

Dr. Elliott's thermometer performs astonishing antics when "Dodo" Warren immerses it first in hot coffee, then in iced water. The good doctor is amazed.

"Bobo" Brown (Walter Jones) mistakes Mrs. Elliott (Rae Selwyn) for "Slippery Kate," the apartment thief, and telephones for the police while "Dodo" (Miss Illington) holds her.

Avery Hopwood Wants You to Laugh When You're Primly Sure You Oughtn't To. In "Our Little Wife," With Margaret Illington's Aid, He Compels You To.

Photos. by White.

Dodo and Bobo sup in Bobo's bachelor's apartment while an angry husband, an apprehensive wife and a weeping fiance run hither and thither seeking them.

band, an apprehensive wife and a weeping fiance run hither and thither seeking them.

Francois, the waiter (Robert Fischer) explains the office of the footstool at supper.

Bobo makes up with his little Jellykins (Gwendolyn Piers) after a quarrel over Dodo.

Francois interrupts with a bottle of wine in time to find his instructions on the verge of being carried out.

"Go 'way from me!" says Angie when she finds her Bobo hand in hand with her supposed rival, Dodo.