

Here Are Some Members of the Volunteer Army of 250,000, Forming in Spite of Congress

© G. V. Buch, from Underwood & Underwood.

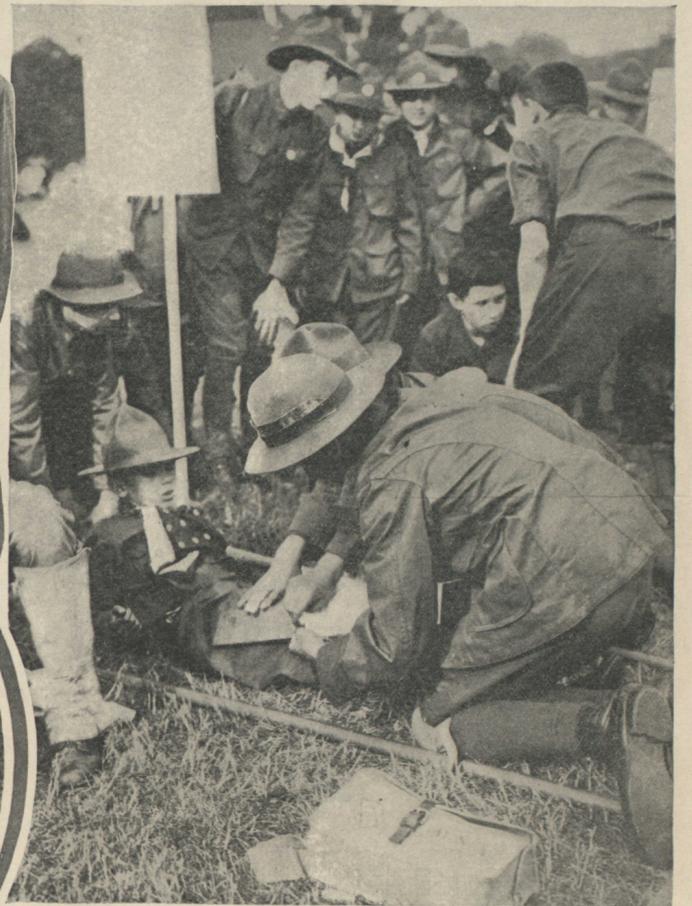

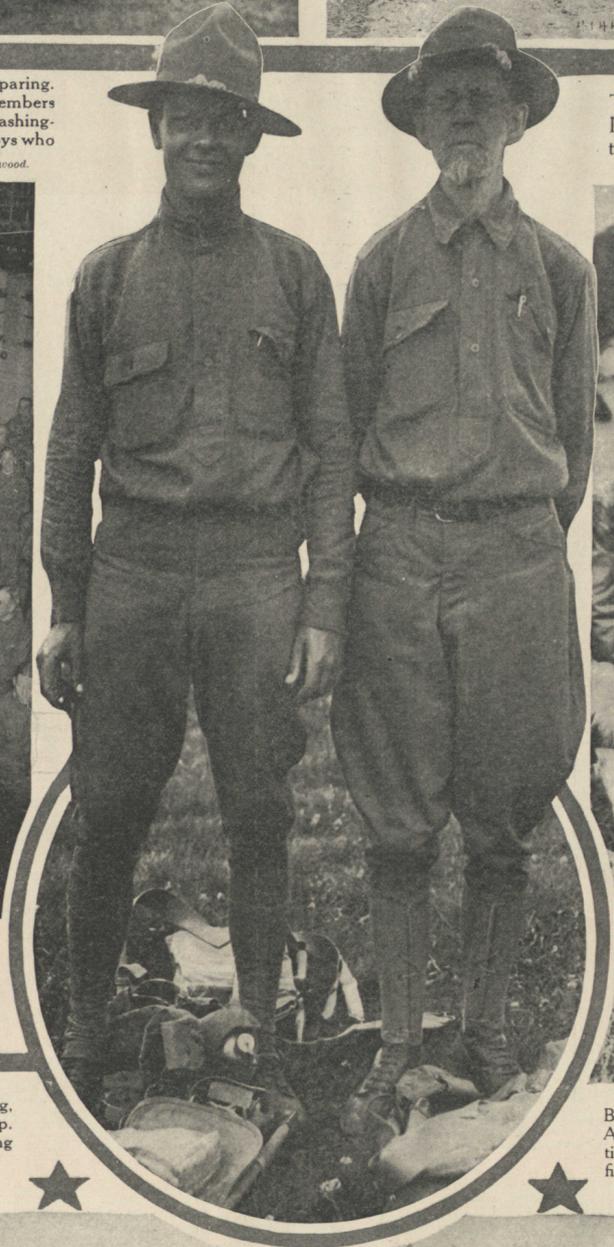

The Junior American Guard is one of the organizations of boys which is preparing. It has in various states a membership of 3,500. This photograph shows members of the New York Junior American Guard engaged in a sham battle at Fort Washington Park, New York. The Junior American Guard is largely composed of boys who go to Sunday school. They are of the church militant. © Underwood & Underwood.

The citizens' military training camp at Fort Ogelthorpe, Georgia. It is estimated that 5,000 Southern citizens will receive military training at this camp during the coming summer. International Film Service.

Boston business men listening to a lecture on military preparedness. More than 1,000 Boston business men are taking weekly military training one day a week in infantry and cavalry tactics. Press Illustrating Co.

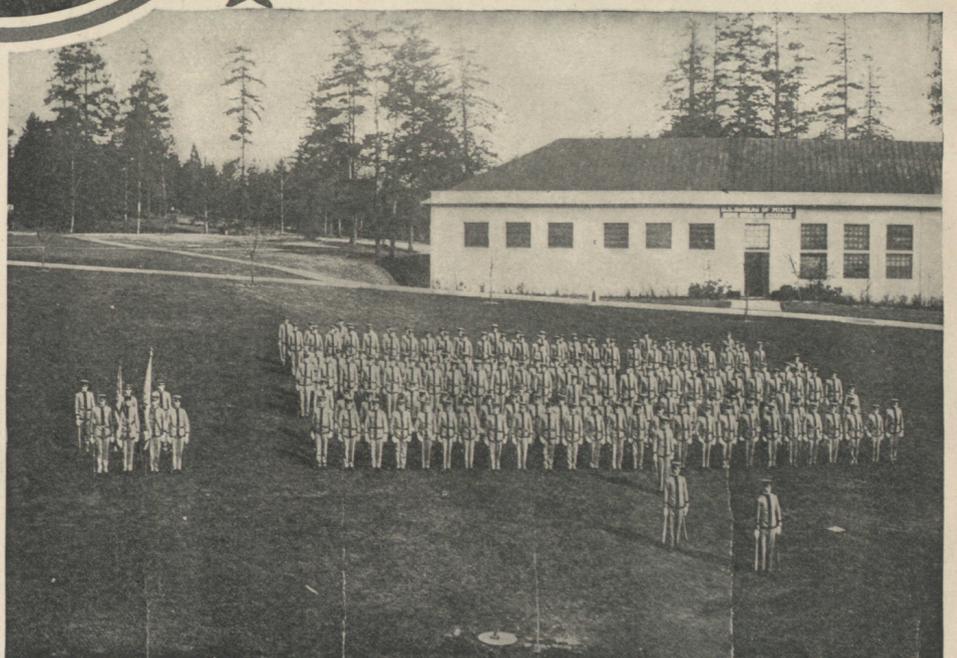

Boy Scouts of America in an annual rally at Central Park. The Boy Scouts of America are 172,000 strong. They do not receive a technical military education, but they are educated in first aid treatment and receive instruction which fits them to aid in secondary defence work. Underwood & Underwood.

Old and young at Plattsburg. F. F. Munroe and J. Winthrop Pickering, among the oldest and youngest "rookies" at the Plattsburg, N. Y., camp. Citizens of Pennsylvania to the number of 20,000 will receive military training at a camp at Lansdowne this year. © Underwood & Underwood

Business men at rifle practice at the Plattsburg, N. Y., citizens' military camp. This year, as last, business men from the Eastern, Southern and Middle West States to the number of 25,000 have enrolled for instruction at Plattsburg, the largest citizens' military training camp in the United States. © Underwood & Underwood.

University of Washington, Seattle, students at drill. More than 20,000 students in various state universities and colleges are receiving military training. College university men from the Atlantic to the Pacific are the nucleus of a volunteer army which could muster 250,000 men who have received military training. Press Illustrating Service.