

HOUSE ON THE QUAI DES BATELIERS, HIP-ROOFED AND DORMER-WINDOWED, FAIRLY BLOSSOMS with French and American Flags, Posters and Colored Lights in Honor of Redeemed Strasbourg.

IN REDEEMED STRASBOURG: ANCIENT HOUSES at the Intersection of the Rue Bâin-aux-plantés and Rue des Tanneurs Bravely Flaunting the Colors of the Allies and the United States in Honor of the City's Liberation. (Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

WALKER D. HINES, Appointed Director General of the Railroads of the United States by President Wilson in Succession to William G. McAdoo.

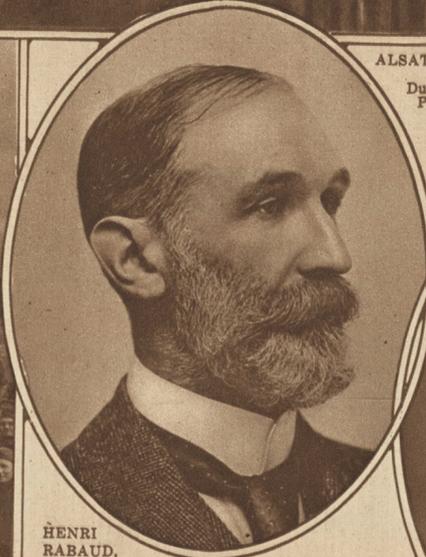

FRANCES PERKINS, in Private Life Mrs. Paul Wilson, Who Has Been Appointed by Governor Smith State Industrial Commissioner at a Salary of $8,000 a Year. (© International Film Service.)

ALSATIAN GIRLS, IN THEIR PROVINCIAL COSTUME, LOOKING OUT OVER STRASBOURG During the Triumphant Entry of President Poincaré and Premier Clemenceau, from a Lofty Balcony of the Famous Strasbourg Cathedral, the French Tricolor Flying at Their Side. (© Underwood & Underwood.)

AMERICAN TROOPS RETURNING FROM FRANCE ON THE UNITED STATES CRUISER SEATTLE, the Contingents Including the 4th Anti-Aircraft Machine Gun Battery, the 4th Anti-Aircraft Section of Large Guns, the 8th Anti-Aircraft Section, and the 809th Trench Mortar Battery, the Latter All Veterans. (Times Photo Service.)

HENRI RABAUD, New Director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Recently Elected One of the "Immortals" of the French Academy, Said to be the Only Director So Far to be So Honored.

GERTRUDE VANDERBILT in "Listen, Lester," at the Knickerbocker Theatre. (Campbell Studios.)