES IN FRANCE.
(Pictorial Press.)

AMERICANS VIEWING THE WORLD FROM A TRENCH DUG BY THEM BEHIND THE FRENCH FRONT.
(Pictorial Press.)