

Le Palais d'Hiver, Once the Monte Carlo of France, Is Now an American Red Cross Hospital
Ed. Jacques.

One of the smaller rooms where the roulette wheel once hummed.

The Grand Salon and its magnificent decorations are now only for the wounded.

A concert for the convalescent in one of the splendid gardens of Le Palais d'Hiver.

The huge palm or stroll room is now peopled by heroes.

A side view of

Le Palais d'Hiver.

Meals are served under the glass roof and in the sunshine of beautiful gardens.
