

FRENCH DESIGNERS
DICTATE SHORT SLEEVES FOR DAYTIME
FROCKS

AN OVER-DRESS OF GRAY SILK,
Its Edges Fringed for Trimming, Covers a Foundation of Chiffon in the Same Tone. There is a Wide and Picturesque Blue Silk Sash.

A SHADY GRAY GLYCERINED
OSTRICH PLUME COVERS THE
DARING BRIGHTNESS OF A GREEN SATIN MUSHROOM.

ROW UPON ROW OF LIME-COLORED
CHIFFON,
Folded and Slightly Shirred, and the Result is a Charmingly Becoming Daytime Hat.

SILK TRICOT
IN BLACK TRIMMED WITH SILK TRICOT IN WHITE TOGETHER MAKE UP THIS EFFECTIVE ONE-PIECE DRESS.

GOWN OF
BLACK SATIN
AND STRINGS
OF BLACK BEADS
Is Accented by an Exotic Flower at the Waistline Made of Jet and Bright-Colored Silk.

(Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

SIMPLICITY OF CUT IS THE PARISIAN CHARACTER-ISTIC OF THIS FROCK WITH A BODICE OF BROCADED TISSUE WORN WITH A SABLE BROWN VELOUR SKIRT.

A ROPE OF BLACK BEADS AND A STRAIGHT
PIECE OF BLACK VELVET,
But It Takes a French Artiste to Accomplish the Feat.

ENGLISH
TWEED GIVEN A DOSE OF PA-RISIAN TAILORING AND THE RESULT IS AN ALLIED PRODUCT OF CONSIDERABLE DIS-TINCTION.

EVER SO SLIGHT A VEILING OF FILMY MALINE IS SEEMINGLY CARELESSLY THROWN OVER A TETE DE NEGRE SATIN HAT.